The State University Agricultural College and the State Normal

have for many years spent less money per student per year in training Oregon boys and girls than is spent at any other state institution. The present cost at the State University is $293 a year; at the College, it is $189. But even before the war, when money would buy twice as much as it buys now, the average cost at all other state institutions was $325 a year. In addition

Their Building Investment is also very low

At the State University it is at present $322 per student; at the College, $209. But in state institutions else-where, statistics show the average to be $995. These are convincing proofs of economical administration, but the three institutions can no longer give satisfactory training to the vast num-bers of Oregon boys and girls (5400 in fulltime courses alone), unless they receive more support. On May 21 the Higher Educational relief measure will appear on the ballot. You are urged to preserve the qual-ity of higher education by voting for it.
