

FARM BUREAU NEWS

By C. C. Gilman, County Agent.

Boardman Plans to Diversify.

Many farm sections made big mistakes during the war—that of depending upon one source of income, carrying all their eggs in one basket. The wheat sections are not an exception. With hay at fifteen dollars a ton it was not necessary to depend upon other sources of income. With the drop in the price of hay, however, the irrigated sections are planning to diversify to a certain extent. The Boardman farmers just now are interested in bringing a few more good grade cows to the project, looking forward to a dairy industry large enough to support a creamery or cheese factory at that point. On account of the financial conditions of the country they will expect to start in a small way. Professor H. A. C. will meet with these farmers there according to arrangements made by the county agent on Thursday night, to give this matter the attention it deserves.

Poultry Makes Profitable Side Line.

Even in the wheat sections we find that the poultry industry is worthy of some attention and makes a profitable side-line for most every section. To be profitable, however, a general understanding of the poultry business must be had. The county agent's office is already making plans to have a poultry specialist in the county sometime during the forepart of September to assist in putting on culling demonstrations in some of the different communities which are interested in knowing how to cull the non-producers out of their flocks; also interested a little later in getting a better understanding of feeding for egg production. It might be mentioned that it costs no more to feed a hen so that she can lay the maximum number of eggs than it does to feed her wheat. We will arrange for a culling demonstration in every community where there is interest enough in the project. We are asking that any individual who feels that this work would be worth while in their community communicate with the office indicating that they know of a flock of hens which can be culled and also that they are willing to pass the word around to the people of the community so that a good delegation will be present at the culling demonstration. This should be given your immediate attention. We have put on a large number of these demonstrations in Sherman county and there has never yet been an individual who went away without being more than satisfied with it.

Powdered Copper-Carbonate to Control Smut.

The treatment of wheat by the use of a dry powder known as copper-carbonate is being tried in an experimental way in this state. It has been used in other sections successfully. It is proved to be as effective a method of control as bluestone or formaldehyde, there will be a saving of thousands of dollars in every county through avoiding the killing of the seed wheat, and quicker germination can be obtained. Treatment with a dry powder can be made a simple process should this method prove to be successful. The office will be able to secure copper-carbonate enough to treat a limited number of samples and we would like to have a few farmers in each section give this a try out by simply treating one bushel of wheat and drilling it right in between the other wheat. Drop us a line and we will arrange for the demonstration.

Morrow County Will Have Great Display.

The grain and hay show which will be held at Pendleton, September 19th to 21st, promises to be a real event. Already exhibits have been lined up from four states, counties are putting on special exhibits and the prizes secured will be well earned. The quality of the wheat of Morrow county however, cannot easily be excelled and it is the opinion of Fred Hennion, secretary of the show, that Morrow county should carry away a number of the first prizes on wheat. Morrow county will also be well represented in the hay exhibits as the Boardman people are planning on getting a tale of hay each up to the show.

In order to make the display that has been planned it will be necessary for a large number of entries from this county. Every man who had certified seed should be sure and have his sack of wheat in to the county agent's office as soon as possible. From this sack an additional fifteen pounds will be cleaned to be exhibited at our county fair, and if you care to pay the entry fee, it will also be entered at Salem, where Morrow county should be just as well represented.

This county is in itself almost an empire, has within its grasp great possibilities, and they should be brought to the attention of the people. Now is a good time to do it creditably. Bring in your exhibits.

Items of Interest from University of Oregon

Out of over 45 colleges and universities in the United States, the University of Oregon is one of 15 which offer a four-year course in journalism. The Oregon school of journalism is generally conceded to be one of the first five in the country.

The school of business administration, with an enrollment of 343 major students, last year had the largest group of students of any school on the campus. As its name implies, this school trains men and women for executive positions in the business world.

Health of students at the University of Oregon is cared for by the University Health service. Each student, at the time of enrollment pays a small fee for the maintenance of an infirmary and dispensary and in return is entitled to all its benefits. A physician devotes his entire time to the infirmary and is assisted by two nurses. Ordinary illness and certain minor operations are cared for without charge and the services of specialists can be secured at a low cost. This service makes it possible for every student to secure proper medical attention at any time without having to pay the usual fees, which are often out of reach of a student working his way through the school.

One of the strongest student traditions at the University of Oregon is that there shall be no smoking on the campus. Summary punishment is meted out to any who thoughtlessly cross the border line while smoking. The custom was originated years ago by a class which wished to show some special respect toward the women students.

Trapper Makes Record

Thirteen adult crows, four sheep-killing bear and six wild cats have been trapped or killed by W. H. Dobyns, government hunter, since July 12. Mr. Dobyns, who with Mrs. Dobyns was a visitor in Pendleton yesterday has out about 100 miles of trap line and covers ranges on Black Spring and Willbur mountains, Horseshoe ridge and on Square, Meacham and Camp creeks. One bear killed by Mr. Dobyns had killed 13 head of sheep and another 12 head. Mrs. Dobyns assists her husband and has a horse of her own. She says she likes the work and has killed a few crows and a bear. Mr. Dobyns is considered one of the best hunters and trappers in the government service and in the west. He has been with the service for six years.—East Oregonian.

Wisdom Versus Folly.

The blindness, obstinacy, willfulness and foolishness of the inexperienced youth, contrasted with the wisdom, caution and sacrificial love of a man of experience is one of the interesting themes of "When We Were Twenty-One," the Jesse D. Hampton-Pathe feature at the Star theater Saturday, September 10, with H. B. Warner enacting the role in which Nat Goodwin scored his greatest stage success.

Another theme is the charming romance in which the older man is blind to the love of the girl he desires to see wed his ward, and the ward is blind to treachery of the adventures
