Impatience Is An Enemy of Thrift

Some folks become impatient because they cannot amass a fortune in a day or a year.

They fail to realize that every enterprise has a small beginning.

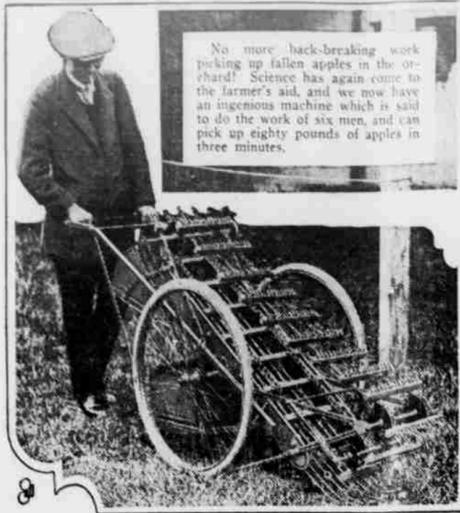

If these people would avail themselves of the aid this bank offers, this impatience would soon be overcome.

Chief Justice Taft Is Best Known Traveler

MADE ACQUAINTANCE OF MR. AVERAGE AMERICAN, WHO APPROVES APPOINTMENT

Washington, August 1.—When President Harding nominated William Howard Taft to the Supreme Bench and his nomination was confirmed by the Senate, the railroad and steamship lines lost one of their across the continent during the time he was president; has crossed, recrossed, and crisscrossed the United States in lecture tours since he left the presidency, speaking in every state with the exception of Florida, and in many of the states many times; during the World war he addressed the enlisted men in every army cantonment in the United States with the exception of two; during the last year he has, in his capacity as member of a Canadian Commission, traveled the length and breadth of Canada.

MADE THOUSANDS OF FRIENDS

In commenting upon the appointment of Ex-President Taft as Chief Justice, Attorney General Daugherty says, "Probably no appointment ever made by the President has received the universal commendation that the appointment of former President Taft has received." Chief Justice Taft's popularity is due, in no small measure, to the fact that in his travels and lectures in the United States he personally met thousands of people—just the average American citizens in the small town, the university, the teachers' institute, the literary club,—and by his hearty and friendly characteristics immediately attached them to his circle of admirers and well wishers. At the same time, this kept him in intimate touch with the mass of people and their viewpoints and consequently he takes to the Bench not only the high personal regard which the American people hold for him but he thereby confers upon the Supreme Bench a very valuable asset, the asset of popular esteem and confidence which probably no other appointment ever brought to the Bench and which could not be brought to it by any jurist however eminent who had lived a cloistered life.

PERSHING'S NIECE DESERTS ARMY

General Pershing's niece, Miss Helene Gene Pershing, went outside of army circles to get her husband. She became the bride of E. A. Kraft, recently at Seattle, Wash., where her husband, a navy man, is a member of the American Legion. Kraft was a senior grade radio operator during the world war and was seriously injured when his boat, the "Westover," was torpedoed and sunk off the coast of France.

best patrons and the world one of its most distinguished travelers.

Probably no man in public life in any nation was a greater traveler than Chief Justice Taft. While he was yet a young man, before he had "settled down" in the practice of law, Chief Justice Taft made three tours of Europe. In his capacity as Judge of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals his jurisdiction covered the four states of Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky and Tennessee and, during his eight years' incumbency in that position, he traveled extensively over his territory.

A REGULAR GLOBE TROTTER

With his appointment by President McKinley as chairman of the Philippine Commission his career as a globe trotter began. That was in 1900. Since that time Chief Justice Taft has twice been completely around the world; two times to the Philippines; seven times to the Panama Canal zone; several times to Cuba during the time he was provisional governor of that island; to every U. S. army post during his incumbency as Secretary of War under Roosevelt; a tour of the United States during each of his two campaigns for President; two tours both branches of Congress. The veto was based upon substantially the same reasons as those presented by President Harding a few days ago when he urged a postponement of consideration of a bonus to ex-service men. The bonus bill of 1875 provided for the payment of $8 1-3 a month for all those in service. President Grant's veto message read as follows:

"Washington, March 3, 1875.

