ARE YOU A HOME GUARD BOOSTER?

Are you a home guard booster? Are you an active member of the home guard and are you attending drills regularly? There are more able bodied men in Heppner who have passed up this organization than there are those who have taken a live active interest. Just why any man would want to sit back and let the other fellows go out and drill to perfect an organization to protect that man's property, and not show the slightest interest, either of approval or disapproval, is something that is hard to understand. Yet the Heppner Home Guard is having a strenuous time for existence today, simply because too many men in this town have not got the pep, desire, ambition, patriotism or get-up to come out and help make the organization the success that it should be.

The time is coming, and its not far off, when the actions of a man will be questioned, because he puts up one excuse or another for not coming out with the home guard. One man may say that he doesn't have the time to give to it. Another man may say that he has had all the military drill he wants. Still another will say, "Whats the use of going down there night after night and playing soldier." Do such statements have the true patriotic ring? In time of war it is not ours to ask the reason why. The man who jumps from his post in the front line out over the top and across No Man's Land does not stop to question or reason why. It's up to him to get as many of those baby-killing Huns as he can, before they get him.

Of course it's not compulsory that a man attend or belong to the Home Guard. But a man's true sense of duty will tell him whether he should come out with the boys and show that he also is heart-and-soul in the fight to lick the Hun and that if anything comes up at home that requires physical force to keep law and order and protect our homes and the safety of our property, he will be on the job, helping to do just a little more than his bit. The moral effect of a splendid guard organization cannot be overlooked. HEPPNER NEEDS SUCH AN ORGANIZATION AND IT'S UP TO EVERY CITIZEN INDIVIDUALLY TO SEE THAT WE HAVE IT.

where other hose carts were located. Everybody had to stop and think deeply before they could remember where another cart might be found and where the hydrants were that might be attached.

We learn slowly, but we learn well. It is gradually simmering through our craniums that we must have adequate fire protection at all times. There may be worlds of water in reserve, yet if that high pressure so badly needed in any fire, cannot be had from the minute the gong rings, that fire may get under such headway that all the water in the reservoir would accomplish nothing.

We are learning the needs of a well drilled fire fighting squad. Monday's disaster must show us the calamity that lays in the lack of organization. Fewer men under the direction of a man who thoroughly knows his business, can fight more fire effectively than all the men in town under no authoritative direction.

We are learning the futility of building fire traps. Large two story buildings such as the one in which this fire started, can be nothing but fire traps of the first order. The difference in cost between wood on the one side and brick or concrete on the other is negligible, but the difference in fire resistance has been demonstrated thoroughly in Monday's fire.

It is safe to venture that buildings arising from the ashes of the old Heppner in this burnt section will be a striking contrast to those which went up in smoke.

million men in the battle line by 1919 is the latest edict of the war department, and such legislation as will make such an army a reality, is now being formed.

It is not a characteristic of this country to become disheartened at the prospects for a longer conflict. The steady and persistent effort of every citizen will be a means of making it shorter, and we can gain much courage and confidence from the favorable aspects of the outlook.

The food situation in both Great Britain and France is looking up each day, and Victor Boret has predicted that the crops in France this year will be the best since 1898.

The fact that there is now a prospect for the United States producing the largest crops in all her history means that we will be able to share generously with our allies, thereby making up what shortage may exist in their own crops.

The U-boat warfare is not disrupting allied shipping as the Huns once hoped for. In any event new ships are being launched in allied shipyards faster than they are being sunk by the submarine. And sinking ships of the allies does not fill the German bread basket, therefore hunger is bound to increase rather than diminish in the enemy countries. Conditions in Austria-Hungary are said to be the worst at anytime since the beginning of the war and Germany did not gain from the store houses of Ukraine what she once thought she would. Russians have been too busy stirring up the pot of revolution to look well to their food supplies and as a consequence crops are sparse and what the Russians have they will hoard and hang onto even if it brings forth a desperate struggle. This will necessitate a large German force to handle the situation and enforce the German peace, with which the Russians have been cursed.

THE FIRE.

It came at last. Heppner had been looking for it for years and now, since it has come and gone, the wonder of it is that there is any town left at all. Burning with furious intensity, the flames ate their way from house to house and block to block. A strong wind was its greatest aid. The frame buildings, the wood which was thoroughly seasoned by years of exposure to sun and wind, burned like thin paper. For the first twenty five or thirty minutes it seemed that everyone was helpless. There was no organization to take charge of the fire fighting. One hose was attached to a hydrant and the pressure was not there. Through inexperience, about 200 feet of hose was taken into the fire zone and was burned up before it could be withdrawn. Likewise a hose cart was left in the line of fire and ruined.

No one seemed to know, or worse yet, everyone seemed to know. There were more hoses on the job than there were firefighters. Men began to run around frantically, asking

THINGS ARE LOOKING BETTER.

The Allies appear to be gaining greater strength every day. The United States is going into the conflict with the view of a long war ahead and is preparing accordingly. Five

METHOD OF HANDLING WOOL CROP RECEIVED.

Definite explanations of the government's plans for handling the wool crop were received this morning by E. J. Burke, Pendleton's wool buyer, in a letter from his home in Boston.

The letter stated that advances to the growers are limited to 75 per cent of the value of the wool and that 6 per cent interest may be charged the grower up until the time the wool arrives in Boston or is taken from the railroad. At that time the government assumes the interest charge.

A new development is the decision that, after the time the government takes over the wool the consignor will get credit for 5 per cent of what the wool sells for, less the freight charges.

This means that the grower is required to pay the interest charge on his advances only for the 30 or 40-day period of shipping, and that thereafter, not only will the government assume the interest, but it will also pay interest on the remainder of the money due the grower until the wool is delivered to the manufacturer.

The buyer is allowed a 3 per cent commission on wool in the original bags, 3 1/2 per cent if graded. The government—not the grower—pays all the storage, insurance and carriage charges until the wool is turned over to the manufacturer.—Pendleton Tribune.

ANOTHER BLACK PAGE.

Every day the civilized world is receiving new information concerning the character of the German government and new evidence of the destruction it has wrought in the four years since it undertook to subjugate the world. The latest authentic testimony comes in a delayed cablegram from Moscow under the date of May 17, which tells that more than 1,000,000 of the 3,100,000 Russian war prisoners held in Germany and Austria-Hungary are total invalids. Half of them in the last stages of that plague. Many of the remainder are suffering from other serious contagious diseases. And these sufferers are being returned to Russia where there is a lack of food, proper accommodation and medical assistance. It is appalling! A million men, in perfect health when they were captured, turned into physical wrecks is a part of the price civilization is paying for the destruction of the Prussian military autocracy—an added price imposed by the inhumanity which has marked the Hun in his merciless slaughter. Day by day history is writing against the Hun the blackest pages in its record.—Portland Telegram.
