A Complete History of This Community Yearly

Of course, the whole family reads the "Home Town Paper." The whole family wants to know the happenings of the community; wants to read the news about what the people they know for miles around are doing.

The "Home Town Paper" is a complete history every year of you and your neighbors. It tells of the comings and goings, the births, the marriages, the joys and the sorrows—all the events that go to make up community life.

History! Why, the average "Home Town Paper" contains at least TEN THOUSAND NAMES in the 52 weeks of any year! Just reflect a bit and realize what that means. If you sat down and read a voluminous history of the whole world from the birth of creation, you would not find that many names in it. And yet the "Home Town Paper" makes a regular yearly custom of printing ten thousand names and sometimes two times that number.

The "Home Town Paper" is a sedative, a tonic to the nerves, a relief after hard work with hand or brain, an entertainment to you, your wife, your son and your daughter.

Have you subscribed for The Gazette-Times, YOUR Home Town Paper? The opportunity is now offered and you can make use of the coupon on another page, which is arranged for your convenience. Do it now!

Mrs. Inarum, who has been assisting Mrs. A. Henriksen of Willow Creek ranch, left for her home in Heppner on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Walt of Morgan were the dinner guests of Mrs. T. H. Lowe at the Highway House on Friday evening.

Miss A. C. Hynd of Butterby Flats left on Wednesday for Sand Hollow where she will visit at Rose lawn for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Halferty have taken up their residence at Shady Dell ranch, which they recently bought from J. W. Osborn.

Mrs. Weltha Combust, accompanied by Mrs. H. J. Streeter and children, spent Wednesday with Mrs. Everett Logan at Fairview.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Logan and family of Fairview ranch spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Tyler at the Curtis ranch near the Willows.

Mrs. Weltha Combust returned to Cecil on Monday after a visit of a few days at Mountview, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Zenneth Logan.

Henry Krebs of the Last Camp left for Ione on Monday to assist C. A. Minor and Phil Brady to ship some of their sheep to the Portland market.

Misses Thelma and Edith Morgan and Blanche Knipfel; also Mestera Earl Knipfel and Harvey Schmaer, all of Morgan, were visiting with Master Noel and Miss Helen Streeter at Cecil Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Henriksen of Willow Creek ranch and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Henriksen of Strawberry ranch, left for Heppner on Thursday. We understand Al has been buying several thousand head of sheep to winter on his Cecil ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Johnson of Battle-ground, Wash., are visiting at Highway view, the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Miller. Mr. Johnson, who is a brother of Mrs. Miller, says he sees many improvements in the Cecil vicinity. He expects to visit Morrow county thoroughly before leaving for his home. This is his first visit here in eighteen years.

W. G. Palmateer of Windyknob has found his wind again after hollering around Morrow county for a whole week for his friend Walter Pope. Walter turned up at Windyknob on Wednesday night declaring to W. G. he had searched every place between the Gilliam county line and San Francisco and at last decided to try Windyknob, where he found his pal quietly eating his supper. Latest report says these seats are off again, neither of them leaving an address behind.

The barrier in the Wellesly bridge was most imposing, and I remember rushing down to see it and upsetting a neat stack of haybales, but no one minded. An irate old lady in an ass cart was trying to pass out just as I got there. Wheeled traffic had to go round by another bridge.

"Young man," she bawled, if ye please! "The sentry explained matters pleasantly. "Go round be Thomond bridge." "No, young man. Young man, let me pass. Young man, I have three young pigs hungry at home, and the male in the car. Will ye call an officer?" After a prolonged wait she lost her temper, backed the cart into a sentry box and drove off, declaring "she'd have the law on the military."—Youth's Companion.

NOW WAREHOUSES ON WATER

Japanese Said to Have Evolved a Scheme That is Ingenious and Profitable as Well.

The time may probably come when the land is overcrowded and people begin to live on water. Then we shall be building floating skyscrapers and aquatic parlors. At any rate, congenial Japanese have already launched a scheme which in the opinion of the projectors hits many birds by one stone. The scheme is the creation of what is called floating warehouses.

During the war Japan built many good-sized wooden ships to aid in the transportation of the allied goods. After the war these ships were dismissed from the service, and since then lay idle in harbors unable to obtain cargoes due to post-war slumps in shipping.

Taking advantage of this circumstance, a group of men organized a concern called the Marine Warehouse company, with a capital of 10,000,000 yen; bought the wooden ships and started a floating warehouse business. The company is now engaged in establishing eight floating warehouses of 1,000 tons each in the harbor of Kobe. The ships are to be attended by three launches of 1,000 tons capacity each. The aquatic warehouses, being exempted from extortionate rent and taxes, and largely free from the danger of fire, in addition to many peculiar advantages consequent to their movable character, should be able, it is claimed, to carry on the business at a much lower rate with greater facility, providing a formidable enemy, in the future, of their terrestrial cousins.—East and West News.

WAS MASTER OF PROFANITY

Intimate of Great Editor Declares Swearing Was More Than a Bad Habit With Him.

Joseph Pulitzer, the famous blind founder of the New York World, was not always a purist in language. At least so writes Charles Chapin, who was for 20 years city editor of the Evening World, in his autobiography, called "Charles Chapin's Story."

