O. B. Robertson, cashier and J. F. Reischer, vice president of the First National Bank of Condon, were visitors in Heppner Tuesday, coming over to take in the wool sales here and get a line on how things were going. They were accompanied by Messrs. G. M. Blakely and Archie McKenzie, of the Blakely-McKenzie Co., of Monument, extensive sheep-owners of that section, who were also interested in the wool sales at this place.

HOMES FOR SOLDIERS PROVIDED BY MONDELL

Plan Includes Expenditures of Half Billion Dollars for Small Tract and Improvements.

Washington, June 2.—In order to provide employment and rural homes for those who have served with military and naval forces, Representative Frank W. Mondell, of Wyoming, majority leader of the House, has introduced a bill appropriating $500,000,000 for the purchase and cultivation of land for them. He and Representative Snodgrass, of Oregon, chairman of the Public Lands Committee of the House, worked out the plan several months ago and afterwards Secretary Lane advocated certain features of it.

The measure authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to acquire by gift, purchase, deed or trust all necessary lands for soldier settlement projects, and also to withdraw public lands for that purpose. No lands will be acquired, however, unless the conditions are approved by a representative of the governor of the state in which the lands are located, an appraiser designated by the Federal Farm Loan Board and Mr. Lane. In the reclamation of development of particular projects the services of soldiers are to be used. Money for the improvement of the land of any particular soldier to the extent of $1,200, will be allotted. The lands of projects will, when necessary, be subdivided into farms suitable for the support of a family and even in smaller farm worker's tracts. Dedication may be made for schools, churches and community centers, and town sites developed and sold.

Soldiers who are now owners or proprietors of farms or rural homes will be eligible as purchasers of a farm or farm workers' tract. Preference will be given to those who have been employed in the development of similar tracts. The sale price will be fixed with a view of repaying the total cost and will be made to represent its selling value. Applicants will pay down five per cent of this. The balance will be paid distributed in amortizing payments extending over forty years. Improvement sums advanced must be repaid within twenty years. Both will bear interest at four per cent. For the purchase of live stock and equipment $800 will be advanced, to be repaid within five years at four per cent.

Whenever any state funds to be expended in co-operation with the United States to provide rural homes for soldiers, the Secretary of the Interior will have authority to enter into contracts by which the state will put up twenty-five per cent of the necessary funds, and the state will then supervise the work, and afterwards be reimbursed. The average of the individual farms will average from ten to forty and in some cases may run to 160.

Many novel features will be introduced in the program of the Centenary Celebration of the Methodist Episcopal church, which will open June 20, at Columbus, commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of Methodist Missions.

A special course of instruction to Methodist ministers in baby welfare work will be given at the Rural America exhibit, under the supervision of Professor Paul Vogt, formerly of the U. S. department of labor. The ministers will be urged to encourage and aid the organization of baby welfare societies in their districts. They will be instructed how and where to get information concerning such subjects as the preparation of artificial food for babies, milk, bottle-feeding books on child care, and other information along these lines. How a model baby health conference may be conducted; how to weigh and measure a baby; how a baby's sight and hearing are tested; complete physical examination of a young child, and kind of food suitable and those which are not suitable to a child of two years, are among the subjects of instruction. A chart entitled "The church is interested in the well-born children," emphasizes the importance of healthy, wholesome parenthood and illustrates the results of the mating of mentally defective persons.

The Centenary Celebration will last several weeks. Preparations are under way to take care of from 100,000 to 150,000 persons a day. Applications for hotel reservations should be sent to the Celebration Committee at Columbus.

The railroad administration has announced one and one-third fare for the round trip to Columbus.

Justice E. J. Merrill was down from Hardman on Monday. While busily engaged in the duties devolving upon him as a farmer and stockman and taking care of a fairly large ranch, Mr. Merrill will also look after administering justice in his precinct, being the duly qualified justice of the peace at Hardman.
