A CRITIC'S OPINION.

Now Harry, I'll say as a critic and friend, When you gave your political party And rolled up your sleeves, great ends to achieve, Your efforts were earnest and hearty. But one thing I'd say, which these isn't a doubt Just stopped the show right in the middle. What everyone there was desiring to hear Was a gay little tune on the fiddle. Your opening address just thit the right spot. Your Campaign Song was a dinger, Tho' Harry, Old Dear, I dreadfully fear You were never cut out for a singer. But when you had laid out the program alright, Our hopes went as high as a steeple. You took a straw vote, by which you could note The platform we held as a people. You called us apostles of John Barley-corn, When taking the votes from the boxes. You found quite a number for Eugene V. Debs, But most of the rest were all Cox's. Now Harry, you see that was scarcely polite Nor exactly the key to the riddle. Tho' we would have forgiven and called it all right If you had but toned up the fiddle. We wanted the "Star Spangled Banner" to wave, For music has charms that bewitches We expected to hear a lively old tune. We wanted to hear "Leather Britches." But Harry gets up and decants for an hour On poverty, store bills, and patches— My Gracious! No wonder the crowd bundled up And left the theater in batches. So next time, oh Harry, you make up your mind To crack the political riddle, You'll keep the crowd better and also gain time By playing a tune on the fiddle. —ELVA PERRY.

Social at School.

A social gathering was given last Friday evening by the three upper classes in honor of the Freshmen. Judging from the many remarks heard from the students, everyone enjoyed themselves.

OREGON FARMERS WANT A PROTECTIVE TARIFF

R. N. Stanfield Believes They are Untied for Republican Policies.

Portland, October 20.—Oregon farmers have fully awakened to the danger of hard times that lie ahead unless they are given tariff protection.

This is the view of Robert N. Stanfield, Republican candidate for United States Senator, who is touring the state.

"The farmers are of one opinion; they are united on insisting that the Democratic administration with its protectionless tariff stand must go," declared Mr. Stanfield in a statement on the tariff situation.

"I have talked with the wheat men, the wool producers, the cattle and livestock men, the fruit raiser, the poultry producer, the dairymen, the walnut growers—and I cannot too strongly impose upon the voters that our agricultural and livestock producers must have relief," said Mr. Stanfield.

"No relief can be hoped for from the Democratic administration. At this minute the Democratic candidates are ignoring the tariff issue because their party stands for free trade policies.

"The farmers are lining up solidly behind the Republican tariff program, both Republicans and Democrats. They realize, too, that a Republican Senate and Republican House of Representatives are necessary to support the Republican President in passing the tariff legislation to prevent the dumping of Canadian wheat and the products of cheap foreign labor onto the markets of the United States to the destruction of our farmers and producers."

Entertained at Holiday Party.

John Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Parker, entertained a number of his young friends at the Parker farm home on Saturday afternoon, thus paying due observance to the 7th anniversary of his birth. The children greatly enjoyed the occasion by playing outdoor games and partaking of the refreshments of sandwiches, ice cream and cake. The guests were Earl Thomson, Marcel Jones, John Merritt, Harry Wells, Joe Swindig, Ray Anderson, Robert Hart, Jeanette Turner, Evelyn Swindig, Lucille Hart, Ella Fell, Doris Blatt and Zella McPerrin.

TURNER AND BROWN BIG SHORTHORN SALE

From present indications cheap hay looks like a safe prediction for the coming winter. Such a condition should place the small farmer in the market for a few head of livestock. There is no better revenue than the returns from pure-bred Shorthorn cattle. The farm needs the manure and the farmer can use to advantage the return from a registered calf crop. A head of registered Shorthorn cows and heifers will be available at auction prices at Carlton, Oregon, Monday, October 25th. Joseph Turner of Edwal, Washington, and Frank Brown of Carlton, Oregon, have listed in their second annual combination sale Shorthorns which combine beef and milk. The fifty females offered in this sale are descended from high class milking shorthorn families. These cows were bred on the Montana ranch of the Brook Noon Stock Ranch Co., of the late C. X. Larrabee. Mr. Larrabee secured for his foundation stock some of the best females obtainable from the Kentucky herd of Wm. Wardell.

Wm. Wardell was one of the first shorthorn breeders to take advantage of the milk and butter test. The best bulls used in his Kentucky herd, Mustang and Duke of Aordrie, combine the blood of Joe Johnson and Kitty Clay, probably the most famous of the milking strain families.

From such cattle are the Turner and Brown consignment descended. Cows of breeding age will many of them be sold with calves at foot, others due to calve this fall.

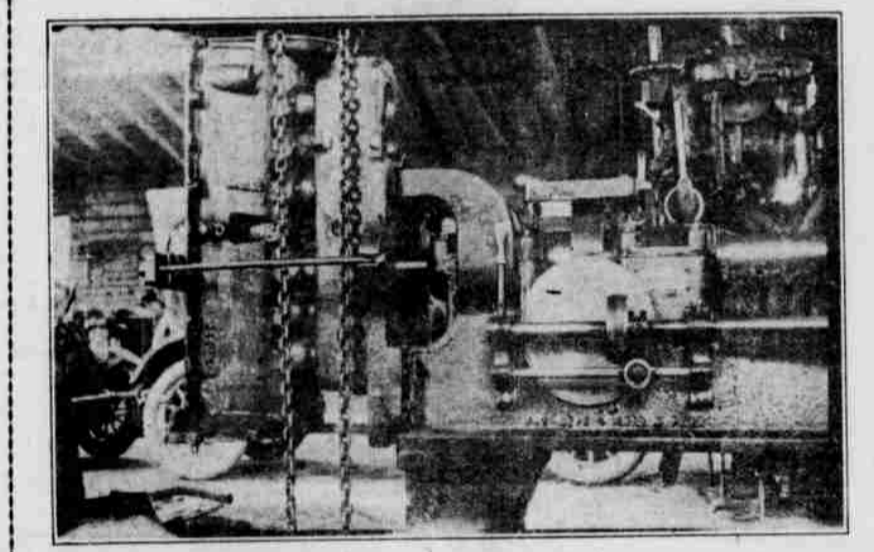

The sale is scheduled for twelve o'clock, noon, on Monday, October 25th. Col. Harry C. Cranke, the well known Northwest livestock auctioneer, will be on the block.

The cattle will be sold at the Graiglelea Farm, one mile west of Carlton on the Newberg-Chehalum road. The Southern Pacific 7:15 or 10 a. m. trains leaving Portland, will reach Carlton in time for the sale. Autos will meet all trains. Catalogues for this sale may be procured by addressing Frank Brown, Carlton, Oregon.

Marine Corps Recruiting Shows Substantial Gains

Washington, October 20.—Recruiting for the Marine Corps has made a remarkable gain since July, when 525 recruits were enlisted. A substantial increase was recorded for August, when the total accepted applicants numbered 1335, and in September the total rose to 1454, more than doubling the figures for July. Early returns for October show a still greater increase, and it is expected that the final figures for the current month will far exceed the September total.

Enlistment figures in recent months have been increased by large numbers of former Marines who are returning to the service. Many of the new recruits are men who have only recently reached the enlistment age, and recruiting officers report the younger recruits are attracted by the educational opportunities offered by the Marine Corps. The Marine Corps has not launched any special advertising campaign, and the present unusual rise in enlistments is attributed to the fact that many of the new recruits find conditions in the service desirable and are inducing their friends to join.
