FARM BUREAU NEWS
(From the Morrow County Farm Bureau News.)

Farm Bureau Gets Results

Stronger Organization Needed to Put Larger Program Across.

Farmers to Meet In Every Community Next Week.

The farmer is not mad but he is getting blamed for the loss of his crop. "Dull or not guilty?" asked the judge. "That's the question," replied the nigger. "Wait till I hear the evidence." There might be a few farmers who might feel about the same way if the question of the headline were put to him, so let's have the evidence. Every farmer in Morrow County should join the Farm Bureau because: 1. It is through this organization that you can join with the farmers of the other counties of Oregon, and the other States of the Union to solve some of the problems that may mean the life or death of Agriculture. 2. Through the American Farm Bureau we are represented in Congress when questions of a tariff on wool, butter, etc., are up and the manufacturers are lobbying against us. 3. The farmers of the State need to be organized so they can speak collectively. To be effective it must be a non-partisan, non-political association and such is the Farm Bureau. 4. The question of finance stands in the pathway of every farmer. The Oregon Farm Bureau through its State President has done more to make Federal Reserve money available to the farmers than has ever been done before by any agency. 5. It will save you money. The Morrow County Farm Bureau is making an agreement with the Moline Plow & Implement Company whereby all Farm Bureau members will save 17 1/2% on all machinery purchases. The State Farm Bureau states that this may be extended to other lines. 6. Your county Farm Bureau is the medium for carrying out your agricultural programs such as controlling rodents, conducting wheat variety trials, fertilizer demonstrations, applying labor, putting on a poultry program to cull the non-producers, feeding for egg production, organizing wool or wheat marketing campaigns, importing better sires, etc. 7. Your Farm Bureau needs your assistance and moral support. You need it for the benefits derived from organized effort. By joining you assist, by staying out you hold back. Not only join but be ready to assist in reaching others so that not only "Every farmer shall be a Farm Bureau member" but every community an organized working community.

The County Farm Bureau is only the organized farmers at work systematically on common problems. It is no longer a question as to what the Farm Bureau can do for us in the communities, as well as in a national way. We reap from organized effort what we put into it. Morrow county farmers are recognizing the need of a stronger County Farm Bureau and the Executive Committee is putting on a campaign which has for its aim "Every Morrow County Farmer a Farm Bureau Member." A real opportunity will be offered to the farmers of the different communities to have a man who knows farmers' problems during the week of December 26th to 31st when G. A. Mansfield, president of the State Farm Bureau, will talk to the farmers of the different communities. The dates of the meetings for these communities are as follows: Boardman, December 26th, 7:30 p. m. Irigoin, December 27th, 7:30 p. m. Ione, December 28th, 7:30 p. m. Lexington, December 29th, 7:30 p. m. Alpin, December 30th, 7:30 p. m. Hardman, December 31st, 7:30 p. m. Heppner, December 10th, 2 p. m. Pine City, December 10th, 7:30 p. m.

Work to be done will be discussed briefly and officers elected. In many of the rural communities arrangements are being made for light refreshments following the program of the evening. With every farmer a Farm Bureau member and every community organized and at work real results will be gained and your community will be a better place in which to live. The office has been getting figures on carlots of corn delivered at Morrow county points. The best price so far quoted is $25.50 at Heppner and about $26.00 at Boardman and Irigoin. These prices are based upon the old Federal rate. According to newspaper reports and railroad promises there should have been a ten per cent cut in freight rates on these commodities immediately, but the new tariff sheets received by the local agents indicate that there will be no cut.

Rabbit Control Campaigns.
By R. T. JACKSON, (U. S. Biological Survey, Assisting With Work in Oregon.)
Encourage driving when conditions are not favorable for poisoning. Use alfalfa tops, leaves or chopped hay for bait in communities where hay is the chief crop. Use grain heads (wheat, rye or emmer) for bait in grain raising sections. Encourage prebaiting in grain raising sections previous to placing poisoned bait. Prebaiting should also be done in sage brush areas where the pests are numerous and are not feeding at any one place such as hay or grain stacks. Do not expose poisoned bait where stock are present. If stock cannot be kept off areas where poison must be exposed build enclosures in which the poison can be placed, prebaiting a few days before exposing bait. Do not expose poisoned bait on stormy or windy nights. Use poisoned bait sparingly. It is best to put out fresh bait every day than to place too much at any one time. More danger to livestock, loss of poison through storms, and unnecessary waste. Successful poisoning of rabbits depends upon favorable weather conditions and concerted efforts. With these factors in mind at all times, damage by rabbits will be reduced to a minimum in a short time. Conditions are favorable for poisoning the rabbits when snow and cold weather cause them to congregate on the dense sage brush areas and their natural food supply is covered with snow. During these periods the pests feed to a great extent upon hay and grain stacks. After observations show the pests to be feeding in larger numbers around the stacks, every person in the community should stretch a wire netting about the stacks to keep the pests from feeding on them, and place poisoned bait in small piles about the netting and on the trails leading to and from the feeding ground. Effort should also be made to expose poisoned bait on areas where the pests are numerous and do not feed about the stacks but prebaiting should be done at least two or three days before the poison is exposed. This will accustom the pests to feed at central places and it will not be necessary to scatter the poisoned bait precipitously over the entire area.

