More Recreation and Less Work Advocated

BOTH GROWN UPS AND CHILDREN ON FARMS SHOULD HAVE MORE TIME FOR PLEASURE.

Necessity for more recreation and less work for children in rural districts, was emphasized by Dr. Henry S. Curtis, well known orator and playground supervisor who visited on the O. A. C. campus.

Oregon and 27 other states have passed laws for playground work which are only enforced in cities, the speaker pointed out. These laws must be enforced in the rural districts, he declared so children living in the country will have the same advantages as the city children.

"The long hours of country life," said Doctor Curtis, "are fast going. A farmer will have more time for recreation. Farm wives and children need more time for recreation than they have been getting."

"It is a tragedy that the children are disappearing from the farm, and that they are not learning to love the beauty of our country. The city child is an expense until 21 years of age, while the country child is self-supporting after the age of 10 or 12."

"Every home with children ought to have a sand pile for them to play in the first few years of their life. Provisions should be made for athletics in rural schools, for the country boy, though stronger than the city boy, is not better in athletics."

Some of the best games to be played in the rural schools recommended by Doctor Curtis are volleyball, playground, baseball, croquet, and tennis.

"The country schools have a great responsibility to get the children to like the country," said Doctor Curtis. "But they can have everything in the country that they have in the city and it is largely up to the teachers in the rural schools to give them the start."

Where Statistics Spell Something

Of all the business failures recorded in 1920, a leading authority asserts that 84 per cent were firms that did not advertise.

Some of these firms may have figured that they were saving money by not advertising, but quite likely whatever they saved was used up by overhead; and they failed to realize that overhead can only be taken care of by volume and that volume is best increased by intelligent advertising.

If in 1920 when it was easy to sell goods, 84 per cent of the firms which failed were non-advertisers, what will the percentage be in 1921 when there is keen competition in production and selling?—Informant.

State Wide Humane Work

The Oregon State Humane Society was one of the few organizations that received increased appropriations to carry on its work.

A new state law also requires teaching of kindness to animals in every public school of the state half an hour each week.

Influential people have been placed on the board of trustees who will give the organization increased power and influence in its fight against cruelty to dumb animals and children.

The new members of the board include manager W. S. Raker and field representative Elliott of the State Audubon Society; Mrs. Millie Trumbell, head of the Child Labor and Welfare work; W. A. Dickson, principal of one of the largest schools in Portland; County Superintendent of schools Alderson.

Hon. Wm. Hanley of Burns, one of the biggest live stock men in the state has become interested and will assist in extending the work of humane education in eastern Oregon.

Those interested in enforcement of laws against cruelty or in the organization of local or branch county societies should communicate with Mrs. F. W. Swanton, Manager, court house, Portland.

NEW MERRY WIDOW HAT FROM YANK BRAINS

Peggy Hoyt, American girl, has just scored one great victory to face a bigger battle. In straight open competition she defeated the leaders of her art from three countries, France, England, and America, but her real job is ahead. She is expected by Henry W. Savage, the New York theatrical producer to produce a hat which will out rival the "Merry Widow" sailor of fourteen years ago. Savage is staging a revival of the famous Merry Widow operetta, and after a duel between millinery designers, selected Miss Hoyt for the task of creating a hat which, like its prototype, has millinery styles for seven years.

CURIOSITY.

In a street car the other day a man and his wife saw a cockroach on the floor.

"I never saw one of those things," said the man, "without wondering where it came from."
"And I never see one," said the wife, "without wondering where it is going."—Youngstown Telegram.

THE NEW TEMPTATION.

"How do you manage to sell so many fireless cookers?"

"It's due to my method of approach," said the smart salesman. "I begin my little talk by saying, 'Madam, I have called to enable you to spend every afternoon at the movies.'"

CHANCE FOR A BRAVE MAN.

"With the assurance that you love me, Gladys, I can go forth and fight the world," said the young man, with the pink tie.

"Well, Reginald," replied the sweet young thing, "if you really feel that way about it, commence by going and breaking the news to papa."

Uncle John's Poem

If I could paint a picture like I have it in my mind, I'd pick the choicest colors that my lovin' heart could find,—and I'd spread 'em on the canvas, so that every tint would show, to portray the bed of marigolds, that Mother used to grow.

I allers thought them blossoms was the highest depths of art, which makes 'em sprout, eternal, in a faithful feller's heart. . . . And I couldn't think of nothin' that I'd be more proud to show, than Mother's bed of marigolds, she raised so long ago.

But Mother . . . and her marigolds . . . has vanished with the years. . . . You seldom hear of marigolds, or see 'em anywheres. . . . And, while I respect the garden, for the comforts that it holds, it seems to lack completeness, when there ain't no marigolds. . . .

From Uncle John.

HE COMES BEARING GIFTS

"We all like visitors—when they come 'bearing gifts.' That accounts for the popularity of the new Chinese manikin, 'Ho-Thoi, who has just made his bow in the gift shops of the land. 'Ho-Thoi' means good luck—whether we are superstitious or not—and in his little cupped hand he carries an unmounted jewel—always symbolic of the month in which the recipient was born—January a garnet; April a diamond, etc. He is one of the newest novelties of the year as shown at the Bush Terminal Sales Building in New York.

He tapped on the back door and asked for something to eat. The good housewife replied that she would feed him if he was willing to earn the meal by cleaning out the gutter.

The tramp agreed and when he had eaten his way through several sandwiches she came out with a reliable looking hoe.

"You needn't have gone to that trouble, madam," said the weary one, sizing up the farm implement. "I never use a hoe in cleaning out a gutter."

"Never use a hoe!" said the woman. "What do you use, then—a shovel?"
"No, madam," replied the tramp, starting for the gate. "my method is to pray for rain."—Pittsburg Times-Gazette.

WISE MEN HAVE LEARNED SOMETHING; HAVE YOU?

THE city mail order house, doing a national business and advertising nationally, has a million or more customers. You are only one of them, and there is nobody in that mail-order establishment that has the time to give your order a single thought except to fill it.

You take what you get, at long distance, and be thankful that you're alive.

Trade at home and your merchant has to give you quality to retain your trade and the trade of his other neighbors. If by accident there is anything wrong with the quality, you are where you can get instant satisfaction. The satisfaction you get by long distance is poor, if any.

WISE MEN!

Wise people in the country are quitting the mail order houses in great numbers. This is apparent by the fact that the biggest of them are all but on the financial rocks. Don't be in the tail of the procession. Trade at home, where a part of your dollar comes back to you.
