Too Much Bad Cream.
The main trouble with the butter scored in the first 1920 butter scoring contest at O. A. C. in August was "neutralizer." Much of the cream had been delivered sour, and some of it rather aged. The flavor is not seriously objected to for storage, but is too often associated with "mild and musty" flavors. It indicates lack of use of the acid test, which will help makers get away from the "dump and taste" plan.
