FROM FORGE TO GRAND
OPERA.

William McDonald Started Life as Blacksmith.

The story of a big, happy singer working at a forge near San Francisco while the wife of a former senator listened and applauded is the story of William McDonald—for he was working and singing one day years ago at the great Palo Alto Stock Farm when Mrs. Leland Stanford passed by, stopped and then told him to leave the forge.
She had him in his costume before the San Francisco Press Club—his deep rich voice and unusual though natural garb, making him a success never before created in the west. She then put him under instruction of the best masters.
That Great Opera Company, the Bostonians, just completing an engagement in the city, secured him for their company and he became as he is today, one of America's greatest Bassos.
His history from the forge to the present day is one of true friendship with thousands of music-lovers from all over the United States and Canada—and many more he never saw come in the class of true friends for they have become his via the Columbia Phonograph records which reveal his rich bass voice with all the original charm in many of his greatest successes.
