BEWARE OF BLANDISHMENTS OF A PREMATURE PEACE.

Admiral von Tirpitz, former German minister of marine, declared in a speech last week that "Germany must retain Belgium, economically, politically and militarily." Von Tirpitz is supported by a powerful and greedy party of "whole hog" maximalists who are demanding that the war be fought to an uncompromising conclusion that shall give Germany, in addition to political and economic control of central Europe, the orient and northern Europe, a broad highway to the British channel with all that implies of perpetual menace to England and France, and through England and France to the United States.

If these ends should be attained Germany's victory would be complete and crushing. But Germany, as Professor Guy Stanton Ford pointed out in an address at the Spokane war workers' conference, could yield Belgium and northern France in peace negotiations and still emerge victorious if permitted to hold her vast eastern areas now under conquest.

It is difficult, Professor Ford added to make that fact clear to the American people, but it is a fact of vital importance that should be thoroughly and quickly understood by the American nation, for if not clearly comprehended there will be constant danger of public opinion yielding to the glamour of premature peace movements.

With that end attained Germany would have won 70 per cent of her objectives and the kaiser would have enough of the glitter of conquest to perpetuate indefinitely his dynasty and all that is involved in the present system of autocratic government.

Dominating Austria-Hungary, Russia, Turkey and the Balkan states, Germany would then set about the building of a gigantic navy and the organization of an army of 20,000,000 soldiers—all preparatory to another and more gigantic war for world conquest. Against that peril Great Britain, France, Italy and the United States would have to maintain gigantic and burdensome armaments.

Germany will formulate her policies to fit the situation. If she should win her present drive the Von Tirpitz element will dominate and dictate the demands that will be put forward in the name of the kaiser. If defeated this summer on the western front she will put forward "compromise" overtures; will be willing to give up Belgium and vacate France in return for a free hand in middle Europe.

Against that danger we have been forewarned and public opinion must resolutely forearm itself.—Spokesman-Review.

What is Heppner doing for fire protection? Are we any better prepared today than we were two weeks ago? The old fire bell went with a lot of other city property, so it would not be an easy thing to sound an alarm. The town may not get off so lucky another time.

Wool is coming into Heppner at a lively rate these days, but very little of it has been sold up to the present time.

A pressing need exists in the Army for men experienced in handling mules, and before all future needs are met a recruiting campaign may become necessary. No difficulty has been experienced in getting men who can buy and handle horses, but blacksmiths are scarce.

There is a constant demand for butchers, and cooks are greatly needed. In several technical branches, particularly the Engineers, men for the higher positions are plentiful but the workers for the ranks are scarce. Experienced mechanics, especially those familiar with automobiles are always in demand.

More interpreters than can be used have applied for positions with the War Department, and applications for commissions as Army chaplains are also in excess of the need. The excess totals thousands in each case. Clerks for general work are plentiful, but there is demand for specialists. At present there is a surplus of dentists and pharmacists.

Men in Training Camps Have Equipment for Many Sports.

At every training camp in the country plans of the Commission and Training Camp Activities have been carried out to provide athletic facilities for the men. Baseball heads the list in popularity, and full equipment has been placed in the camps. More than 70,000 baseballs and 3,000 bats have been sent. At Camp Lewis, Washington, there are 16 baseball fields in use. Practically every company in each camp division throughout the country has its team, and there are company, battalion, regimental and inter-regimental leagues.

Every form of track athletics occupies the attention of men training at the camps. As many as 500 men have taken part in divisional contests and track meets have been witnessed by more than 20,000 spectators.

Where facilities permit, instruction in swimming is given. Men are first given land instruction and then sent into the water. Tennis courts have been built in every camp, one having 40 courts, and the sport is