To the House of Representatives:

"House Bill 3,341 is herewith returned without my approval for the reasons, first that it appropriates from the Treasury a large sum of money at a time when the revenue is insufficient for current wants and this proposed further drain on the Treasury. The issue of bonds, authorized by the bill to a very large and indefinite amount would seriously embarrass the refunding operations now progressing, whereby the interest of the bonded debt of the United States is being largely reduced. * * * The passage of this bill at this time is inconsistent with the measures of economy now demanded by the necessities of the country.

"U. S. GRANT."

Livestock Industry Gets $50,000,000 Long Time Loans

Washington, August 1.—The efforts of the Harding administration to afford prompt and sufficient relief to the live stock industry met with success in the completion by private bankers of the $50,000,000 pool to be used in long-time loans for live stock interests. The pool is in actual operation. The head offices are located in Chicago and are in charge of practical live stock men and bankers.

The method of operation is very simple. No direct loans will be made by the pool as it does not wish to use any of the funds to set up machinery for investigating the applications. The loans are made through local banks and cattle loan companies, the pool furnishing the funds and the local bankers guaranteeing the loans. Loans will be made upon recommendation of local banks on stockers, feeders, and breeding cattle. Paper will be made payable in six months from date but subject to three renewals of six months each which will be giving the live stock industry a two year credit. This method of relieving the live stock industry was preferred by the administration to legislation by Congress; first, because it could be put into operation more quickly than any machinery set up by congressional act; second, because it relieved the government from increasing its burdens which must in the long run be charged up to and paid by the taxpayer.

SMILE AWHILE

LOOK WHAT HE GOT.

A miser was scoring a hired man for his extravagance in wanting to carry a lantern when calling on his girl.

"The idea," he scoffed. "When I was courtin' I never carried no lantern. I went in the dark."

The hired man proceeded to fill the lantern. "Yes," he said sadly, Rough-neck mobs and criminals beware! Clubs and guns may go into the discard, for the police have a new weapon in the form of gas bombs. It resembles very much the small hand-grenade used in the world war, but the gas contained, though not deadly, packs a knock-out for the strongest man. It is tear-producing, choking and nauseating, but does not leave any ill after-effects. In a trial test the other day on five strong policemen—they fled "weeping" from the scene.

Uncle John's Poem

HIGH BROWS—AND LOW

I don't admire the poet that inflates his mushy lines with fol-de-rol, or puppy-love, or verbal monkey-shines. I can't digest a vision that's a million miles from here, nor swaller vague distractions where the meanin' isn't clear. . . .

Can somethin' that's intangible console a battered brain? Or fool imagination counteract a killin' pain? If I was fairly starvin' fer a dish of bread an' meat, would you set me out a casserole of fantasies to eat? But—that's the daily menu—with the highbrow chaps—of course. . . . They mount us on a rainbow when we holler for a horse! They hand us speckulation, when it's dividends we need—an' they seem to bark the loudest when they've got a critic tread.

The poem—same as sausage—should be moulded into patties,—with plenty of sage an' pepper, an' the right per cent of fat,—an' when you fry 'em proper, to a crisp, delicious brown, you can raise the kitchen winder,—and the smell will charm the town!

SO WOULD SHE.

"My dear," impatiently asked the husband next morning, "where in the world is my hat? I can't keep a thing about this house. It's a shame the way things disappear without any apparent reason. Gibson has moulded the "fighting" team in either league. They're in front.

MONEY THROWN ON THE WATER RETURNS TO YOU IN A FEW DAYS

PART, however small, of every dollar you spend in your own town comes back to you. The more money that is spent in this town, the more there is to be spent WITH YOU, no matter whether your business is farming, dry goodsing, restauranting, plumbing or laboring.

This is true of every town and city in the land. But the town that can coax money from the people of other towns, soon becomes so prosperous that people flock to it, and that's how wealthy cities are made.

It is the duty of every man and woman in this community to spend every cent he intends to spend right here. It is his duty to himself, so that his own property, his own business, his own job will be worth more—worth more in the selling market.

Homes and farms and blocks and businesses are least valuable and poorest in communities whose people spend their money elsewhere.
