Record in Butter Fat Yield.

Cows numbering 2588 were tested in five Oregon cow testing associations during June. The average production per cow was 368 pounds of milk and 29.55 pounds of butter fat. This yield of butter fat is 1.55 pounds greater than for June of last year, and is the highest average yet reached in the history of association testing in the state, points out E. R. Flitts of the college, in charge of the work.

The Tillamook association which has been in continuous operation for more than 10 years wins first honors for the month with an average yield per cow of 44 pounds of butter fat. The Smith-Umpqua association wins second place with an average yield of 41.35 pounds of butter fat. The latter association has made excellent progress in its breeding work and is the first association in the state to report a pure bred all dairy bull at the head of each herd. The highest average yield per cow for an entire herd was 51.41 pounds of butter fat made by the grade Jersey herd owned by Clyde Kenseman of the Tillamook association. The highest producing cow was "Jewel," a grade Guernsey, owned by P. J. Sharp, also of Tillamook. Twelve inferior cows were weeded out of the association during the month, and eight registered animals purchased.

L. A. Hunt, who returned Tuesday from Yakima, Washington, where he spent some time visiting in the interests of the Hay Growers, states that he saw more poor grain and more poor summerfallow than could be found in three times an equal area anywhere south of the Columbia river. In the Yakima valley the fruit crops are doing quite well but the hay crop is quite spotted. Some fields of second cutting are not over eight inches high. It is just another case of "it is not all good fishing on the other side of the stream." Morrow county looks pretty good after

American Ships Now Sail Seven Seas

Twin Bed Staterooms, Private Baths and Nurseries for the Children Give Hints of Luxuries Provided on Ships of the New American Merchant Marine

ANYWHERE in the world on an American ship! Americans no longer need go to sea or ship their goods in foreign bottoms. That, today, is the proud message from the National Capital to the American people.

From every port in the country now sail stately and luxurious vessels, under the American flag, carrying passengers and cargo to every country in the globe.

The nation, through the United States Shipping Board, is fitting a new Declaration of Independence to the world, independence of foreign vessels for American travelers and commerce.

With a proud merchant fleet numbering 3,700 vessels of 19,523,590 deadweight tons (not including small ships, according to official figures compiled to May 1, it is now up to the people of the United States to keep that fleet of merchantmen ever seven seas. Of this great total the United States Shipping Board owns and controls 1,720 vessels of 11,139,468 deadweight tons.

"We must take the huge corporation, the largest the world has ever known, and make it an institution, of which every American will be proud," declares Albert D. Lasker.

"We have the ships," he declares. "The United States Shipping Board is using every endeavor to build up grown, and make it a profitable enterprise, but we need the cooperation of every American."
