

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

W. G. Scott and wife were visitors in Heppner from their Lexington home Tuesday.

Mrs. M. L. Oney will hereafter be found at the residence of Mrs. Kelly, in East Heppner.

Aaron Peterson, extensive wheat-raiser of Eight Mile, was a visitor in Heppner yesterday.

Grover Goff, rising young stockman of the Gurdane section, was a visitor in Heppner on Friday last.

James A. Wyland, Rock Creek rancher and sheep owner, was down to Heppner on business Wednesday.

Louis J. Padberg, one of the heaviest wheat producers of the county, was a visitor in Heppner yesterday.

Adam Knoblock was able to leave the hospital Tuesday after a tussle of ten days or more with an attack of pneumonia.

Mrs. Fannie Rood was a visitor in Heppner for several days during the week, being a guest at the home of Andrew Rood.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gates were over from Spray the first of the week, making a short visit at the home of Mrs. Gates' father, A. H. Stamp.

Mrs. Arlet Brock of Portland, and Mrs. Harvey Parcel, of Montana, daughters of Mrs. F. M. Gentry, are visiting at the home of their mother in this city this week.

J. W. Morrow, right of way agent and tax commissioner of the O. W. R. & N. Co., came up from Portland Thursday evening last and spent Decoration Day in this city.

Frank A. Andrews will preach at Liberty schoolhouse, Eight Mile on Sunday morning at 11:00. He will return to Heppner and fill his appointment at the Christian church in the evening.

Judge C. C. Patterson has his office now upstairs in the Gilman building and he is greatly pleased to have his friends call and see him at any time. The judge will continue to carry on insurance and land office business.

Mr. and Mrs. George Coats and Mrs. Mary McHaley came up from Portland Thursday last and have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Huston. They expect to return to Portland the end of this week.

Wm. Copenhagen, who farms north of Swaggart Buttes, was in town Saturday. He expects to have a large field of grain ready for the header within a couple of weeks and will soon be betting ready for his harvest.

J. B. Huddleston, Lone Rock sheepman, and for many years in charge of the O. W. R. & N. station in this city, was a visitor in Heppner for several days the first of the week. He was accompanied by his sister, Miss Beatrice.

Mrs. Arthur McAtee has been appointed historian for the Morrow

County Red Cross and will be glad to receive any data that would be of interest and could be used in making up a history of this work in the county. Address her at Heppner.

Mrs. Julia Metzler came over from LaGrande Friday and spent Saturday in this city, her former home. She returned home Sunday, going from here to Pendleton by auto. Mrs. Metzler works in the offices of the railroad company at LaGrande.

Lieut. Vickers, who has been holding down a position with the Universal Garage in this city for several months past, departed for Seattle on Monday and will remain in that city for a time. He expects, however, to return to Heppner again.

Painter Lock and his crew of workmen began the job of painting the Christian church this week. He will give the structure a couple of coats of paint, and then the people of that church will make some other repairs and improvements to and about the premises.

Jason Biddle was up to town Saturday from his farm on Rhea creek and reports crops looking well in his section but states that he would feel just a little better to have a good rain come along. It would strengthen his faith in the outcome at harvest time to a considerable extent.

A. H. Stamp, veteran resident of the Sand Hollow section, was in town Tuesday to exercise his right as a citizen of the great State of Oregon. Mr. Stamp is not able to come to town often but greatly enjoys getting in and shaking hands with old time friends once in a while.

Mr. and Mrs. Eph Eskelson, formerly of Meadow Brook Farm, near Lexington, are now located at Salem, and state that they like their new home very much. They will keep informed on Morrow county affairs through this paper, which will reach them at 1409 N. Church Street, Salem.

Prof. D. W. Boltrott departed in his jitney Monday for Arlington, where he expected to cross the river into Washington. He will travel over Eastern Oregon and through several counties of Eastern Washington during the summer, representing a general school supply house.

O. G. Crawford and family arrived from Enterprize on Sunday and will spend the summer months in Heppner. Mr. Crawford assuming his former position in the mechanical department of this paper. They left Heppner three years ago and now return to find that many changes have taken place here.

Dist. Atty. Notson, County Agent Hunt, Roadmaster McCalab and Editor Boardman motored to Irrigon and Boardman Monday and talked to the people down there about the reconstruction measures and road bonds and enjoyed a short season of social intercourse with the people of these two communities.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Anderson returned Tuesday from a trip into the Central Oregon country, going as far as Bend. Since visiting most of the towns of that section, they return to Heppner quite well satisfied that this part of Eastern Oregon has the section they visited very badly beaten from every point of view.

C. A. Johnson, formerly of Lexington, but now a resident of Gresham, is here with a sheep shearing crew and has been at work at L. V. Gentry's the past week. He expects to remain here during the harvest season and may take his place at the Lexington warehouse and help in shipping out the crop of that section during the fall season.

Frank F. Klitz, formerly a resident of this end of the county, is now living at Boardman, where he has a nice home and is building up with the community. He still has a great interest in the part of the county where he used to reside and was glad to learn of the prosperity of his former neighbors. Frank also renewed his acquaintanceship with the G. T. and ordered the paper to come to him at Boardman for the next twelve months.
