Dave Wilson, Spencer Crawford and Forby Greenba.

CINEMA CHUCKLES

Harry Carey, Universal star, has been preaching rules of diet to his director, Lynn Rynolds, who is supervising the production of Cheyenne Harry's latest feature, "Bullet Proof." A few days ago, however, upon returning to Universal after a strenuous day on location, Reynolds observed Carey in the lunch room behind an array of food that would gladden the heart of a specialist on indigestion.

"What did you say your rule of diet was, Harry?" asked the director.

"Work just a little harder than you eat," replied the actor.

Eddie Polo was telling some friends about a luscious bit of Spanish pastry sent to him recently by an admiring señorita from a little Mexican town near the Arizona border. The cake was liberally sprinkled with little candy hearts and was accompanied by a note in Spanish which, being deciphered, read, "Next to my pony I love you best."

"Did you consider it an insult?" asked a friend.

"I certainly did," replied the Universal serial star, "and I promptly swallowed it."

Little Breezy Eason, four years old and veteran cinema actor, was engaged by his father to play a part in "The Rattler's Hiss," a recent Universal western drama. The script demanded that young Eason fall into a lake, and after the incident was faithfully recorded by the camera the child was hastily bundled into blankets.

"Aren't you afraid you will take cold?" asked an interested spectator.

"No'm," was the reply. "Daddy says the water was filtered."

Priscilla Dean, Universal star, who recently finished "The Virgin of Stamboul," is learning to cook—and they do say there's a reason. But she is a little peeved at her cook's criticism.

On a recent morning she was chiding the mistress of her kitchen about her late hours. "Last night you kept me awake by the uproaring laughter of one of your guests."

"Yes, mum," was Bridget's reply, "but she couldn't help herself. I was telling her how you tried to make a cake the other day."

Remarkable Scene In "The Greatest Thing In Life"

A great deal has been written about that wonderful device of modern warfare—the creeping barrage. For the first time a creeping barrage has been put on the screen with really graphic details by D. W. Griffith in his new photoplay "The Greatest Thing In Life," in which Lillian Gish has the stellar part and which will be shown at the Star theater next Sunday.

It is a remarkable battle scene. No printed words can adequately describe this curtain of fire under the protection of which our Yank boys have repeatedly marched into the Hun trenches. You can see the heavy smoke clouds sweeping forward as though by the force of some unseen giant hand moving steadily toward the enemy trenches on a hill crest. You can see the shells exploding. It is so vivid that you can almost hear the crash.

Through the curtain of cloud a bombing aeroplane takes its perilous flight; now up almost in the real clouds; now darting like an angry wasp through the smoke and reek of the battle, just about the trenches. The creeping barrage is a development of this war. Before the days of such intensive artillery fire such a tactical device was never dreamed of. This is the first visualization available to those at home.

Katherine MacDonald Shows Up Society Sham.

Katherine MacDonald, generally termed the "world's most beautiful woman," will be seen in a strong society drama, when "The Beauty Market," her latest production, is shown at the Star theater, Saturday March 13.

Miss MacDonald was brought to the attention of photoplay fans by her work in "The Woman Thou Gavest Me." She was last seen here in her sensational success, "The Thunderbolt." The current picture is declared to be her greatest work thus far.

Home Builders!!

YOUR OPPORTUNITY IS HERE

I have long since believed that one of the first and most necessary requisites for the rebuilding of a community is good wholesome water. Now that Heppner proposes to supply this factor, and having often been requested to sell building sites out of my East Side property, I have concluded to put it on the market for sale in lots and blocks, and the plat is now nearing completion under the supervision of Mr. S. C. Martin, a Civil Engineer of wide experience.

The tract is easily accessible, has a fine view and its subdivision makes it desirable as home sites. One of these days you will want a home in Heppner. Why not buy a lot now when it can be had at a reasonable price, on very easy terms, and in what is surely destined to be a most beautiful residential district.

If you have never walked up on the hill do so now. You will be surprised at the beauty of the location with a view scarcely anticipated, Mt. Hood being clearly outlined in the distance. Candidly, I am surprised and much gratified at the easy grades possible to reach the property, as worked out by Mr. Martin, who is on the ground, and who will be pleased to give any information concerning the plat.

Perhaps it is not entirely out of place to say that in platting this property I am as much interested in making it a beautiful home site as I am in the profit that may be realized, but I do not want any one to buy unless they feel it will be profitable to do so. Nevertheless, I have no hesitancy in saying that in my opinion, before you have made your last payment, under the liberal terms I propose to offer, the lots will have greatly enhanced in value.

Watch this space for subsequent information.

Greater Production

It is generally conceded that there is but one way of reducing the High Cost of Living, and that is by increasing production.

Morrow County with over 400,000 acres of tillable land uncultivated is in line to help reduce the H. C. L. Why not put Morrow County in its proper place: at the head of the list for production in the counties of Oregon.
