At Portland, September 5th, 6th and 7th. there will be held a big tractor and implement demonstration at which will be shown in operation nearly every tractor manufactured and sold on the Pacific Coast. These tractors will pull virtually every kind of tractor-drawn implement. The forenoon of each day will be given over to private demonstrations of tractors and tractor implements. The afternoons will be devoted to public demonstrations, showing all tractors in operation plowing in one field. This demonstration will be of especial interest as it will show comparative work of large and small tractors working side by side. There will be special tests under the auspices of the Oregon Agricultural College which will show the from the local yards on Sunday, the draw-bar horse power tests on unploughed ground and other features by W. L. Vincent, of Lena; two cars of various tractors. Said tests will be approved by the Society of Agricultural engineers.

The grounds are easily reached by electric cars and automobiles. For any information desired relative to the demonstration, or if hotel resersays it is a fine life. Mrs. Cochran Portland Implement & Tractor As-

Find Bock in Hydrant.

At fire drill Monday evening the indiant men took a good sized rock from one of the hydrants. Just how it came to be there is a mystagy, and it is believed by some that it was put there purposely. However, others think it possible that the rock found its way into the main at some time when repair work war being done on the main near the hydrant and that the pressure forced it ap into the hydrant. Regardless of how it got there the fact remains that it was doing no good whatever and served only to diminish the
