HAVE ORGY OF CANNIBALISM

Ghastly Doings of the Burying Beetles Regularly Take Place at Certain Seasons of the Year.

Here is a monstrous case of the most ghastly depravity mingled with sublime sacrifice.

The Burying Beetle buries small birds, mammals and reptiles, not as stored food for itself, but for the sustenance of its offspring. In the confines of a cage these undertakers will bury carcass after carcass, eating scarcely anything, depositing their eggs with the game. They display most edifying industry and order until the proper season is over. Then they strike work and take themselves underground.

And now a most frightful orgy begins. Despite the abundance of food both above ground and stored with the eggs, which they will not touch, the undertakers begin mutually eating each other. One emerges to the surface with a leg missing, and otherwise in a most battered condition. Another appears a little better off. He has two legs left. This one throws himself on the first, tears him to pieces and eats him. Famine plays no part in the slaughter. It is time for them to die, perhaps, and not being able to die naturally, instinct drives the undertaker to tear and eat his fellow, heedless that he, himself, is being torn to pieces and eaten by another. And so the horror goes on, one eating the limbs of another, and that other eating still another, until the tragedy is over, until next year.—Exchange.

Italy's Greatest Harvest.

Italy's soil, which has been cultivated continuously for thousands of years, promises this year to produce the greatest harvest of wheat ever reaped in that country. An Italian professor, a member of a university delegation which visited London recently as guests of the ministry of information, announced that owing to the abundant harvest expected in 1918, he had reason to believe that Italy would be for the first time self-supporting in the matter of grain.

German Problem Theirs Now

Socialist appear to be in control in revolutionary Germany Here are the men mentioned in the reports as being the leaders, around and through whom the new government may be built. Herr Ebert has been named German chancellor, Scheidemann, Liebknecht and Dittmann have long been conspicuous in the empire's Socialistic affairs.

RESENTED TRIBUTE TO DEY FROM PALACE OF PHAROAH

Jefferson's Action in Tripoli Set Example That Was Followed by All Christian Nations.

The first treaty with Algiers, which was negotiated during Washington's administration, cost the United States, for the ransom of American captives, $1,000,000, in addition to which an annuity was promised. In 1800 President Adams claimed that the United States had to pay three times the tribute imposed upon Sweden and Denmark.

But this temporizing policy only made matters worse. Captain Balmbridge arrived in Algiers, bearing the annual tribute for the dey in a national frigate, and the dey ordered him to proceed to Constantinople to deliver Algerian dispatches. "English, French and Spanish ships of war have done the same thing," said the dey insolently, when Balmbridge and the American consul remonstrated. "You pay me tribute because you are my slaves," replied the dey, who was playing the role assumed in later years by the kaiser. Jefferson had expressed his detestation of the method hitherto favored for pacifying these pests of commerce; and, availing himself of the present opportunity, he sent on Commodore Dale with a squadron of three frigates and a sloop of war to make a naval demonstration on the Barbary coast. The Barbary powers were for a time overawed, and the United States thus set the first example among the Christian nations of making reprisals instead of ransom, the rule of security against these marauders. Tripoli declared war against the United States June 10, 1801.

HOW SHE REMEMBERED HIM

"Such a Friendly Face," Said Woman of Man Whose Name She Had Temporarily Forgotten.

It is something to carry one's commendation in one's face, as the poet Coventry Patmore would have it. At the Eurydice concert a few evenings ago a woman was attempting to describe to her neighbor a man whose personality had impressed her, though she had forgotten his name.

"You must know whom I mean," she said. "That man with a beard, who has such a friendly look."
"Oh, you mean George Burnham, Jr.," said the other.
"Yes, that's the man!"
"Such a friendly look!" Could one desire a more endearing description? Which reminds me that when Horace Greenwood and Mr. Burnham first met they were somewhat inaudibly introduced. (Why are introductions usually inaudible?)
"I didn't quite catch the name," said Mr. Burnham.
"Mr. Greenwood," repeated the interlocutor.
"To be sure!" exclaimed Mr. Burnham apologetically. "I knew it was some kind of wood."
"And I must confess that I didn't catch your name, either," said Mr. Greenwood.
"Burnham—George Burnham."
"Oh, yes! I knew it was some kind of ham."—Philadelphia Ledger.

UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA TO HAVE PILLAR THAT ONCE ADORNED RULER'S THRONE ROOM.

The first word in a long time from the Eckley B. Cox expedition to Egypt has been received at the University of Pennsylvania museum from Dr. Clarence S. Fisher, its leader. Doctor Fisher reported excellent success during the winter explorations at Denderah, the ancient capital of Egypt, up the Nile.

In April he returned to Memphis and continued his work of uncovering the palace of Merneptah, who is identified by many Biblical scholars as the Pharaoh of the Oppression, whose stubbornness brought on the plagues. If this is correct, the great hall and throne room of the palace, which has now been completely uncovered, was the scene of the appearance of Moses and Aaron before Pharaoh, and where the signs and wonders were performed. The throne is said to be in good condition, but Egypt will not permit it to come to this country.

Fortunately, Doctor Fisher has worked over the pieces of the 12 colossal pillars which upheld the roof and has recovered enough to make one complete pillar, which will be brought to the university museum and set up. It will be the most notable specimen of Egyptian architecture in this country. The pillars were six feet in diameter, 80 feet high, covered with inscriptions and pictures inlaid with gold. Much of the paneling of the room and the lintels of the doors also were inlaid with gold, and these will be brought here.

The natives of Egypt, it is said, call the palace "The Temple of Moses" as they have an idea that is where he was reared.

ITALY HAD FIRST PAWNSHOP

From That Country the System Gradually Spread Over the Rest of the Civilized World.

The French call them monts-de-piete, but no satisfactory explanation for this nomenclature is forthcoming. The establishment of municipal pawnshops in France was attended with more difficulty than was the case in other countries.

It is from Italy that the idea of municipal pawnshops spread over the rest of Europe. A municipal pawnshop was set up in Madrid in the year 1705, when a priest with very little capital opened up as an "uncle." The system was tried at Avignon in 1777, but it was not until the year 1777 that Paris itself was provided with a mont-de-piete. The national assembly upset the monopoly and the business passed into private hands. The extortions of the pawnbrokers in time led, however, to a demand for the re-establishment of the governmental institutions. In 1806 Napoleon re-established the monopoly, regulating it by laws that are still in force. The interest charged amounts to about 7 per cent.

In Paris the mont-de-piete is in effect a department of the administration, but in the provinces it is a municipal monopoly.

THE DOCTORS AND THE INFLUENZA A PREACHMENT.

(Reuben Lux, in Hood River News)

In some respects doctors are like some other people and in some respects they are quite different. Some doctors are on the make and some are not, just like some lawyers. Like choosing an honest mule, you cannot rely on his looks, but you must find an honest doctor by experience and sometimes that is more bitter than his medicine. That is how the term "bitter experience" originated. But, like the lawyer and the mule, the rank and file are generally honest, the supply of dishonest ones being regulated wholly by the demand.

There was a time when people lived to great age. According to my wife, Adam lived nine hundred and thirty years. The very earliest death of the generation of Adam was Noah, and he died at the immature age of five hundred years. Methuselah reached the apex of long life for Adam's family, nine hundred and sixty-nine years. But that was before Dr. Harvey discovered that blood circulates through the human system. Drs. Bright and Mialeto had not then hitched their names to a kidney trouble, and Dr. Sower had not yet discovered his gas. Adam and his sons and his grandsons and his great grandsons seemed to enjoy life quite well and were satisfied to stick around for hundreds of years, even if they did not know anything about blood circulating, kidney troubles, liver complaints, sewer gas, or that they had an appendix which, no doubt, shortened their days. From the records we learn they prayed much and took more catnip tea. Whether prayer and tea had anything to do with their longevity, Reuben is not to be the judge. But the facts are recorded in Holy Writ, and as no doctors are mentioned, we must assume that they did not patronize the corner drug store, and they seemingly got along very well on home remedies.

