

NOTED LECTURER IS COMING TO CHAUTAUQUA

THOS. MCCLARY

Every profession has its dependables and upon the lecture platform there are some of the brightest and most forceful minds of the present day. Thos. McClary is one of these. He has been a foremost lecturer on the Chautauqua platform for years, and is a welcome return date visitor wherever he has been. His lectures are bright, optimistic messages of cheer and right living. The Chautauqua will be better for having Thos. McClary among its speakers.

Mixup? Rather! See "The Girl Dodger"

Imagine the mixup that ensued when Cuthbert Trotman, a dreamy student at the University, mistook beautiful Anita Graham for a chorus girl, one Pinkie le Rue, and tried to play the gay dog for her benefit. He was only doing it to help out Tavistock, a fellow student, but he thought he had got himself in wrong for fair. And strangest of all, at the finish he found he had won the admiration of the heiress and was forced to subdue Tavistock by the practice of the manly art.

Such is the basis of the new Charles Ray picture, "The Girl Dodger" which will be shown at the Star theatre next Sunday. It is a college story, a mirror-like record of student pranks and presents the famous Thomas H. Ince star in a Paramount picture that is without doubt the most amusing film in which he has ever appeared.

J. G. Hawks is the author and Jerome Storm directed the production. The cast is superior in every way and there is ample evidence that it will prove the most popular of Mr. Ray's recent photoplay offerings.

Well Known Director Staged "Mrs. Wiggs"

Fourteen years ago Hugh Ford was recognized as one of the ablest directors on the legitimate stage. In this capacity he produced "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," both in this country and in London, and the play, by Ann Crawford Flexner, which was a dramatization of the novel by Alice Hegan Rice, was most successful and held the stage for many years.

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" has now been pictured for Paramount by Hugh Ford with Marguerite Clark, the beautiful Paramount star, in the stellar role. Miss Clark appears as Lovey Mary, that delightful creature whose pranks in the story won her so many juvenile admirers. The picture is a remarkable one in many respects, its situations being dramatic and its heart-appeal to old and young alike, irresistible. The adaptation was made by Eve Unsell with splendid effect, and the supporting cast is of the highest class. It will be shown at the Star theatre next Friday.

KELLEY AND MATLOCK'S RIDE FOR LEXINGTON.

When history writes of Heppner's town of the terrible flood that swept it down, fame shall stand by and with gilded pen write the names of these two men.

Two that rode forth ahead of the wave, Two that rode forth others to save, Two that rode forth who lost their all,

Two that rode forth at Duty's call.

Fighting their way through storm and night, While torrents roared to left, to right, For the specter Death on his white horse rode

The race for life, on the Willow creek road.

On like the storm cloud the riders came, Urging their horses again and again, Above the tempest their words rang clear.

"Fly for your lives, The cloud burst's here."

How many mothers with glistening eye, Now gaze on their babes, for that timely cry:

How many husbands have clasped their wives, And blest those men who saved their lives.

Two that rode forth ahead of the wave, Two that rode forth others to save, Two that rode forth who lost their all,

Two that rode forth at Duty's call.

There are hosts of others in Heppner's town,

If truth were known, who deserve renown, But 'twill ever be handed down from Father to Son.

How Kelley and Matlock rode for Lexington. —THOMAS MURRAY SPENCER, Portland, Oregon, June 22, 1902.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Wood of Ione were visitors in Heppner on Wednesday.

J. D. Brown, prominently identified with the Farmers' Union and the Tri-State Terminal company, a farmers' mercantile establishment, spent Monday and Tuesday in Heppner. Mr. Brown made his home in Heppner a number of years ago but is now a resident of Portland.

Chas. H. Latourell of the local Ford Sales and Service, sold three of the universal cars during the week. One of them to W. G. Scott, the Lexington banker. It has shock absorbers n'everything. Mr. Scott says the Ford is absolutely the only car in the automobile world.

Dan B. Stalter, the veteran mining man, will leave Sunday for his property in the Greenhorn mountains, which he will develop during the coming summer. The property is owned by the Heppner Mining company, of which Mr. Stalter is president and principal stockholder.

Miss Alma Akers, Miss Ollie Cox and Misses Martha and Millie Buschke accompanied Will Buschke to Arlington last Sunday, where they witnessed the ball game between Arlington and Goldendale. Goldendale went down to defeat for the first time this season, losing by a score of 17 to 5.

Voice of Experience—"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "do you want me to vote?"

"I'm not going to tell you."

"Why not?"

"Because if anything goes wrong with the election you'll say you did exactly as I told you, and it's all my fault."—Washington Star.

Comparative Greatness—"How do the prominent rivals in your town stand?"

"It is hard to tell. Smith has been mentioned as a favorite son for the presidency, but Jones' baby has cut four teeth."—Baltimore American.