"Sometimes when I was reading to him he would become explosively profane," writes Chapin. "And how shockingly that blind man could swear! With him profanity was more of an art than a vice. One when I had read something to him that made him angry with the writer's stupidity he swore so passionately and so loud and grew so choleric and red in the face that I feared something inside of him might snap.

"Suddenly he checked himself and pricked up his ears. There were angry voices in an adjoining room. One of his young sons was having a run-in with his tutor and was forebly telling what he thought of him. A peculiar expression, a mixture of annoyance and amusement came over my employer's countenance.

"Dear me," he said, "I wonder where that boy learned to swear." He didn't utter another word during the remainder of my visit."

Many Cigarettes Consumed. In 1888 not enough cigarettes were consumed in the United States to be subjected to the internal revenue tax. Today the population of the country, male and female, is burning up 127,000,000 cigarettes every day, or 46,500,000,000 in a year. During the last ten years the consumption of cigarettes has exceeded that of cigars.

Corresponding. "It seems to me, Maria, that we've had nothing but ham, ham, ham for breakfast all this week," remarked Mr. Brent. "You forgot another thing we've had, Robert," replied his better half quietly. "We've had growl, growl, growl for breakfast every day, too!"—London Answers.

DRAWN WITH MASTER HAND

Walter Scott's Portraits of the Past a Notable Contribution to English Literature.

No wonder that Walter Scott, who, having shown the world in the Minstrelsy and the Lay that he was editor and poet, and being himself a novel reader, should be utterly dissatisfied with the quality of the existing supply. The French Revolution, distinguished by its leveling principle and action, had ended in substituting a feudal empire for an effete monarchy; and even when Napoleon was redividing Europe into kingdoms and principalities for his family and his followers, there had sprung up—or rather revived—a deep devotion to the chivalry which had done so much in the past, and whose traditions had ingrafted grace into history and breathed reality into song.

To this feeling, this principle, Scott had ministered in his poems; and now, acknowledged head of the romantic school, he resolved to extend its limits, beyond the ballad to the narrative poem and use prose as the more suitable medium. He strove to delineate the past as it seemed in the eyes of men who were dubious of the present and afraid of the future—noble, stately, glittering and gay, with the pulse of life ever beating to heroic measures. His view of feudalism in "The Talisman," "Ivanhoe" and "The Fair Maid of Perth" was not the caricature a few preceding authors had drawn, but a portrait—faithful, if idealized.—Robert Shelton Mackenzie.

DEAL JUSTLY WITH CHILDREN

Almost Every Country Now Has Courts to Handle Cases of Juvenile Delinquency.

The example set by the United States in establishing juvenile courts has been followed by all the principal countries of Europe. Spain, the last to fall in line, has adopted the modern viewpoint that delinquent children should not be treated as criminals, but rather as victims of adverse conditions and surroundings. In working out the details of the law, Spanish authorities have followed America's experience, according to information received by the children's bureau of the United States department of labor.

Under the Spanish law the children's judge is not necessarily a member of the bench. He is assisted by two advisory members appointed by the commission for the protection of children. Privacy is guarded very closely in the Spanish juvenile courts; no one except probation officers is allowed in the court unless by special permission, and the press is forbidden to publish any information about cases of juvenile delinquents.

Since Chicago established the first juvenile court in 1899, similar courts have been established in England, France, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Russia, Austria and Hungary.

The Navipendulum

One of the problems which naval architects have to confront is the rolling of a ship on the waves, and the "navipendulum" is an invention for dealing with it experimentally.

The apparatus consists of two parts: A plate to which a motion corresponding to that of a portion of the surface of a wave is imparted, and a pendulum of a peculiar shape which rolls upon the moving plate in the manner of a vessel supported by water.

The same pendulum can be made to represent different vessels of given size and shape by adding or removing artificial resistance to the oscillatory motion.

This instrument has been employed to study the rolling of the Italian battleships as well as those of other countries.

Do Well Without Meat

Less than a third of the world's population gets what we should call three good meals a day, yet the working capabilities of the from our point of view, underfed continents of Asia and Africa will compare very well with either Europe or America. The average annual meat consumption of the world is 39 pounds a head, yet both the Australian and the American eat nearer 180 pounds per head, and the Englishman is not far behind with about 120 pounds.

Criticizes Use of Oil

Dr. White of the United States geological survey has declared it "no less than an economic crime to use oil under boilers as fuel," because the supply of oil was so rapidly declining in the United States and elsewhere and because it would soon be "a very serious problem as to getting the necessary amount of lubricants—which is really the most important part of the rock oil business."

Building a Concrete House

An English engineer is building one-piece concrete house walls with a central air space by erecting the core first and moving the outer mold upward as the concrete is poured.

To Spell at Pleasure

An Iowa professor urges that every one should be allowed to spell as he pleases, to save all the time spent in learning the prevailing fashion. It probably would not save much time for the reader of such spelling. With the typewriter to do the writing and the adding machine to do the arithmetic, and history discarded as useless, freedom in spelling would go far to do away with the need of any schools at all.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.
