News About Oregon's Industries

Astoria, Ore.—Picking of cranberries in Clatsop county has been started with about 150 people at work. The yield will be 25 per cent heavier than last year and with that of Pacific county, Wash. is expected to be sufficient to supply the trade for the two states and California.

La Grande, Ore.—Manufacturers of this city alone are to exhibit made-in-LaGrande goods at the fair to be held here on October 8 and 9. This will include 26 different concerns, both large and small, located in the city.

Baker, Ore.—Plans are being made for the re-building of the Hess saw mill, recently destroyed by fire near North Powder. The capacity of the plant will be largely increased.

Portland, Ore.—Handling waste paper will form the principal business of the Independent Paper Company of San Francisco, which is to erect a group of buildings in this city. The main structure, of brick, will be 80 by 100 feet. There will be sorting and receiving sheds, the three costing $35,000 for their erection.

Astoria, Ore.—Derrick timbers are in place and foundations have been completed for the derrick to be erected for the Columbia Oil and Gas company's well on the Chew farm near Warrenton. Drilling equipment will be brot here shortly.

Portland, Ore.—Advertisements for the promotion of Oregon payrolls are to be included in a campaign of publicity being conducted by the Ladd & Tilton bank. Each advertisement discusses a particular Oregon industry, telling the name of each brand of that product made in Oregon, and advising consumers to buy Oregon made.

Baker, Ore.—Preparations are being made to electrify the mill of the Queen mining company at Cornucopia in order that it may operate all winter. The line is to connect with the Idaho Power company's wires.

Tillamook, Ore.—Figures prepared on cheese production in this section show that the industry earned over $260 per capita for every man, woman and child in the county. More than $2,000,000 worth was turned out.

Reedsport, Ore.—Senator McNary's recent visit to this section threw much light on harbor developments, financed unaided by the port itself. Deep sea vessels are now loading lumber at the mouth of the Umpqua.

Portland, Ore.—A. G. Clark, secretary-manager of the Associated Industries of Oregon, is in the East, visiting various cities in the interest of developing Oregon's payrolls.

Portland, Ore.—To the increasing number of steamship lines touching here regularly will soon be added the vessels of the United American Lines, incorporated, of New York City. These steamers will carry freight between the east and west coasts of the United States and service will be inaugurated with the sailing of the Hawaaian by way of the Panama canal on October 2.

Salem, Ore.—Establishment of a Holland bulb farm near Salem, which will supply florists in every section of the United States with hyacinths, tulips, narcissus, daffodils, gladiolus and other bulbs by wholesale is to open next week near here.

Marshfield, Ore.—Cranberries are beginning to loom up in this section and preparations are being made to harvest the largest output the county has ever had.

Portland, Ore.—In order to raise sufficient money to equip its new plant, the Automatic Electric Brake company is issuing 20,000 shares of stock. Several brakes and drills are soon to be placed on the market by the new firm.

Astoria, Ore.—Cement blocks are soon to be turned out here b a new factory in charge of Victor Lindberg, who now has machinery for his plant on the way from the east. He later plans to add tile to his output.

Portland, Ore.—Furniture manufacturers of Portland and near-by cities are to maintain a permanent furniture exhibit in this city, similar to the one held here during Buyer's week.

Portland, Ore.—A large foreign order for oleomargarine had to be turned down recently by the only oleomargarine factory in the Northwest, because an Oregon law prohibits the use of vegetable coloring in the product. The foreign buyer had insisted that the product be colored and plainly labeled "Oleomargarine." The order, which would have been worth thousands of dollars to Oregon, went to Omaha. The board of directors of the Associated Industries have voted unanimously to fight the oleomargarine bill, maintaining that it interfers with both the industries and the rights of consumers.

Will Feeding Steers Pay?

New light on feeding practices that help determine whether it will pay the livestock men to buy up feeder steers and fatten for the market, is shed by the reports of six years' feeding tests at the Union branch experiment station. The reports have been published in bulletin form—"Fattening Steers"—copies of which are free to Oregon citizens. Send to O. A. C., Corvallis.

Seed Treatment May Hurt.

Careless treatment of seed is often the cause of thin stands of wheat, says D. E. Stephens, Moro experiment station man. Exact amounts of water and either formaldehyde or bluestone must be determined by measuring or weighing. Formaldehyde may be measured in a small graduated bottle which may be obtained from the drug store, 4 ozs. to 11 gallons of water being about right. If bluestone is used less injury will follow if the grain is dipped into a lime bath—1 pound quicklime to 10 gallons of water. Treated seed is best sown immediately or entirely dried out.

Orchard Insect Manual Takes.

"Fruit Growers' Handbook of Apple and Pear Insects" is said by orchardmen to be exactly the thing most needed. It tells in plain terms how to know and fight all important insects of pear and apple in a little volume not half as big as the standard bulletin. The key chart points the finger at the insect that caused any injury. Both injury and insect are shown in lifelike illustrations. The manual is "right" in contents, words and form to suit you best. Send to O. A. C. for free copy.

No Reduction In Price of Dodge Automobiles

Official confirmation of press dispatches from Detroit, announcing that there would be no reduction in the price of Dodge Brothers Motor Cars has been received by Cohn Auto Co., the Dodge Brothers dealer in this city. A telegram from C. W. Matheson, acting sales manager to the local dealer, reads:

Dodge Brothers' policy has ever been to give full value for the price asked. There will be no reduction in the present prices of Dodge Brothers motor cars. Newspaper reports to the contrary are absolutely untrue."

"Dodge Brothers.' announcement was no surprise to us," said Harold Cohn. "In fact it is only a substantiation of Dodge Brothers' business principles At no time have they ever demanded an excess amount for their product. As in the past, they will continue in the future to demand a fair return for their efforts.

"The mere fact that the demand for Dodge Brothers. 'motor cars is still greater than the supply, despite the great expansion program at the factory, has absolutely nothing to do with the decision to continue the present prices. In marketing their car Dodge Brothers have never made a point of price and will never sacrifice the quality of their product to enter price competition."

Hessian Fly Hits Wheat.

A Hessian fly invasion is reported by George Kable, agricultural agent of Benton county. "Plow deep and early and plant late," is given as the only known control. If present the fly can be found by pulling up the stubble and stripping down the leaves to the roots, where it may be seen as a little brown cocoon that looks like a flax seed.

Mrs. W. G. McCarty has gone to The Dalles to visit with her son, Willis McCarty and family.
