ADDITIONAL LOCALS

Jerm O'Connor and brother, sheepmen of Skinner creek, are confined at the hospital at Heppner, victims of the flu.

Mrs. C. C. Chick and son Charles, accompanied by Jesse Dobyns, were in Heppner from Ione yesterday. Mr. Dobyns has just been discharged from the service of Uncle Sam and is now home to stay.

J. D. Bauman, of Lexington, was a pleasant caller at this office while in town on Saturday last. Mr. Bauman has two sons in the service of Uncle Sam at present, one of them, H. O., being over in France. He expects that they will likely be coming home before a great while.

ESTRAYED—A 5-year-old Lincoln buck, from my place on Eight Mile. No visible brands or marks. Horns curl close to face and are sawed off about opposite eyes. Animal left my place about a month ago. Notify R. E. ALLSTOTT, Eight Mile, Oregon d19-tf

The family of R. E. Allstott on Eight Mile have been under quarantine for several weeks past with small pox. The disease has been of very mild form and we are informed that they are all recovered now and that the quarantine will be lifted shortly. A few cases of this disease are also reported at Hardman and in that vicinity, all of them being of a light form and no one very seriously sick.

The community sale at the fair grounds on Saturday last, conducted by the Farmers Exchange, was quite successful, the most of the stock offered going at good prices. These monthly sales are a fine thing for Heppner, being the means of drawing a large number of people to town, and they should be encouraged by the community. It should be a fixed program, to be called regularly each month, as such sales are mutually beneficial to the farmers and city.

Howard McCarty, who has been at work in the foot hills, was brought to town on Tuesday in a very serious condition, suffering with pneumonia. He rode as far as the John Kilkenny place on horseback and was brought in from there by car. Upon reaching the hospital his fever was at 105. His physician has but little hope that he will be able to save the man's life. Young Mc-

Carty died on Wednesday afternoon and will be buried from the undertaking establishment of M. L. Case. John Hughes place below Heppner He has no relatives here. He was about 30 years of age. Matt Hughes has moved his family from his place near Lone Rock to the Hughes place below Heppner and they are now located for the winter.

Final summing up of the expense account in connection with the grading of the road on Jones hill reveals an amount about 100 per cent in excess of all estimates furnished the County Court prior to the beginning of work. The Court called for estimates on this job and got figures from Mr. Baldoek, engineer in charge of work here and attached to the State Highway Commission. His first figures suggested that the work could be done for around $10,000 and later he revised his figures and gave the Court an estimate around $13,000, and the work was authorized. Since the grading is completed, Baldoek comes in with the figures of cost amounting to $25,054.26 for 3.22 miles of grading on the Jones hill.

The Court raises no question regarding the work. The job has been well done and is pronounced by those who should know, one of the best pieces of work in the entire county. The sore spot with the Court seems to be the great cost. They acted in the best of faith in going into the work, and were advised continually by the engineer that the job was being performed within the bounds of his estimate, therefore the nearly 100 per cent increase has given the Court a severe shock. They have a right to feel that they were somewhat unbecomingly by the engineer and led to wonder if the State Highway Commission will have no better man on the job here to assist in carrying on the work in the future. Surely a man that can not come closer to what a job of work of this kind should cost when completed than this one did, ought to be in some other line of business.

Some $68,000 was spent in road work this season in grading and macadamizing of roads, the greater portion of which was on the line of the State Highway through Heppner, and the county will get back $19,000 of this sum, being the amount advanced on behalf of the state. The program for the coming year, on the part of the State Highway Commission calls for the completion of the Columbia Highway across the north end of Morrow county, a distance of 24 miles. For this work the county will expend $22,000 and the State will complete the job, having allowed $130,000 for this purpose. The Highway Commission has also given to this county $30,000 additional which will be used for hardsurfacing the mileage already graded and macadamized. Just how much further the county will go with this class of work the coming year will be left to the new court to decide.

We trust the new court may be spared in its labors of road building the faulty estimates under which the retiring court has had to work. But we are ready to give the retiring members all credit, notwithstanding of having begun a good work and trust that it will be continued just as fast as possible, that the county may eventually have a system of good highways.

Clyde Wells is confined at home this week by sickness. He is not suffering from an attack of influenza.

Loren Mikesell has returned from Eugene, where he has been taking the preliminary training course at the University. He received his discharge.

Francis Fenwick, 11-year-old son of Jap Fenwick, of Ione, was killed at the H. R. Smith place on Wednesday of last week. The lad had evidently been playing in the wheat in the granary at the time the grain was being drawn out in the wagon. The spout becoming clogged and the grain falling to run out, an investigation was made and the men were horrified to find a boy's foot and leg in the mouth of the spout. The lad had some way been drawn down under the wheat, and when the work of rescue was begun he was found to be buried under about eight feet of grain and his life had been smothered out. The lad was buried at Ione.
