Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fritsch of the Battery Electric Service Station, and their son Robert left Tuesday for Spokane to make a visit with relatives. During their absence, their business here is in charge of Mr. and Mrs. George Falkner.

Harvie Young, until recently a farmer of the Eight Mile section, has taken a lease on the Wm. Soukup farm south of Heppner and is making preparations to move on to the place. He sold his Eight Mile ranch to Sherman county parties last spring.

Messrs. McGinnis and Cox, Portland men, arrived in Heppner the first of the week and accompanied A. Henriksen to the latter's ranch in the mountains, where they will go over the timber belt with a view to putting in a saw mill there in the near future.

Only a few days remain in which voters may register. If you are not registered, better attend to it at once. If you have changed your precinct or your name, you should re-register. You will want to vote in November, so you should be sure that you are properly registered.

Al Henriksen, who was in town Wednesday, reports the sale of 400 tons of alfalfa hay at his Cecil ranch this week, at a price of $12 per ton. This hay is to be fed on the place. Mr. Henriksen also disposed of 110 tons of timothy at the Hamilton ranch recently, getting $15 per ton for this.

Mrs. A. H. Hammer, mother of M. W. Hammer of this city, and Miss Beatrice Haverson and Master Walter Haverson, sister and brother of Mrs. M. W. Hammer, were guests at the Hammer home in this city during the past week, the latter returning home on Sunday, while Mrs. Hammer returned a few days earlier. These people are residents of Salem and they were accompanied home by Mrs. M. W. Hammer.

According to H. W. Grim of Irrigon, who was sojourning in Heppner for a few hours Friday, the Irrigon section has one of the largest hay crops this year in its history. At present the hay market is not looking up any too well, but Mr. Grim hopes there will be a better demand a little later on. The Irrigon project suffered from the severe cold weather the past winter and much of the fruit was destroyed. Peach trees and many apple trees were killed down, and it will take a number of years to overcome the damage done.

Harry Duval was up from his arduous well farm the first of the week.

Chas. Vaughn returned Sunday from a brief business trip to Portland.
