

Death Suddenly Ends The Suffering of Lelia Hayes

(Ontario Argus)

After weeks of patient suffering, and just when her parents were certain that her illness was over and she would soon be strong again, Lelia, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erbie Hayes, died suddenly at the family home at midnight Tuesday.

Besides her parents she is survived by a brother and sister.

For the past several weeks she had suffered from diphtheria, and she overcame its terrors, for a time her life was spared. The dangers of this disease had passed but a few days when she contracted what was believed to be a mild form of typhoid fever. The her frail strength had been sapped by the previous disease, yet she rallied to renew the battle for life. Apparently she had won and the attending physicians declared the crisis passed and pronounced her on the way to recovery. But the long strain of renewed fevers proved too great for her strength and she died peacefully Monday night.

Funeral services were held this afternoon, and the love which her many school mates had for her was manifested by the great mass of flowers which they themselves had gathered from the gardens of the city and arranged under the direction of her teacher, Mrs. F. J. Clemo. Rev. S. R. Steele of the Congregational church officiated. During the funeral services this afternoon all business in the city was suspended.

The little girl's grandfather, John M. Hayes, of Portland, who had been spending several days in Heppner, went over to Ontario to attend the funeral.

While these young ladies are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Olden, it is rumored that Jess and Walter Dobyns, sons of Mrs. Olden, are primarily interested in their entertainment.

LEXINGTON WHEAT WILL MAKE ONLY FAIR YIELD

That a rain ten days ago would have made thousands of dollars additional to the farmers of the Lexington section and greatly aided the spring grain is the opinion of Andrew Reaney, pioneer farmer who was in Heppner Monday. As it is, the wheat yield in the Lexington country promises to fall considerably short of normal. Mr. Reaney says he has 300 acres of bluestem wheat which will make in the neighborhood of 20 bushels to the acre according to the opinion passed by a large number of farmers who have viewed it.

In debate he won honors and in athletics he made a mark, winning his letter in track. Albert rode three miles to school every day on his bicycle. His sister, Mrs. Grovers Swaggart, of Heppner, went over to attend the commencement exercises returning later in the week with Mr. Swaggart in their car.
