

CITIZENSHIP IS NOW ONE OF WOMEN'S JOBS

Eight Begins in Primaries in Political Battle Says Miss Stewart.

"Politics never adjourns," said Miss Stewart, newly elected corresponding secretary of the Federation of Business and Professional Women which recently held its first conference in St. Louis, Mo. "Politics is the science of government, and not wire pulling to make things come out as you want them. Women must align themselves with a party if they wish to accomplish anything really worth while; must study the fundamentals for which the party stands, and remember that there is always a 'scrap' on, as life is a fight, in politics as well as in everything else, and the fight begins in politics in the primaries. Every woman who is a citizen is interested in the fight and must pull up her sleeves and get to work. She cannot do as the child in the nursery rhyme is told to do, 'Hang your clothes on a hickory limb and don't go near the water.'"

"The suffragists are out of their job or weary," continued Miss Stewart. "The W. C. T. U. is out of its job. The job of citizenship is now the job of every woman. The economic side, the political side, the personal side—all must be studied in the citizenship problem."

Besides the new honor just bestowed upon her by the business and professional women, Miss Stewart is the executive secretary of the Republican Congressional Committee.

New Authorized Ford Agent Arrives in Heppner to Reside

Chas. H. Latourell, recently of Gresham, has accepted the agency for the Ford car in Heppner and arrived here the past week. Mr. Latourell is receiving his first shipment of cars direct from Detroit this week. He has taken storage and display space in the Universal Garage and will carry a full line of Ford parts. Repair service will be maintained by Hill & Johns of the Universal. Mr. Latourell expects his wife soon and they will be located permanently in Heppner, making a valuable addition to our rapidly growing population.

Gold Strike Is Reported.

A gold strike is reported on the Lewis Moore ranch, about half way between Mt. Vernon and Dayville. Some time back Mr. Moore picked up a rich piece of high grade ore. It had about $18 in free gold in it. Since the he has done more or less prospecting for the ledge that this presumably came from. A few days ago the ledge was struck. Not much work has been done on it to determine its size or character, but it is rich enough in free gold to attract more than ordinary attention. Roy Glasscock was here Monday and when asked what he knew about it, as the place joins his, said "it was dog-gone rich."—Blue Mountain Eagle.

Made Trip to Greenhorn.

J. O. Hager returned the last of the week from an auto trip to the Mayflower group of mines in the Greenhorn district. He was accompanied by Mr. Baird, his wife's uncle, and they report a most enjoyable trip. They had a pleasant visit with Dan Stalter, who at the present time is busy doing work at the Mayflower. This mine is owned by Heppner capital and Mr. Hager is one of the biggest stockholders. He says that the ore which is being taken out now is of high grade and once the mine is fully developed a lot of good pay dirt will be produced.

Motored to Portland.

C. A. Minor left by auto for Portland last Friday, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Frank Roberts and children Ann and Joe, who had spent the week visiting with relatives and friends here. They were also accompanied by Will Ball, grocery department head of Minor & Co., who will spend a few days in Portland and then go on to the seashore for a good vacation.

Women Return From Visit.

Mrs. E. N. Crawford and Mrs. Emma Dice returned to Heppner last Friday after spending several weeks in Portland, Astoria, Eugene and Seaside. They report a most enjoyable vacation.

WILSON'S DOUBLE IS MUSIC COMPOSER

Jas. J. McCabe lives in New York and is district superintendent of schools—when not out upon the street and being mistaken for President Wilson. Recently he made another bid for fame when he composed new American music for "My Country 'Tis of Thee"—to replace the British air of "God Save the King" to which our national anthem has always been sung.

STATE MERCHANTS PUT END TO OLD FIGHT

Get Together After Five-Year Factional Struggle Between Rival State Organizations.

Portland, August 13.—One of the big events that comes out of "Buyers' Week" is the reunion of the retail merchants of Oregon in one state organization. This "get-together" movement, which was inaugurated last May, was carried to a complete and final success in the closing session of the Fifteenth annual convention of the Oregon Retail Merchants' Association, held in the green room of the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday afternoon.

This ends a fight that has lasted for four and a half years and which resulted in the existence of two state organizations of retail merchants, both nominally serving the same ends and actually in competition with each other in seeking the interest and support of the retailers of the state and their local organizations.