Snow Carried Much Moisture.
Mr. Frank Gilliam reports that there were 2.33 inches of water in the snow and inasmuch as most of this was saved it will mean much to the wheat crop of the coming year. Reports indicate that the snow was just as deep clear to the Columbia River and presumably just as wet.

Why Join the Farm Bureau?

The local merchant will operate on a much smaller margin because of the cooperation of the farmers through their Farm Bureau. This is only one of the real savings obtained through the Farm Bureau. Help to realize the goal "Every Farmer a Farm Bureau Member." Then we can get results that we do not now dare dream of. FARM BUREAU WILL SAVE ON FOLLOWING IMPLEMENTS: The Farm Bureau will make a saving of 17 1/2 per cent over current prices on all implements handled by the Oregon Moline Company. Their line of implements appears below: Walking plows, steel and chilled. Tractor plows. Riding plows. Two-way plows. Spring tooth harrows and harrow carts. Peg-tooth harrows. Disk harrows. Full line of planters. Cultivators, riding and walking. Grain drills, double disc, single disc and hoe. Lime sowers. Mowers, horse and tractor. Rakes and loaders. Binders, horse and tractor, grain and corn. Spreaders. Wagons and trucks. Pitless scales. Moline Universal Tractor and Motor Trucks. Special line of implements for Fordson tractors. Bob sleds.

Eternal Vigilance Is Price of Rabbit Extermination.

It is not enough to poison the rabbits when conditions are favorable, forgetting them the rest of the time. They are a real and will be a lasting menace unless every known means of control is resorted to. Now that the snow has driven them to the hay stacks and alfalfa fields drives can be resorted to in certain sections. The next snow will make a good poison campaign possible. The poison was delayed in transit but reached us in time to get it to various communities as soon as the rabbits had congregated and conditions were favorable.

American Farm Bureau Studying Marketing.

That the American farmer needs an orderly marketing system which will carry the farm products past the pitfalls of the speculators to the door of the manufacturer or consumer is recognized by our great national leaders from President Harding and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace down to the individual farmer. The American Farm Bureau is after the vital issue. The "Committee of 17"

State Farm Bureau Holds Second Annual Meeting.

The Oregon State Farm Bureau held their second annual meeting in Portland November 11th and 12th. Reports from the various counties revealed the fact that the county Farm Bureaus were in a very healthy condition and that much good work was being done. G. A. Mansfield was re-elected as president, H. V. Smith as vice-president. The other members of the Executive Committee are: Frank McKenney of Union county, E. C. Brown of Clackamas county, A. E. Wescott of Washington county.

A few changes in the constitution and by-laws were made, namely the election of the Executive Committee from over the state at large and reducing the number to ten from six. The secretary-treasurer is appointed by the president instead of elected by the organization. A State Farm Bureau paper is to be published during the coming year. This paper will have departments for each County Farm Bureau, for each of the cooperative marketing associations, for the Extension Service, for the Oregon Agricultural College, a book editorial page hitting upon the leading issues of the day, all of which will tend to make it a very valuable paper to the farmers of Oregon.

The Farm Bureau membership is rapidly being extended under the able organization management of Colonel Aird of Clackamas county.

Winter Eggs Possible.

We know that unless we get sufficient moisture that we will have a short wheat crop, yet we frequently fail to realize that unless the old hens are fed properly they are going to refuse to lay or give a very limited number of eggs. The common mistake especially in a wheat country is that of giving straight wheat. Every laying hen should have plenty of oyster shell and if this is not available on her range it should be furnished as well. In addition there should be a mash and this can be fed in a dry form in a self-feeding hopper. If plenty of milk is available very little meat scrap is needed. If the hen can get water she will not drink enough milk to take the place of meat. Jackrabbits make a cheap form of meat and if these are not available then meat scraps should be mixed in with the mash at the rate of about one part of scrap to five or six of mill run wheat. The common mistake is feeding too much wheat. This should be fed in a deep litter of straw so that the hens will have to work long to get the wheat. The amount to be fed will depend upon the other feed, the size of the hens, etc. Hens should be fed all that they will clean up before going to roost at night and about half that amount in the morning. Interested parties can get in touch with the office and we will be glad to furnish you information or send you bulletins covering the subject.

Special Harness Price.

A letter just received from the U. S. Farm Sales Agency states that they are closing out their Victory War Harness No. 1 at $35.00 per set f. o. b. Salt Lake City, Utah. Their Wild West Saddles are going at $25.00 each. These must be ordered by December 31st, however.

Farm Bureau Plans Great Saving for Members on Machinery.

