MORROW COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER

TOO MUCH CENSORSHIP.

Ever since a bureau of public information was formed at Washington and a strict censorship passed on all matters of news, there has been objections presented on the part of this liberty loving people. As the Pendleton Tribune says, "the war department seems to be utterly lost in its policy or lack of policy in the matter of news censorship. It promises to keep the public informed of war conditions, and fails to do so. It asserts that the casualty lists will be promptly published, and then switches and refuses to publish them. This is a republic, not an oligarchy. The men in control of the war machinery appear to imagine that they are so infallible that mere dicta from them as to what is wise or what is unwise, must be accepted as final. They possess the West Point notion, which notion is usually wrong.

"Pray whose boys are they who are wounded, and who perchance are killed? Who is interested in the reception of prompt and accurate information, if not the families of the men. Do the arm chair warriors in Washington imagine the people are children, and that they cannot endure as well as cheer?"

One thing is certain. We are in this war until the very cause of wars is banished from this earth, let us hope, for ever. The American people are as settled on that idea just as firmly as they were ever settled on anything and the Yankee mind, once determined, will not be sidetracked by any false issues.

Then as long as nothing can daunt our resolutions, not even the painful gloom of wounded and dying, then why should the facts, especially after they have transpired, not be given to the people. The subject of press censorship introduces the now time worn phrase "that the administration is above criticism," yet loyal and constructive criticism may yet prove to have been the salvation of democracy and it may yet prove to have been the very thing that sped up the winning of the war so far as the United States is concerned. What mistake can the Government make by taking a free, intelligent thinking people into its confidence.

WHY NOT RE-ELECT THE GOVERNOR.

To read the enthusiastic encouragement given to Ben Olcott by some of our strong democratic contemporaries lead us to wonder of the whys and wherefores. It is the most unusual thing for a democratic paper to support a republican and still more unusual for a so-called independent-non-partisan (eleven times out of ten democratic) to fall into such generous ravings over a man of professed republican principles. Olcott may make a good governor of Oregon. He has made a good secretary of state. We question whether he would excel the present governor and might not make half as good.

Anyway there is no question about Governor Withycombe. All Republicans can vote for him with a clear conscience and a knowledge that they are going to get four years more of a good, clean, and progressive administration at Salem.

A vote for Moser or a vote for Anderson in substance would mean a vote for Olcott, for present indications are that they will not run strong but will pull more for Simpson or Withycombe. Simpson is showing more color everyday and may loom up amazingly strong at the finish. However, Governor Withycombe will have that substantial farming element lined up solidly behind him and with the new friends he has made since entering upon his present administration will probably carry him through to victory. And remember, there are no political barbed wire entanglements around the governor's position.

The man who had charge of the county road work down Cason Canyon is entitled to a lot of credit for putting that highway in excellent shape. The road bed is smooth and at the present time not dusty. The Cason Canyon road passes through some very light, alkali soil and for that reason it is a hard matter to build and maintain a good road bed the year round. But through the efforts of the road boss in that section, the road is now one of the best in the county.

There are a lot of patriotic people in Morrow county. When we say patriotic, we mean patriotic. We mean people who love their country and in loving their country, are ready and willing to make sacrifices. The buying of Liberty Bonds is not a sacrifice to the man of means. To him it is the safest investment in the world. But the man or woman who buys a bond, borrowing the money to buy that bond, and in reality paying the Government a premium for the privilege of helping the country and the boys over there, is the one who is making a sacrifice. Then the men of means are entitled to a world of credit and are fully patriotic for sacrifices are made in other forms. They are in the fight to win the war and are not only buying bonds, paying heavy income taxes and helping the Red Cross and other war activities in a financial way, but many of them are actually giving their time in a most liberal manner. It is safe to predict that Morrow county will never fall down on any proposition put up to her, for her citizenship is such that failure is unknown.

WAR RECIPIES.

(By Edythe Boyd.)

A number of requests have come to the domestic science department of our high school that we publish "war recipes" in the local papers, in order that a greater number of the housekeepers of Morrow county may have the benefit of the work done in our laboratory.

This work will be taken up by the members of the domestic science classes. No recipe will appear in these articles that has not been tried and found to be a good "Hoover food." In all our work it is our purpose to follow the rules of the Food Conservation Bureau and thus do our part in helping to win the war, by conserving sugar, animal fats, wheat and meat.

Recipes for war breads which will follow have been compiled by the Food Conservation Commission.

Rice Yeast Bread.

The rice yeast bread is very white in color, more moist than wheat bread and keeps moist longer. It is handled in much the same manner as wheat bread. The first dough however, is much stiffer and after once rising, the light dough is so soft that it cannot be kneaded with the hands. It should be stirred with a strong spoon and placed in the pans, looking much like a stiff drop batter. After baking, the upper crust is less smooth than that of our familiar wheat flour loaf.

The following amounts make two large loaves:

- One half cup of water.
- Four tablespoons corn syrup.
- Four tablespoons fat (vegetable oil.)
- One and half teaspoons salt.
- Seven cups boiled rice.
- Eight cups flour.
- One half cake compressed yeast soaked in luke warm water. (Other yeasts can be used but less wetting must then be used.)

Scald liquid if milk is used. Pour over fats, sugar and salt. Cool and add rice and flour and then knead. After a second rising bake 45 minutes.

"Face Value," with Mae Murray, star of Bluebird photoplays, comes to the Star theater on Friday. The plot in brief: A little girl escapes the squalor of poverty to make her own living. One of her early associates follows her and brings suspicion of crime upon her. She is sentenced to a reformatory, but escapes from her keepers by jumping from a moving train into the waters that swirl beneath the bridge. She is rescued by a young man with lots of money, who takes her to his home and induces his mother to take the girl into the family. Again the crook who had been her early accuser turns up at a social function and the girl, through this connivance, is suspected of a diamond robbery. The young man who has befriended her proves she is innocent and after all the girl's trials and tribulations comes the "happy ending" to climax a thoroughly good entertainment.

BESSIE LOVE IN "THE SAWDUST RING."
Bessie Love will make her first appearance on the screen as a bareback rider in her latest Triangle play, "The Sawdust Ring," by L. V. Jefferson, at the Star theater Sunday. It is a delightful story of the circus, and Bessie Love is said to make the hit of her career as the little girl, threatened with the poorhouse, who runs away and becomes a member of the huge family that live under the "big top."

The settings are realistic, for Bessie and her company traveled with a circus touring through California in order to film the principal scenes. Every detail, from the wardrobe tent to the main tent with the three rings, is shown. Among those in the large cast supporting the star are Harold Goodwin, Jack Richardson, Josephine Headley, Daisy Dean and Alfred Hollingsworth.