"This is the brightest day for the retail merchants of Oregon that we have had in five years," said G. Clifford Barlow, of Warrenton, who is president of the Oregon Retail Merchants' Association. "With our forces divided into two camps and each doing its best to surpass the other, too much energy was lost in competitive effort and too little was directed toward serving the real interests of the merchants of the state."

"Now that it is all over, we need make no bones about it, for from now on the forces of the two organizations united into one will be able to work with new spirit and double effect in accomplishing all those things which should be accomplished in the interest of clean business methods and, therefore, largely in the interest of the public as well as the merchants themselves."

This "get-together" movement was inaugurated in May when the board of directors of the Oregon Retail Merchants' Association authorized President Barlow to appoint a committee of three to confer with a similar committee from the Oregon State Retailers' Association on whether the two organizations could be made into one and if so, how.

This joint committee wrestled with the problem with evident success, for they made a report outlining a complete plan and program for the union of the two bodies. This report was formally approved by the board of directors of the Oregon State Retailers' Association and that action was duly announced to the convention of the Oregon Retail Merchants' Association.

Under the plan of the joint committee both organizations retain their separate identity until the Astoria convention in February, in which the members of both will join and perfect the one state association.

The only change of significance in the annual election of the Oregon Retail Merchants' Association was the retirement of Leo R. Merrick as secretary, F. A. Rosenkrans, of Canby, being elected in his place, this result being due to Mr. Merrick's open opposition to the consolidation movement. Similar reasons were responsible for the convention changing its official organ from the Oregon Retailers Journal, published by Mr. Merrick, to the Oregon Merchants' Magazine, which is already the official organ of the other state association. The complete result of the annual election of the Oregon Retail Merchants' Association is as follows:

President: G. Clifford Barlow, of Warrenton.
First Vice-President: A. C. Marsters, of Roseburg.
Second Vice-President: A. Brund, of Cottage Grove.
Third Vice-President: J. G. Snodgrass, of La Grande.
Treasurer: Thomas C. Watts, of Reuben.

Directors: R. Alexander, of Pendleton; George W. Hyatt, of Enterprise; E. C. Gaddis, of Medford; N. A. Perry, of Portland; F. A. Rosenkrans, of Canby; A. M. Reeves, of Lebanon, and J. G. Garret, of Hillsboro.

The officers of the Oregon State Retailers' Association are:
President: Charles V. Brown, of Astoria.
First Vice-President: Norman F. Crout, of Portland.
Second Vice-President: George Custer, of Silverton.
Third Vice-President: A. J. Lillburn, of Roseburg.

Secretary: Edward A. MacLean, of Portland.
Treasurer: D. J. Van Seyoc, of Portland.

Directors: J. T. Giroux, of Baker; E. C. Gunther, of Portland; A. J. Lillburn, of Roseburg; H. E. Marsh, of Medford; H. G. McPherson, of Pendleton; O. A. Owen, of Astoria; Everman Robbins, of Molalla; C. G. Scott, of Portland; F. E. Sherwin, of Williams; J. L. Tucker, of Astoria.

Former Heppner People Visit In Pendleton From Idaho

Guests at the George Fell residence on Madison street are Mrs. Mary E. Kirk and Albert Ayers of Payette, Idaho, who are visiting their sister, Mrs. Fell. Mr. Ayers will return to his home this evening, and Mrs. Kirk will remain here for a more extended visit, going from here to Portland where she will remain for a time.—Pendleton Tribune.

"PRINTING THAT PLEASURES"—THE Gazette-Times Shop.

First Impressions
FIRST IMPRESSIONS are always important, and to a large extent govern future opinions. The first impression received of any business house is through the business stationery and printing used by that house, and if that business is to be held in esteem its printed matter must make a favorable impression.
The Gazette-Times specializes in printing which makes the proper first impression. We are our own most exacting judges, and do not allow any piece of printing to leave the shop unless it passes close inspection as to stock, quality of ink and presswork and typographical design.
If you are not using G-T. printing you are not using as good printing as you should.
Call Main 882 and our man will give you all the assistance necessary to make your printing represent you in the right way.
