

Government Horses Wanted

I will be at McRoberts barn in Heppner Saturday, Aug. 24th—one day only to buy horses from 5 to 9 years old. Good chunks weighing from 1050 to 1400 pounds.

J. W. Baker

Town and Country.

Roy Cochran made a trip to Parkers Mill last Friday.

Dan Hanshaw, Black Horse farmer, was in the city Monday. Mt. Angel College, St. Benedict, Ore., the place for your boy.

Dr. C. C. Chick of Ione was a business caller in Heppner Wednesday.

O. J. Cox, Rhea creek dairyman and farmer, spent Wednesday in Heppner.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Rivers, of Ione, were Heppner visitors Wednesday afternoon.

Harvey McAllister of Lexington spent a few hours in Heppner Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Sweick are now spending their vacation at the coast and at Eugene.

L. Montrestelli, Pendleton monument dealer, was a business visitor in Heppner this week.

Ben Swaggart, of the Eastern Oregon Jack Farm, east of Lexington, was in Heppner Monday.

Andy Reed is spending a few days in town this week receiving treatment for an abscess on his neck.

A 10-20 and 12-25 Case Gas Tractor, guaranteed to be in good condition, for sale by Vaughn & Sons, Heppner.

Jay Cox and Frank Barlow, farmers of the Eight Mile section were transacting business in Heppner Tuesday.

Arthur Dykstra, Balm Fork farmer, was a business visitor in Heppner Wednesday. He was accompanied by his family.

Dr. C. C. Chick of Ione reports the birth of a fine girl to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Keithly of Eight Mile on Friday, the 16th.

The alive-to-the-times parent gives his son a college education. Mt. Angel College, St. Benedict Oregon. Rev. A. M. Meier.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryoth, accompanied by their two daughters, were tourists passing through Heppner Saturday last on their way home from the coast to Colville, Wash.

H. C. Githens left Tuesday evening by car for Arlington where he caught the night train into Portland. He will spend a few days in the metropolis on business.

Dick Reid, Eight Mile farmer, was in Heppner the first of the week. He is rather anxious for the wet weather to pass for he has yet considerable grain to harvest.

The advanced premium list of the State Fair will be used this year at the Morrow County Fair in governing the awarding of prizes in the industrial club and school fair departments.

Miss Jessica Suhm came in from Hood River last evening and will spend a few days visiting with friends here. Miss Suhm taught the seventh grade of the Heppner school last year.

Misses Josephine Woolley and Norma Frederic departed Saturday morning for Lehman Springs where they will spend a week's vacation. The young ladies made the trip in Miss Woolley's car.

D. O. Justus has purchased 2000 head of lambs from C. A. Minor and 1000 head from Bruce Kelley. It is understood that the price paid was $10 per head. Mr. Justice will run the sheep on his own range.

Dr. A. D. McMurdo and W. W. Smead returned Monday from their vacation outing at Odell Lake. They report a very fine time, although the weather during the last week showed inclinations toward being somewhat wet.

Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Vaughn returned Friday evening from an extended vacation trip in the East. They spent the greater part of the time in Michigan, where they enjoyed the pleasures of Pine Lake, a summer resort par excellence.

M. J. Bradford, the painter, has erected a paint shop on the E. M. Shutt lot, which he has leased. This lot was cleared off in the last fire, and Mr. Bradford has the distinction of being the first to start rebuilding operations in that district.

Charles B. Cox and wife and Bert Stone and wife are now enjoying an automobile trip which they expect will take them as far south as Crescent City, Calif. They will visit Crater Lake and other points of interest on their return trip.

W. C. Lacy returned to Portland Tuesday morning after spending a couple of weeks here on business. Mr. Lacy has a farm east of town and says he will have lots of good grain this year. The rain which started this week, however, is delaying harvest somewhat.

Mrs. Mary Arbuckle of Monument, passed through Heppner this week on her return from Camp Lewis, where her husband was stationed until recently. He has now gone to France and Mrs. Arbuckle is returning to their Monument home where she will be engaged in teaching during the coming year as one of the instructors in the Monument school.

N. Tucker, who has been visiting with his brothers here, W. B. and M. D. Tucker, departed on Wednesday for his home at Clinton, Missouri. Mr. Tucker was very favorably impressed with Morrow county and may decide to return here and locate.

Mrs. Carrie Vaughn and Mrs. Spencer Akers returned home on Wednesday from a visit at Centralia, Wash. While absent from Heppner the ladies also visited at Portland and the sea shore, where they would have remained longer but for the rainy weather which made it very unpleasant there.

Mrs. L. D. Swick returned this week from a short visit with her son, Howard Swick at Camp Lewis. Mrs. Swick was greatly impressed with the surroundings at the camp and the splendid treatment the soldier boys are receiving there.

She considers it well worth the time and money it costs to make the trip to Camp Lewis and see the wonderful work being accomplished there.

Editor Crawford of this paper returned from a visit of two weeks to different points on the coast, where he enjoyed himself to the limit. The event of the meeting of the State Editorial Association called him to Coos Bay where three days were spent in seeing that beautiful section of our state and taking some notes on the wonderful development going forward there. To say that we came away in love with Coos Bay and her people is putting it mildly. They are a royal class of people, wide-awake and will soon have one of the greatest producing sections in the northwest. Several days were also spent in the Grays Harbor section in southwest Washington, where everything in the line of lumbering and ship building is on the hum, much as it is in Coos Bay. A trip to the coast country is certainly delightful at this season of the year.

Frank Winnard and family of the Headquarters ranch, were in Heppner Wednesday.
