AN APPEAL

To the Republicans of the Country and All Those Who Aided Them:

The Republican success in the 1920 election has been commensurate with the quality of our candidates and the righteousness of our cause.

This success is the partnership accomplishment of all Republicans everywhere and of hundreds of thousands of well-wishers of good government regardless of past party affiliations.

To all of these we now appeal because it is the mutual responsibility of us all who will share alike in the consequent mutual benefit of good government.

The plan of limiting campaign contributions to $1,000, adopted by your national organization, has left your party unimpaired.

It has been a most advanced step in placing the business of politics on the highest plane, and has brought an interest on the part of thousands who never before have been concerned with politics.

Some weeks before election it was apparent that the expenses provided for in our budget, with the strictest economy, would exceed the contributions, but we were unwilling either to leave undone any legitimate effort essential to complete success or to change the method of raising money.

We were then sure and we are now sure that every Republican desires that the expenses of the campaign be distributed in this manner.

Your presidential campaign this year cost no more than that of 1916, when a dollar went nearly twice as far as it does today.

Four years ago the bulk of the campaign fund came from 750 contributors, while this year approximately $2,000,000 contributed to date for the presidential election has come from 50,000 givers.

The victory won, the raising of the deficit would be easy, indeed, if your committee were willing to abandon the policy of keeping down the average contribution. This we are determined not to do.

It was a fight of all the people. The result speaks for itself. It lifted a burden from the minds of millions and points the way to better and happier days. We ask now for that additional help from all which is merited both by the successful conclusion of the effort and by the consequent contribution to the welfare of all of our people and the glory of the nation.

Let us now have help from every American who is grateful for the victor's and all that it means to the country. It might well be in the nature of a thanksgiving offering for the return to a certain safe, sane, constitutional progressive government.

Let us by general and generous giving put the seal of approval upon the policy of putting national administration in power free from any possible enhancement of special obligation to any man, men or group of men. Let us make the contribution, whether large or small, and whether or not we have heretofore given, commensurate with our means and our appreciation, always within the maximum limit heretofore fixed.

Let us get our names on the corner stone of a sturdier political structure, upon the roll of those who have helped make possible a campaign of which, in methods and result, we may as Republicans and patriots be justly proud.

Most earnestly we urge that this aid be given quickly, that your committee may be enabled to discharge the party's obligations and turn to further constructive work in behalf of party and country.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COM. Will H. Hays, Chairman. Fred W. Upham, Treasurer, or James G. Blaine, Jr., Eastern Treasurer, and sent to the Committee's Office, 15 West 44th Street, New York City, N. Y.

DAIRY FACTS

AGE OF CATTLE DETERMINED

(1) Internal Face of Incisors of Calf. (2) At Two Years. (3) At Three Years. (4) At Four Years. (5) At Five Years. (6) At Twelve Years.

The age of cattle can be approximately determined by the appearance, development and subsequent wear of their second incisor teeth, according to Farmers' Bulletin 1003 just issued by the United States department of agriculture.

Cattle have eight incisor teeth, all in the lower jaw. In the calf at birth two or more of the temporary or first incisor teeth are present. With the first month the entire eight incisors have appeared. Each of the six stages in the development of the teeth is shown in the bulletin by illustrations which will be very helpful to the person desirous of becoming proficient in judging the age of cattle.

As the animal approaches two years of age the center pair of temporary incisor teeth or pinchers are replaced by the permanent pinchers, which at two years attain full development.

At two and one-half to three years the permanent first intermediates are cut and are usually fully developed at three years.

At three and one-half years the second intermediates or laterals are cut. They are on a level with the first intermediates and begin to wear at four years.

At four and one-half to five years the corner teeth are replaced, the annual at five years having the full complement of incisors with the corners fully developed.

At five to six years there is a leveling of the permanent pinchers, the pinchers usually being leveled at six and both pairs of intermediates partially leveled and the corner incisors showing wear.

From seven to eight the pinchers are noticeably worn; from eight to nine the middle pairs; and by ten years the corner teeth.

After six years the arch gradually loses its rounded contour and becomes nearly straight by the twelfth year. In the meantime the teeth have become triangular in shape, distinctly separated, and show the progressive wearing to stubs.

FABLED STATUES OF JAPAN

Interesting Legends That Are Told of Famous Wood Carver and the Gods of Nippon.

Unkel, the son of a fisherman, and in his youth, a humble fisherman himself, was responsible for one of the most remarkable epochs in the history of Japanese wood sculpture, writes Elsie F. Well, in Asia. His name is a household word to the Japanese. The story is told, by those who are supposed to know, that the king of the underworld was very much irritated that Unkel had never done him justice, although the sculptor had attempted to carve his image many times. So, when he died, the king of dead Buddhist souls sent Unkel back to earth, that after having seen the god, he might make a faithful portrait. The result may be seen today in the temple Enno-ji at Kamakura, where Unkel's statue of Emma, cruel and savage in its strength, strikes terror into the hearts of all who fear to meet the Judge of Hell.

There are many delightful legends about old statues of the gods. In the Hase temple at Kamakura, high on the crest of a hill overlooking the bay, is a great gilded Kwannon of camphor wood—an 11-faced image of the Goddess of Mercy—which for centuries has harkened to the prayers of the fishermen. A long time ago, in that dim past when dragons were abroad in the land and gods condescended to play with men, some fishermen saw a great light shining out at sea. They sailed in their junks toward the light and found the image of Kwannon floating on the water. They dedicated a temple to the image and ever since have worshipped at her shrine.

At the same time a similar image of Kwannon, also made of camphor wood, floated in at Yamato and was placed in the Hase-no-Kwannon, a temple that was the favorite resort of courtiers in the Nara period. It is still today a popular temple for pilgrims, who come in the spring, when the cherries are in full blossom and all the lanterns are lighted, to transport themselves back to the days when the gods were young.

Get Out in the Sun. The sun energizes us to accomplish things that by night seemed impossible. The sun warms the heart, and breeds the gentleness where love springs. We cannot watch the energy of a garden life and not share its vitality, neither can we watch the miracle that is in the yearly resurrection of the seed without being quickened to wonder and belief. Light shows up all things in their true value, and we sorely need this wisdom of true values. In these days of mad rush for money, position and power, the care of mind, body and soul is given a secondary place too often. The most valuable recreation is getting in the immediate presence of nature. If we cannot have a garden or a yard to work in, just get out into God's great outdoors, where one can be baptized with the glorious sunshine. It is the sun that makes the children and the little lambs frolic, the birds sing and the flowers bloom.—Thrift Magazine.

Jerusalem Cobblers Worry. Jerusalem's large army of cobblers, who have been enjoying an undreamed of prosperity because the terrible condition of the streets has kept them busy repairing shoes, are beginning to worry over lean days ahead. With the British administration and the Zionist commission engaged in improving the streets of the Holy city the cobblers see future days of little to do compared to the golden harvest they are now reaping, according to the Palestine Weekly, a new English newspaper published in Jerusalem. With plans under way for the establishment of shoe factories capable of a large daily output, which will bring shoe prices down to a low level, combined with the smoothness the streets are now acquiring, the present outlet for cobblers have reason to worry over the future, the Weekly chuckles.
