POINTS IN COOLIDGE ACCEPTANCE SPEECH

The position of Governor Coolidge on public issues are clearly defined in these brief passages from his speech of acceptance at Northampton, July 27:
It is the first duty of the public and press to expose false doctrines and answer seditious arguments.

American institutions can stand discussion and criticism, only if those who know bear for them the testimony of the truth.

The chief task that lies before us is to repossess the people of their government and their property. We want to return to a thoroughly peace basis because that is the fundamental American basis.

Unless the government and property of the nation are in the hands of the people, and there to stay as their permanent abiding place, self-government ends and the hope of America goes down in ruins.

The observance of the law is the greatest solvent of public ills. Men speak of natural rights, but I challenge any one to show where in nature any rights ever existed or were recognized until there was established for their declaration and protection a duly promulgated body of corresponding laws.

The most obvious place to begin retrenchment is by eliminating the extravagance of the government itself.

All authority must be exercised by those to whom it is constitutionally entrusted, without dictation, and with responsibility only to those who have bestowed it, the people.

The economic strength of a country rests on the farm. Industrial activity is dependent upon it.

In all things a return to a peace basis does not mean the basis of 1914. That day is gone. It means a peace basis of the present, higher, nobler, because of the sacrifices made and the duties assumed. It is not a retreat, it is a new summons to advance.

The nation which forgets its defenders will be itself forgotten.

Equal suffrage for which I have always voted is coming. It is not a party question although nearly six-sevenths of the ratifying legislatures have been Republican. The party stands pledged to use its endeavor to hasten ratification, which I trust will be at once accomplished.

The foreign relations of our country ought not to be partisan, but American.

der named. The Oregon leads in waterpower business, with receipts of $5,113.81. The Tongass came next with $3,331; and the Whitman third, $865.

Fire trespass on nine Forests brought in $13,567.34, and grazing trespass on 12 Forests, $5,113.73. Timber trespass on five Forests paid $1,010.95; $7,571.40 covers timber settlement cases on five Forests, the Olympic leading with $4,204.50. The Olympic leads also in fire trespass, with $9,684.91.

Twenty-five per cent of the total receipts for the district, $215,165, will be returned to Oregon, Washington and Alaska, to swell the road and school funds of the counties or districts in which the National Forests are located. Ten per cent more, $86,066, must be spent in road or trail development within the Forests themselves.

The total receipts from the National Forests of the country for the last fiscal year were $4,793,482.28 which is nearly a half million dollars more than for the preceding year.

BARNARD & EMBRY

THE BANK AND THE YOUNG BUSINESS MAN

This bank prides itself on the fact that many a young business man has sought and received helpful advice here on monetary affairs.

Today's young business man is tomorrow's captain of industry. And many a big man today admits that his success is due in no small part to the friendship established between himself and a strong progressive bank.

We invite small accounts of young business men. In time these men will come to regard this as THEIR bank—the bank which helped them grow. Join them.
