OREGON CHICKS WANTED ON CALIFORNIA FARMS

Big Producer Places Orders for 1000 Cockerels of O. A. C. White Leghorn Strain.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, June 11.—White leghorns of the O. A. C. strain are wanted by California commercial poultrymen. W. L. Sales, a Petaluma grower, has just visited the College to place an order for more than 1000 cockerels with Oregon poultrymen who breed the College stock. The order was placed with Groves and Reusch whose farms are near Corvallis.

Mr. Sales was attracted by the vigor and laying qualities of the College strain, and when he saw an advertisement of some of the College birds in a Petaluma paper he came north to place large orders. He expects to distribute the cockerels among the poultry breeders who supply him with hatching eggs for his incubators, which turn out 100,000 chicks a month. His purpose is to increase the egg yield in the famous Petaluma district by introducing new stock in the form of high bred males. So great is the demand for this stock that the Petaluma advertisement brought orders for several thousand cockerels.

The poultry department has sent out many breeding males to Oregon poultrymen but only in limited numbers to any one person or firm. This policy has enabled many commercial growers in Oregon to develop large flocks of the O. A. C. strain, and these breeders are able to offer breeding males in large numbers.

The work of the poultry department was heartily commended by Mr. Sales, who says that its equipment is not above the reach of any commercial grower. He considers the work most valuable in that it provides breeders with a source of well bred stock to improve their home and commercial flocks.

LEMONADE LIFESAVER TO MEN IN FRANCE

(From Stars and Stripes, Paris) When the wiping out of the Soisson's salient became a mere incident in the growing list of German victories that might have been there will probably be no item better remembered by men who were wounded while on that little job than the item of lemonade.

One division in particular will thank the Salvation Army with pocket-books open for the carload of juicy yellow Italian fruit that happened to be near enough to Soissons and to Chateau-Thierry wounded available in the thick of things.

The Salvation Army had been looking forward to hot weather, drive or no drive, and they were getting ready to substitute real lemonade with rinds and everything, for the old reliable chocolate or the doubtful pinard. The water supply was none too good and when a man is hot he wants something to drink as soon as he can get to it.

So when the doughboys and the artillery and the Signal Corps began sending representatives back to visit the dressing-stations the Salvation Army came to the fore with those Italian lemons, beaucoup sugar and barrels of clean, cold water, which they brought up on a Ford delivery truck. Every Yank who got within range of that lemonade threw away his cigarette and made a dive for his tin cup.

The doctors say that a good many who couldn't walk and who couldn't make a dive for their share, are going to live and go back to the States because they got a drink that killed their fever when they needed it most. Lemonade is a lifesaver to wounded men, and this particular lot turned some good tricks for the surgeons.

Another thing that was imported for use in the emergency was mosquito netting. When the need for protection against fleas was apparent at the evacuation hospitals and dressing stations the Salvation Army lassies sent to Paris and got all they could.

Then, too, the doughnut batteries more than scored on this latest strategic retreat of Fritz. Two little Salvation lassies fed twenty-eight lost, hungry doughboys in a bunch less than six hours after starting their refreshment station. Battle smoke could not blot out the cheerful smell of frying, nor shell fire drive away the allure of the unctuous sinker.

Oregon's opportunity to show its appreciation for this wonderful organization, will come June 22 to 30 when the Home Service campaign of the Salvation Army will be staged in this state. Oregon's quota is $250,000, of which half is to be raised in Portland.

We have just received a carload of blacksmith coal for immediate delivery. TUM-A-LUM LUMBER CO.

Tom Ingram of Hardman, who returned two weeks ago from service overseas with the 91st division, was in Heppner last Sunday with Tom Dean. Tom looks fit as a fiddle and says he saw a lot in the last few months. In his first line service of going over the top he came through without a scratch. However he says he is surely glad to be back in Morrow county again.

WESLEY N. MATLOCK IS DEAD AT PENDLETON

News reached Heppner Tuesday of the death of Wesley N. Matlock Pendleton on that same day. Mr. Matlock had undergone an operation there several days ago to relieve an acute attack of appendicitis. He was one of Pendleton's most prominent business men and a son of the late William F. Matlock, and a native of Umatilla county. He is survived by a widow, two daughters, Mrs. Wade Privett of California and Mrs. Emmett Estes of Walla Walla, and a sister, Mrs. Fred Laatz of Pendleton. T. J. Matlock of Heppner was an uncle of the deceased.

Mr. Matlock had been active as a sportsman and as a business man. He was president of the Pendleton Hotel association, the Pendleton Building association, the Pendleton Rubber and Supply company, a director of the First National Bank and a member of the Matlock-Laatz Investment company. As a sportsman he was a member of the local club and vice-president of the Oregon Sportsmen's association. He was a member of the Elks and Moose lodges.

Dan Barlow of Eight Mile was in town after farm supplies Tuesday. He was accompanied by his son Frank.
