

WHY FEDERAL AID NEEDED

From years of reliance on private development and not a kilowatt of power to be generated on the Columbia, if private capital wants to enter this field why has it not done so? Why does not a private corporation offer to build the Unalakleet rapids project? Should such a corporation enter the field in good faith, agreeing to sell its power at a fair rate above the production cost that corporation would be welcomed with open arms. But such a thing is too much to expect for reasons already mentioned.

The people of the southwest are backing a power and irrigation scheme on the Colorado that calls for more money than does the Unalakleet rapids project. Compared with the Colorado rapids project the Colorado project is hair brain. Yet the southwest is asking federal aid and has secured one preliminary appropriation from congress. It was secured this summer despite the Oregonian's claim that the federal government will not spend money for such purposes. If the southwest can secure federal aid for such work why not the north-west? We have a better power stream than the Colorado. Why not harness it and make some use of our bithright?

Let the Oregonian wake up.

Fred Ashbaugh, who runs the mill at Toll Rock, is in the city today.

The fair board is getting ready to fence in the north end of Main street, and will have all things in readiness for the biggest and best fair Morrow county has ever had.

O. C. Dunton, of Dunton's Cash Market, arrived home from Iowa, where he recently went with the body of his father, the first of the week, and has again opened up his place of business in the Peoples building next door to First National Bank.

Rev. E. L. Moore and Dr. J. P. Conder returned from a short hunt for deer in the mountains on Saturday evening. These gentlemen, accompanied by Willard Herren, stalked a buck which Mr. Herren succeeded in knocking down and which he later found, but this was after the other gentlemen had returned to town. They thought the shot had been only enough to wound the animal slightly and he succeeded in getting away but when Mr. Herren went back to take up the trail later, he located his game and phoned in to his companions who returned thinking the hunt had been fruitless.

War Veterans Hospitalization Program Nearing Completion.

Washington, Sept. 6.—A definite hospitalization program for War Veterans involving an immediate expenditure of over $4,000,000 has been announced by Col. Forbes, Director of the Veterans' Bureau. By January 1, hospital facilities for 4,500 new beds are to be available. The program calls for the expenditure of $350,000 at Fort Bayard, New Mexico; $500,000 at Ferryville, Mo.; the construction of tuberculosis hospitals at the soldiers' homes at Leavenworth, Milwaukee and Dayton; additional building at the Marion, Ind., sanitarium; the remodeling at Fort Walla Walla, Wash., for 150 beds; $400,000 is only one-third of the total amount available for the hospitalization work.

Those farmers who desire to make Oregon as ridiculous and bad as North Dakota will join the Non-Partisan league. If they desire to know how ridiculous and bad North Dakota is, they may be informed that the latter state now has such an ill reputation that South Dakota doesn't even want to be known as a member of the Dakota family.—Telegram.

STANDS BY HIM.

She was a sweet young bride, who had already found that what looks like a nice piece of meat in the shop often seems to have gone through a private transformation scene when it arrives home.

"How is it?" she inquired eagerly, when an old married friend called upon her. "that you always manage to have such delicious beef?"

"It's very simple," replied the older woman. "I first select a good honest butcher and then I stand by him."

"Oh, I see, you give him all your trade, you mean?" said the innocent young bride.

"No," answered her companion.

grinty, "I stand by him while he is cutting the meat!"—Washington Post.

WHAT HE WOULD DO.

"What would you do if you had a million dollars?" asked the Memphis Appeal. "We'd overhaul Restless Rebecca, get four spare tires, stock up with delicatessen, point the radiator into the sun, throw her into high speed and chase summer weather all around the world. Then we'd turn the balance of money over to some charitable institution that has more use for money than we have."—Buffalo News.

SHE KNEW.

He had been keeping her company eight years and had never even mentioned marriage and she had decided to give him a strong hint the first opportunity she had. It came during one of the late summer days. As they started for a walk into the country she caught up a bright red sweater to wear. "I wouldn't wear that if I were you, Grace," he said. "The field in which the violets grow best has a Jersey bull in it and—" "Oh, then, I won't wear it," she said emphatically, throwing the red sweater on the rack. "If in eight years you haven't enough courage to rescue me from an approaching spinsterhood I know you wouldn't have enough to save me from an approaching bull."—Indianapolis News.
