COAT-DRESS OF VELVET IN BRASSIER LINE

It's a velvet season—regardless of what designers attempt to make women wear, said one style maker recently, and this new coat dress of black velvet bears out the statement. The costume involves the new brassier lines, and is trimmed in white ribbon.

the concrete bridge over Willow creek, Heppner Junction overhead crossing and the Messner overhead crossing on the Columbia highway, have begun operations, and material is now on the ground and camp established at Willow Creek, which bridge will be first constructed.—Hermiston Herald.

Heppner Man Buys Fine Residence In Pendleton

J. M. Hayes, retired Morrow county sheepman and farmer who recently moved with his family to Pendleton, has bought a five acre tract in Riverside addition. The tract is one of the finest garden spots adjacent to Pendleton and the reported price was $10,000.

A new home, completed in August, is on the property. It was built by Mr. King with a view to its being his permanent home, says the Pendleton East Oregonian. It is equipped with all modern conveniences. Mr. Hayes has already taken charge.

McBee Buys What Farm Near Walla Walla

L. E. McBee, former prominent stockman and farmer of Cecil and Heppner, has purchased the old O. W. R. & N. experimental farm four miles west of Walla Walla, for $63,500. The farm consists of 254 acres and the price paid per acre was $250. He will move onto the property at once.

The Baker Investment Co., and Miles C. Moore & Son owned the ranch, which has been under irrigation for nearly 50 years. It is a combined wheat and alfalfa ranch, 109 acres being under the irrigation while the remaining 145 acres are wheat lands. C. E. Roosevelt of Pendleton handled the negotiations.

Mr. McBee has been seeking a suitable farm for the past three years. He has looked from Southern California to Montana but decided that the Walla Walla valley ranch was the one desired. The farm is two miles from College Place and has a modern farm home on it.

You can always tell the pacifists by the fact that they are always quarreling with someone, says the Corvallis Gazette-Times.

MORMON LEADER SAYS POLYGAMY IS DEAD

President H. J. Grant, now head of the Mormon church, has had three wives, and himself is the son of a polygamous marriage, still he declares that polygamy is a dead issue in the church now. He is now touring the east, visiting the branch churches.

N. Y. GIRL LEGISLATOR AIMS AT PROFITEERS

Miss Marguerite Smith, 25, Republican, athlete and teacher of hygiene, had a strenuous campaign rewarded in election. All her fight in the New York legislature is to be aimed at the profiteer, she announces.

MOTHER OF SEVEN WARRIOR SONS DECORATED

Mrs. I. M. Blue of Washington, shown at the right, being decorated by Mrs. Josephus Daniels, wife of the secretary of the navy, now holds the record in the Women's Legion—made up of wives and mothers of members of the American Legion. She had seven sons in the service. Mrs. Daniels is vice president of the order.

Their Job to Keep Us Warm

These two are very much in the public eye at present. It is a new picture of Dr. Harry A. Garfield, fuel administrator, and Walker T. Hines, director general of railroads. This photo was taken as the two came from a meeting at the White House with the president's cabinet, Garfield having been authorized to again take control of the fuel situation, brought to a crisis through the big national coal strike. Hines and Garfield must work together in the attempt to keep the nation warm.

"PRO" FOOTBALL NOW

Professional football is soon going to be America's great fall and winter sport—and here is one of the pioneers and stars who helped make it so. It is Jim Thorpe, Indian athlete and major league baseball player who formerly was Carlisle's great grid star. After the baseball season closes, Thorpe goes to Canton, O., where he manages and captains the "Bulldogs" "Pro" games in Ohio are very popular.
