APPRECIATE KINDLY NEIGHBORLINESS

Echo, Ore., Nov. 18, 1919.
To the Editor of The Gazette-Times, Heppner, Ore.

We would be pleased to have you publish the following in your paper. On last Friday evening, Nov. 14, after enjoying a well prepared supper at the home of C. H. Bartholomew, we hastened to the church at Pine City, to attend a song service and social gathering. A large crowd was present, neighbors and church members. We very much enjoyed the social side of the occasion. The neighborly feeling made us glad and we appreciate it, as well as the gifts, which amounted to about $35. These occasions are bright spots in our lives.

S. M. MATHES AND WIFE.

American Manufacturers Desire the Metric System

San Francisco, Nov. 24.—It is the opinion of the manufacturers of the state of Washington that metric units of measurement should be used in the United States. A referendum vote just conducted by the Manufacturers' Association of Seattle showed 2 to 1 majority in favor of meter-liter-gram, the metric standards.

Following is a copy of the resolution sent by this to President Wilson: "In order that you may have knowledge of the interest taken by the manufacturers of Washington and sentiment with reference to changes which should be made in our system of weights and measures, we advise you that the result of a referendum taken among the manufacturers of this state shows that they are 2 to 1 in favor of the adoption of the meter-liter-gram or metric system."

"We believe that this standard will eventually become the system used world over and hope that you will use your good offices to establish it at the earliest possible time in the United States.—Manufacturers' Association of Washington."

This resolution is typical of those which are being received daily at Washington, D. C. from engineers, manufacturers, and men of every profession all over the United States.

Will Aid in Building Homes.
C. A. Lansdowne and Wm. E. Hanscom, of the Northwestern Home Builders Association, were in Echo Wednesday and met with the Commercial Club. They presented a proposition by which any citizen of the city who wishes to build a home will be given ample financial assistance for that purpose. They agree to advance a large proportion of the cost of a house, and allow the loan to be repaid in monthly payments like rent.

Encourage Increased Salmon Production

The salmon pack this year has been somewhat lighter than usual. It is alleged that the streams of the Pacific Coast and Alaska are being over-fished. The Federal government is studying the situation to determine, if possible, the reasons for this year's lessened pack. The government is considering the propagation of a largely increased number of salmon fry as an insurance against the depletion of the commercial supply in the future. It is understood that the number of hatcheries will be increased and that more efficient methods will be introduced.

Soldiers Want Beekeeping.
Disabled soldiers in large numbers are asking for a course in beekeeping that will enable them to take it up as a vocation. In response the department of entomology at the O. A. C. experiment station will give an intensive course of two hours—each forenoon and afternoon of Farmers week December 29-January 3. Many fruit men also ask for the course to assist them in putting apiaries in their orchards for pollination. Honey producers want to join the class to increase honey production in these days of scarce sugar and high sugar substitute prices. "Enough practice will be given the students to enable them to overcome the initial hesitancy in handling bees," says Prof. A. L. Lovett, who will have charge of the course.