We are told that the Indian lived to great age before civilization came along to shorten his days; before the medicine doctor got a chance at him. Like a great many other necessary evils, the doctor always travels in the van of civilization; the first signs on the frontier were always a drug store, a doctor's office, an undertaker and a Methodist church. These were sure signs of advancing civilization, and the next permanent establishment was a cemetery. Elephants, it is said, in their wild state lived to great age. But capture one and put a veterinary after him with his drugs and that elephant will die a premature and lamentable death.

About all the trouble to the human race seems to be caused by jealous doctors, the would-be leaders of the profess, who are all the time trying to hitch their names to some human ailment as old as Chinese history, then by their discovery (?) chase everyone towards a doctor's office to ward off the malady that is about to overtake him and his family. Now that is about what has and is happening right now. It is largely a matter of psychology. The "influenza" is nothing more than the grippe, discovered (?) by Dr. La Grippe some twenty-odd years ago, aggravated several times by scare dope thrown onto the public. Every newspaper is filled with scare ads calculated to make you feel, by imagination, that chill that shooting up and down your spine, and you either phone for the doctor or go to the doctor for his patent dope, and you get the "flu."

If you would just stop and think that Methuselah had all the ailments that you have now, and many more to boot, and that he managed to hang around for nine hundred and sixty-nine years then take a mental invoice of yourself, lift yourself up from four corners, refuse, absolutely refuse, to be stampeded, say to yourself, "I am not sick, but am feeling bully," then go about your way and tell everybody you meet how good you feel, and how well you look, you will be all right. Besides you will be helping the doctors from becoming loop-shouldered from carrying their money to the bank, money that has been "forced" onto them by "flu" patients.

The doctors' medicines, like the lawyers' law, are not for him or his family; they are for other people. Just look about and try to count the doctors or members of their families, who have had the "flu" or, rather, who have died with "flu" and you will be convinced. Make use of a little Christian Science. It is all right. It will do you good. But if you got the "flu," send for the medicine doctor. That is what Reuben intends to do—if he gets it. But he is not going to get it. Don't worry. Remember Methuselah!

Earl Warner and E. P. Berry, successful young farmers of the Lexington country, were business visitors in Heppner on Saturday. These young men ran a big threshing outfit the past season and made a good showing. They are also doing well in the wheat raising game and state that they have their fall seeding practically all done with the grain coming along well.

R. F. Fraser, of Ione, representing the Kansas City Life Insurance Company, was in Heppner over Saturday. Mr. Fraser is meeting with good success in selling life insurance and the policies of his company seem to be taking well.

Ed Rietmann, extensive wheat grower of the north Ione section, was doing business in Heppner Monday. Mr. Rietmann speaks well of the prospects out his way and says grain is coming along fine. A good rain fell there the past week.

T. M. Arnold and family, of Eight Mile, were visitors in Heppner Saturday.

HELPFUL WORDS

From a Heppner Citizen.

Is your back lame and painful? Does it ache especially after exertion?

Is there a soreness in the kidney region? These symptoms suggest weak kidneys.

If so there is danger in delay. Weak kidneys get fast weaker. Give your trouble prompt attention.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys. Your neighbors use and recommend them.

Read this Heppner testimony. Mrs. A. G. DeVore, says: "Speaking from past experience, I gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. I know they are a medicine of merit and I couldn't recommend a more reliable one."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. DeVore had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Where Cops May Look for Bill

Here's where the cops will go for Bill—if the allies decide the ex-kaiser is not going to get off with a mere abdication. It is the estate prepared for just such an emergency. It is a great deal less pretentious than the imperial palace at Potsdam and Berlin, but a welcome refuge in this great storm. It is known as Middachten Castle, at Desteeg, Holland, near the town of Utrecht, and is the spot where Mr. Hohenzollern fled.

Comic strip titled 'HOME SWEET HOME' by Jack Wilson. It shows a woman talking to a child about a baby, with dialogue about the baby's growth and the mother's love.
