measures which they declare will yield more in revenue than resulted from the excess profits tax, the transportation tax and other wartime taxes. Representative Isaac Bacharach of New Jersey, a member of the Ways and Means Committee, who early advocated such a tax, will introduce his original bill with some modifications, while another bill along different lines, the work of Senator Reed Smoot of the Finance Committee, will be introduced in the Senate on Tuesday.

Senator Smoot's bill is based largely on the principles of the Philippine sales tax system, and he estimates it will yield about $1,500,000,000. Under the plan proposed by Senator Smoot, practically all of the existing taxes involving sales, excepting the income taxes, the normal tax on business, the inheritance tax, the automobile tax and the tax on pleasure boats, would be repealed and a one per cent tax on all sales substituted. The present beverage and tobacco taxes would continue in force.

This would eliminate the theater tax, amusement taxes and all of the so-called luxury taxes.

NEVER AGAIN.
John Clay relates the following story:
"I visited the old farm in Scotland, as was my custom each year, when talking with the old Scotchman who had been a part of the farm organization since my boyhood days, I noted that he was not wearing the big fur cap with the heavy ear-flaps which he had always worn in winter time.

"Where is your cap, Sandy?" I asked.
" My cap, mon, why I have na worn it since the accident."

"Ah, yes, it was when McGregor came over an' we were oot together, an' he asked me to have a drink—an' I dinna hear him."—Foresight.

It happened on the transport coming back.
"Show me your identification tag," demanded the medical officer of a colored private.

"Ah done chucked it overboard, suh," confessed the other. "Ah jus' naturally ain't got no ambition for no more of dem death checks."—American Legion Weekly.

FARMERS WEEK; LET'S GO, CALL OF RURAL FOLK

Excursions, Camping, Conferences, and Instruction, to Draw Throngs to College.

"On to Farmers week" is the call now being sounded among the progressive farmers of Oregon who are planning to attend the first summer term Farmers week in the state. A minimum of 3000 has been set by the Farmers week committee at the agricultural college, where the meet will be held June 13-18.

This date just fills the gap between the long-term college year and the summer sessions. The first day of Farmers week is the very last day of the college year—annual commencement of more than 200. The last day, Saturday, will witness the arrival of hundreds of teachers for summer work.

Rail and automobile excursions, camping, playground supervision for children, the big new swimming tank that will almost make them forget the "old swimmin' hole," are a few of the old attractions offered along with the solid instruction and demonstration in farm and home problems.

Cooperation will be featured as one of the most important problems facing the Oregon farmer today. J. H. Howard, president of the American Farm bureau and other speakers of national fame, have been invited to come and help solve these problems.

Conferences on rural community problems will be discussed by such eminent authorities as Dr. Shaller Mathews, dean of the University of Chicago, and Father O'Hara, who has recently made a social survey of some of the home makers will have the help and inspiration of Miss Florence Ward, in charge of extension work with women for the U. S. Department of agriculture in the north and west, and other noted specialists.

The Salvation Army is asking the people of Oregon, outside of Portland, for the sum of $59,000.00 with which to maintain and operate their various activities for the coming twelve months. of their new relationship.
The demands upon the Salvation Army during the past year have taxed its institutions and resources to the limit. In the Home Service at the present time there are 42 girls and 22 babies represented by this number.

At one of the hotels for working men operated by the Salvation Army the space is so taken that numbers sleep on the floor each night. The demands of the sick and distressed throughout the state have come to ever increasing numbers and the Army is ever ready to respond to the best of its ability. It is proposed to open up several new Corps in Oregon during the period of the war, and the Elks are proud of their new relationship.

It has been said "to give the Salvation Army money for the country that it does for the Army." It is the motto by which the Army is inspired with the necessary ammunition to fight disease, misery and despair, and relieve distress, poverty and unhappiness. The Salvation Army is fighting on the battlefield of life continually, 24 hours out of every day.

The dates for the 1921 Home-Service appeal are May 1st to 10th.
The Army has adopted this slogan for its campaign: "Help the Salvation Army to Help Oregon," for the funds raised in Oregon remain in this state for the benefit of the Salvation Army here.
