

SALVATION ARMY PLANS BOYS AND GIRLS INDUSTRIAL AND AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL

View of Bishop Scott school and Salvation Army boys being taught orchard work at Lytton school.

One of the big phases of the work the Salvation Army is doing in Oregon to prevent the ills of wrong teaching and poverty and to strike at the root of the despair and grief found in the cities, is the training and care of dependent boys and girls. One of the items of the budget to be raised for the Salvation Army work in Oregon provides for the purchase of the Bishop Scott school at North Yamhill as an industrial and agricultural school where neglected kiddies will be educated and made efficient workers so that when they go out into the world they will be an asset to society and not a charge upon the communities of which they will be members. The 1000 acre farm has a walnut grove and other orchards, and, under proper care of agricultural experts who will teach the boys, its productivity will go far toward making the school self supporting. The school is in no sense to be a penal or reformatory institution but on the other hand it is intended to provide sound vocational education for youngsters who, without it, are on the road to bad citizenship.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS SHORT OF TEACHERS

That the people of Oregon are keenly interested in the passage of the bill which provides for a two mill tax levy for the support and maintenance of the elementary schools of the state is attested by hundreds of organizations that have given it unanimous endorsement and the hundreds of people who are devoting their time to the furtherance of its success. Mrs. Alexander Thompson, Oregon's only woman legislator, who is the author of the bill, says in speaking of it: "There is a shortage of 140,000 school teachers in the country and of this number Oregon has her full quota, our shortage being 500. A total of 230 school rooms are leased and bolted because there are no teachers; 4600 Oregon children lack school facilities, and unless there is relief by the voting of this measure the number will be doubled next year. The number of teachers leaving Oregon schools to go into other professions has more than doubled during the era of the high cost of living. The increase in living costs during the period are estimated at from 88 per cent to 94 per cent. Teachers salaries have increased less than 25 per cent. Normal schools and teacher training schools show a decrease in attendance of 30 per cent."

In western Oregon there are many so-called poverty districts, 965 of which have an annual school revenue of less than $800. Lane county has 124 such districts; Marion, 58; Washington, 44; Douglas, 85; Lincoln, 41 and even urban Multnomah has nine such districts. Where population or taxable wealth is scant it is with difficulty that schools are supported. In these districts the rate of taxation is very high, some of them valuing education enough to tax themselves as high as 50 mills. In other districts less public spirited schools are either closed or are presided over by totally incompetent teachers.

In 31 counties of Oregon there are 2204 rural teachers who for this year's school work are drawing an average wage of $734.22. Of this number 902 draw less than $700 a year and 641 draw only $600 a year, the minimum lawful wage for eight months of school work. Of 965 rural school districts 446 have a total revenue of less than $800, the average being $598 or insufficient to pay the $600 minimum wage for one teacher for each district. These are pre-war salaries and low ones at that. It is impossible to live on them now.

Washington contributes $34 per census child to the education of her children; Oregon contributes $11.83. Both Washington and California pay better salaries than Oregon. Hence the desirable teachers are being called out of the state. The war taught us a great lesson concerning illiteracy and un-Americanism. Twenty-four and nine-tenths per cent of our soldiers could not read or write. Bolshevism and ignorance can only be counteracted by a good public school system. The foundations of a democracy rest upon an intelligent citizenship. Your vote in the Elementary Educational Bill is a test of your citizenship.

"The whole aim of the bill is equalization and every county receives back every cent that they pay into the fund. There is now more than $42,000,000 worth of property in Oregon which escapes taxation for the support of the elementary schools because it is outside of any school district. If this measure is passed this property will be compelled to bear its share and more than $80,000 will thus be added to the resources of the schools."

"Oregon is now one of only seven states in the Union which levy no state tax for elementary schools. Go to the polls May 2 and vote 314 Yes and urge your friends and neighbors to do likewise and thus help to put Oregon at the top educationally as she already is in so many respects."

Legion Head Points Out Urgent Need For Soldiers.

In a telegram to Ralph E. Crego of this city, state commander W. B. Follett of the American Legion points out the urgent need of passing the soldiers' and sailors' aid bill. The telegram said: "Ballot soldiers' educational aid bill title 312 must give favorable publicity. Over four thousand soldiers receiving aid. Appropriations exhausted with over $10,000 unpaid claims. Unless bill passes over 2000 service men deprived of this aid."

Bring In Good Well at McMillan Ranch.

Wade & Bowers last week finished driving a well on the ranch of Geo. and Gus McMillan located midway between Ione and Lexington. At 224 1/2 feet water was found which filled the hole 144 feet, and incessant pumping failed to lower it any. The drilling outfit has been moved to the Doak Bros. place northeast of Ione, where a well is being sunk.—Ione Independent.
