EDITORS SUPPORT WAR PROGRAM
State Association Denounces Single-Tax Propaganda of C. S. Jackson

The following resolutions were adopted at the recent session of the Oregon State Editorial Association at Coos Bay, August 9, 10, 11, 1918. The association flatly denounced the two Jackson bills relating to the country press, and exposed the motives behind these two initiative measures:

Resolved that the members of this association pledge their continued and undivided support to the government in all its activities designed for the successful prosecution of the war, that we fully realize that the winning of the present great conflict is paramount to all other issues now before the people of the United States, and with this end in view the State Editorial Association pledges its undivided support to the government in its prosecution of the world conflict that we may have a lasting peace only on those terms dictated and promulgated by the allied forces, without the earmarks of having been made in Germany.

Resolved, that we are not in sympathy with the campaign being waged by the magazines to do away with the plan of paying postage under the zone system; and that we believe that the government should make a distinction between those papers whose primary purpose is that of a news medium and those publications devoted more exclusively to entertainment and special features; and that we recommend that Congress simplify the zone system of paying postage by abolishing the present method of making a different charge for the news sections than for the advertising sections.

Resolved, that we recognize the wisdom of Congress in recognizing the value of newspaper advertising as a means of floating the government's bonds, and that we express our thanks to it for the million dollar appropriation it made for that purpose even though the money was ever spent for newspaper advertising, and that we recommend to the Congress, that should it again decide to place these bonds before the public in this manner and make an appropriation therefore that it make its use compulsory upon the treasury department.

Resolved, that we deprecate the dishonest practice existing throughout the state of members of one political party registering as members of another political party for the purpose of nominating the latter's candidates for office, and we urge upon the legislature the desirability of taking the necessary steps to abolish such species of political corruption.

Whereas, The Priorities Board, under date of April 16, 1918, issued what is known as "Preference List No. 1," referring to the distribution of coal and coke. This lists various industries connected with the war, and also those of exceptional importance. Among the items are newspapers and periodicals, plants printing and publishing exclusively newspapers and periodicals. Nowhere on the list, however, appears any classification of the machinery and other goods necessary to maintain the newspapers and periodicals, but unquestionably they should be put on the same preference list. The recent action of the government, in curtailing the use of raw material, particularly iron and steel, has been drastic. And as all manufacturers must look to the newspapers for co-operation in this matter, that we may render prompt service in the future, be it

Resolved: That the attention of the members of Congress from this district be called to this very important matter, and such immediate steps taken by them as may be necessary to correct same. And be it further

Resolved: That a copy of this resolution be spread on the minutes of this convention, and copies certified to by the Secretary of this Association, be sent to all such members of Congress and to the Priorities Board.

Whereas, The National Editorial Association has offered to admit to membership for fifty cents per annum all members of the Oregon State Editorial Association, providing the members of the Oregon State Editorial Association join the National Editorial Association as a unit, and

Whereas, the regular annual dues of the National Editorial Association are Two Dollars per annum, and

Whereas, the National Editorial Association is endeavoring to render substantial assistance to the country newspaper business and has its representatives in Washington, D. C., and elsewhere for the furtherance of the newspaper interests, therefore be it

Resolved, that the secretary of the Oregon State Editorial Association is hereby directed to remit to the secretary of the National Editorial Association on May first of each year and amount equaling fifty cents for each member of the Oregon State Editorial Association who has paid annual dues to said state association during the preceding year ending May 1, and be it further
