INLAND EMPIRE TO REAP REWARD

Reconstruction is the topic of the hour. All over the northwest meetings are being held, speeches delivered, reclamation plans discussed, cooperation of civic bodies arranged. From small villages to large cities it is the one big subject uppermost since peace was declared.

On all sides the fact is recognized that new construction in every commercial industry line is a certainty. There will not only be a great building era in this country but with construction virtually at a standstill over so much of Europe for four years there will now of course follow a great period of rehabilitation. In the United States new railroad construction and repairs alone will provide a big market. In addition to these lines there are the big reclamation projects proposed by the several states and encouraged by the federal government.

In all of this the Inland Empire is certain to reap substantial rewards. The intermountain territory received but scant, if any, profits from the war. It was a condition that could not be changed and the people accepted the situation cheerfully. Now, with the coming of all of this reconstruction work, residents of the Inland Empire are justified in the feeling of satisfaction that the law of compensation is to be applied. This region must provide much of the material needed.

Poor Cows Are Good Eaters.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Jan. 6.—Feed cost of poor producing cows in Oregon is but little lower than that of high producing cows. It cost but $11.86 less to feed the cows on test which produced 300 pounds of fat than those which produced 400 pounds. The cost of cows yielding 200 pounds of fat was only $6.78 less than for those yielding 300 pounds. Hence the difference in the total feed cost between cows producing 200 pounds and 400 pounds of fat was $18.64. Yet the value of their product, which cost but little less than the product of the good producers, was worth only about half as much. The entire difference in cost of feed for cows producing 100 pounds and 400 pounds of fat was $30.09.

THE FLU.

When your back is broke and your eyes are blurred;
And your shin bones knock and your tongue is furred,
And your tonsils squeak and your hair gets dry,
And you're doggone sure you're going to die;
But you're "skeered" you won't and afraid you will
Just drag to bed and have your chill,
And pray the Lord to see you through,
For you've got the Flu, boy: you've got the Flu.

When your toes curl up and your belt goes flat,
And you're twice as mean as a Thomas Cat,
And life is a long and dismal course,
And your food all tastes like a hard-boiled hearse;
Then your lattace aches and your head's a-buzz,
And nothing is as it used to wuz,—
You've got the Flu, boy: you've got the Flu.

What is it like, this Spanish Flu?
Ask me brother, I've been through, it is by misery out of despair,
It pulls your teeth and curls your hair;
And thins your blood and brays your bones,
And fills your craw with moans and groans;
And sometimes, maybe, you get well,
Some call it the Flu—I call it Hell.
—Doughboy.

Inexperienced Men Accepted.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Jan. 6.—For the first time inexperienced butter and cheese makers will be admitted to the dairy short course at the college, January 6-31. Both men and women may enter. Creameries are short of butter and cheese makers in Oregon, other states, and Canada, from all of which many inquiries indicate a big enrollment. Students will be given instruction and practical experience in pasteurization of cream, determination of salt and moisture content of butter, and judging of both cheese and butter.

JERSEY WITH SATINS IN SPRING FROCKS

The sweater has evolved into the sweaterette for the spring of nineteen. Giving up the Jersey seems to be as hard for women as is the short walking length skirt on all frocks. This new black and blue satin has a long sweaterette sleeveless jacket of Jersey caught at the waist with a belt of the self material. The sweaterette is open all the way down the side under the arm. It has a wide binding of the satin which makes a border effect an inch and a half to two inches wide.

There's a Salesman from Virginia who was chewing and swapping yarns with the men on the Post Office corner. "Have a chew," says he to Jake. Jake doesn't think he's chewing unless his cheek bulges out like he had the mumps. "Call that a chew?" he snorts. "Sure!" says the salesman. "This is Real Gravelly. That small chew satisfies, and the longer you chew it the better it tastes. That's why it doesn't cost anything extra to chew this class of tobacco."

It goes further—that's why you can get the good taste of this class of tobacco without extra cost.
