Morrow Is Organized.

Pendleton East Oregonian.—Morrow county, like Umatilla county has perfected an organization to handle all future war work within its boundaries, according to Sam E. Van Vactor, prominent attorney of Heppner who has been active in the war work over there and who visited here over Sunday. The organization was formed very much along the same lines as in this county, except that the council of defense has charge of the organization. Hereafter, Morrow county will conduct her drives on a business basis, contributing her full share and nothing more.

At this time we have an acre of such ground listed, all in one piece, which produced abundantly last year. Owner has moved out of town and will let a responsible person take charge of the same, providing they will cultivate the soil and keep out the weeds. Water is handy for irrigation and the ground is situated within the city limits. First come first served and no charges made. Kulolia's Hawaiians Coming.

Kulolia's Hawaiians will be the attraction at the Opera House, Heppner, one night only, Sunday March 17, and once again the twang of the ukulele, will be heard, the beautiful tones of the steel guitar shall be enjoyed and the harmonious melodies of sweet Hawaii be sung as only the sweet voiced Hawaiians can sing them, and this also marks the return engagement of perhaps the best of all Hawaiian troubadours. This company since its last appearance here, some two years ago, has been touring the principal cities of the east and have just closed on the Pantages circuit of theaters. There are five boys and two Hula girls in this company and they are presenting their own spectacular musical product "The Paradise of the Pacific," with special scenery and electrical effects.

Mr. James Kulolia is one of the finest lyric tenors that has ever come to the States from the Sun Kissed Islands and is often called the Caruso of Hawaii, while Albert Iokepa is the master of the Steel Guitar and the two Princesses Helene and Romi are particularly graceful in the art of Hula Hula and there are a number of other prominent Hawaiian stars with this organization.

The Morning Oregonian had this to say about Kulolia's Hawaiians, who closed at the Pantages theater in Portland Sunday: "There are two big spectacular acts on at the Pantages this week, either one of which is big enough to decorate any one bill. One of these is Kulolia's Hawaiians, the regulation act of its kind, with two girl dancers and a quintette of men, picturesque in coloring and exceedingly pleasing as to music."