That the farmers must either reduce the cost of operating, command a better price for their products, or quit the business, is greatly in evidence. As a matter of self protection the wheat farmers have organized to market their crops obtaining for themselves a greater percent of the consumer's price. They are also ready to buy as cheaply as possible. An opportunity has been developed whereby Farm Bureau members can save 17 1/2 per cent on all machinery. This offer is made by the Oregon Moline Plow and Implement Company. The discounts will be handled by a local dealer who is satisfactory to the County Farm Bureau. All goods will be sold for cash and only farmers holding a Farm Bureau membership can take advantage of it. This tremendous saving is made possible through the taking off from the price of a score of traveling expenses who formerly consumed a large part of the proposed saving. They will save $40.00 on traveling expenses this year from the Portland branch this year. The local merchant will operate on a much smaller margin because of the cooperation of the farmers through their Farm Bureau. This is only one of the real savings obtained through the Farm Bureau. Help to realize the goal "Every Farmer a Farm Bureau Member." Then we can get results that we do not now dare dream of. FARM BUREAU WILL SAVE ON FOLLOWING IMPLEMENTS: The Farm Bureau will make a saving of 17 1/2 per cent over current prices on all implements handled by the Oregon Moline Company. appointed to work out a grain marketing plan has evolved a plan which has many of the earmarks of success and is gaining support rapidly. The livestock marketing "Committee of 15" appointed by President Howard just submitted a report which was adopted by a ratification conference on November 11th. A dairy marketing "Committee of 11" of which C. L. Hawley, Oregon Dairy and Food Commissioner, is a member, are getting busy on the dairy problem. Besides, a "Committee of 19" has been working on a uniform vegetable marketing system. A "Committee of 15" has been working on a cooperative wool pool which handled 45,000,000 pounds of wool of the 1920 wool in 19 states. It takes time to work these things out but there must be a beginning and every farmer can well welcome these organized efforts. Watch the papers for results.

High Spots of Livestock Marketing Plan.

The plan worked out by the American Farm Bureau "Committee of 15" contains four main features summed up as follows: 1. The establishment of Co-Operative Producers' Livestock Commission Associations at the terminal markets. 2. The organization of the National Producers' Association whose board of directors shall put the plan into effect and direct its working. 3. The establishment of Producers' Stocker and Feeder Companies in connection with the Terminal Commission Associations. 4. The establishment of co-operative livestock shipping associations at shipping points where available business will justify and local sentiment generally endorse them.

The Three-Year Membership Agreement Takes Well.

The plan of making the Farm Bureau Memberships for three years instead of one takes well with all the farmers who understand the plan. The farmer pays for his 1922 membership and arranges for the bank to pay the others when due in 1923 and 1924. This saves much extra effort on the part of the farmers who are giving their time to the common cause.

Eight Mile Meeting Takes In Large Territory.

The Farm Bureau meeting at Eight Mile Friday night, December 3rd, takes in not only the Eight Mile section but Rhea creek, Liberty, Gooseberry and Dry Fork. The outlying districts agreed to travel the extra distance because it will be impossible to hold Mr. Mansfield long enough to make all the separate communities.

Good Dairy Calves Available.

W. D. Pine, County Agent of Tillamook county, states they have eighteen hundred cows under association testing, many of them having been tested for the past ten years. They are selling heifer calves at the time they are dropped for $15 apiece. Guarantees them to be from a dam producing not less than 200 pounds of bacterial disease free milk per year. There is only one association and ready to guarantee that all calves sold will be bred by a purebred bull of the breed you desire—Jensen, Holstein, or Guernsey. They will supply from one to a carload, and the calf will be accompanied by a statement showing the name of the owner, record of the dam since she has been in the association and the name and herd registry number of the herd sire. When shipped individually the crates will cost approximately $1.50. Individual calves shipped will cost around $20. If interested get in touch with the County Agent's office. There may be interest enough so that we can secure a little better rate.

Paper Delayed.

The issue of the Farm Bureau News will probably be the last one which will be sent from the County Farm Bureau office. The State Farm Bureau paper known as the Oregon Federated Farmer, will take its place and contain the local news as well. The November Farm Bureau News was merged with the December issue on account of finances.

Government Trapper Expected December First.

The government trapper and hunter who is to begin operations against coyotes in Morrow county was expected November 1st but has been delayed for various reasons. A letter just received from Stanley G. Jewett, U. S. Biological Survey, indicates that Archie McCampbell, who is now located at Ukiah, will be in here about December 1st ready to begin his operations where the most damage is being done. Parties interested should get in touch with the County Agent's office immediately.

State Farm Bureau Paper Started.

The Oregon Farm Bureau will put out a state paper twice a month from now on. This will take the place of the County Farm Bureau News and will be sent to all Farm Bureau members in Oregon. One dollar from each 1922 membership will go for the subscription to the state paper. This is practically what it costs per member to publish a Farm Bureau News in this county. The state paper will not only come twice a month but will be much larger.

Gasoline at Twenty-Six Cents.

We have just received quotation on gasoline in tank cars at such a price that it can be disposed of to interested Morrow county farmers at any one shipping point at about 26 cents per gallon, which is a saving of 3 or 4 cents over present prices. In order to take advantage of this, however, it will be necessary to have sufficient containers to handle the gas and pay cash when the same was ordered. This will be given further consideration in the spring.

LET'S make this perfectly clear. Chesterfield cigarettes "Satisfy" because they contain exceptionally fine Turkish tobaccos, blended with Burley and other high-grade domestic tobaccos.
