if

THE "IF" in life is either a triumph or a defeat. IF we are prepared for a situation, we triumph. IF we are unprepared, it means defeat.

Now there is one essential in which every business, or individual need be prepared. It is in a good banking connection.

Many folks (even some business firms) think of a bank only as a place to deposit money for safe keeping. This, of course, should be the last consideration.

First, good banking connections place at the command of the customer valuable knowledge and experience of men specialized in business affairs.

They also put him in a position to receive the financial assistance and active co-operation of all departments of a commercial banking service.

So be it either a small individual saving deposit which will draw 4 per cent interest—or the opening of a new business account, we welcome you and place at your convenience all the modern banking facilities of this institution.

TO SEE SOLUTIONS OF WORLD PROBLEMS

Institute of Politics at Williamstown Prepares for Second Meeting Next March

To Discuss Reconstruction, Pacific Ocean Problems, Political Consequences of Present Peace

By HARRY A. GARFIELD.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Harry A. Garfield is president of Williams College, of Williamstown, Mass., one of the oldest and greatest institutions of learning in America. In the Institute of Politics there is gathered some of the master minds of the world. Mr. Garfield was instrumental in the organization of the Institute and is one of the leading sustainers of it as well as being active in the discussions that arise.

The gathering of representative Americans at the first session of the Institute of Politics drew from Lord Bryce the remark: "I know of no other country in which such a large group of prominent men and women could be held together for so long for the study of international relations." From such an indefatigable traveler and close observer of men in all parts of the world, it was a high tribute to Americans' interest in problems of international politics.

The second session of the Institute, which is to be held in August at Williamstown, will duplicate the first in so far as the general subject of the lectures and conferences is concerned. Courses of lectures on various phases of international relations will be delivered by scholars and state-men from South America, China and Japan, and Central and Western Europe. Public announcement of the list will be made as soon as it is complete and the particular subjects arranged. There will be many new names among the Round Table leaders. From the experience of the first session, the emphasis will be directed this summer even to a greater extent than last to intimate and free discussion in Round Table conferences. Subjects to be discussed in conferences will include the economic reconstruction of Europe, the problems of the Pacific ocean, the political consequences of the peace, as well as some of the more technical phases of international law.

THE GREAT LEADERS.
 Among the leaders of the conference groups are many of the foremost authorities upon world finance. Mr. Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City Bank; Mr. Paul M. Warburg, a charter member of the Federal Reserve Bank; Mr. Oscar T. Crosby, a former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. Regarding the problems of the Pacific, the leadership of the discussions will fall upon at least two of the technical advisors of the government during the Washington Conference upon the Limitation of Armament, namely, Professors George H. Blakeslee and Stanley K. Hornbeck. The most prominent authority upon Canadian history, Dr. Adam Short of Ottawa, will assume charge of the questions arising out of Dominion Autonomy within the British Empire, a subject which has recently been brought into prominence by the creation of the Irish Free State. Our relations with the South American countries and their relations with each other will form the topic to be discussed in conferences led by the Director General of the Pan-American Union and Professor John H. Letane. The political situation in Europe, especially in Central and Southeastern Europe, will be handled by Professor Charles H. Haskins, Professor Robert T. Lord, and Dr. Isiah Bowman, Director of the American Geographical Society. Some of the newer aspects of international legal development will be discussed by Professors George Grafton Wilson and Jesse S. Reeves.

The combination of the formal lecture with the informal discussion by a small group of specialists in a subject of Politics may perhaps be said to be the inventor. The lecture permits a scholar or administrator of distinction to present the informed opinion of his countrymen upon the problems which they have to face; the discussion groups offer an opportunity for extended debate upon those same problems. The advantages of this combination are apparent, especially when as was frequently the case last year, the lecturer attends the sessions of the conference and has an opportunity to explain and defend the point of view which he has previously presented from the lecture platform.

AS TO MEMBERSHIP.
 Membership in the Institute is open to all teachers of history, government, and economics in colleges and universities throughout the country and invitations are extended to others, who by reason of special training or experience in the field are able to contribute to the discussion of the subject in hand. By this means it is possible to group together in the Institute along with the college teachers, representatives drawn from other learned professions, from banking and international finance, from the army and navy and from the active service of the government in its great administrative department. Different points of view are in this way represented, the legal and financial, the military and the academic.

The membership of the Institute is necessarily limited by the accommodations which Williams College is able to offer. The maximum of 300, therefore, cannot be exceeded. But it should be understood that the public is cordially invited to attend the lectures during the session of 1922 as they were in 1921. While the members of the Institute last year numbered only 138 there were frequently from 800 to 1,000 persons present at the lectures. The Col-

Poem by Uncle John

A VALUABLE ASSET
 Politeness is a simple thing, and doesn't cost a sou. . . . It puts the polish on a king, or any common plug, by jing, the same as me or you.

We're livin' in a Christian age, where courtesy's required—and when I meet a sore-head bear, with constant growl and ruffled hair, it makes me awful tired. . . .

Whenever I go in a store, or other business place,—and when they treat me impolite, it simply makes me want to fight, like spittin' in my face!

I never could quite understand the tight-wad or his game. . . . And when, by chance or accident, I find myself inside his tent, I don't repeat the same. . . .

I don't aspire to regulate the habits of mankind. . . . But, if I might, by deed or word, land hard on some ill-mannered bird, it would relieve my mind.

From Uncle John

Wireless Calls When Dinner Is Ready

Good-bye to the well-known dinner bell on American farms. Wireless calls instead. He also receives market reports and current news of the day as he keeps busy at his work.

Farm Notes For Eastern Oregon

By F. L. BALLARD, Assistant County Agent Leader.

There are sixty-three varieties of wheat grown in Oregon where the sowing of fourteen varieties only would add greatly to the profits obtained by farmers, since the utilization of so many varieties causes loss, first, in failure to sow the variety best adapted to the particular district in question and, second, because of the occurrence of mixtures which reduce the grade and therefore the price received. Of the sixty-three varieties grown in the state, forty are grown in eastern Oregon and in this part of the state concentration on five varieties would mean hundreds of thousands of dollars additional in profits of eastern Oregon wheat growers each year.

Much progress is being made in eastern Oregon in remedying this situation. The county agents in ten counties have planned extensive field demonstrations for 1922. These are so arranged that the superior value of certain varieties, notably Hard Federation, Turkey Red, and Hybrid 128, will be plainly evident. Last year this work was carried on in seven counties and the results were effective. In Union county Hybrid 128 was grown by fourteen farmers. A tour of visitations was held as well as several field meetings on the ranches. The result was that this fall five carloads of Hybrid 128 were sown instead of the Forty-Fold usually grown.

Why this change?
 Because Hybrid 129 is a desirable, non-shattering variety that yielded five to seven bushels per acre more than Forty-Fold, grown under the same conditions on the fourteen Union county farms.

Farmers saw their neighbors harvesting higher yields and were convinced. This is the plan followed in every county.

In Morrow county an illustration of the progress being made in standardization is found in the fact that a survey made through elevator managers and warehousemen in 1919 showed only 14 per cent of Turkey Red in Morrow county while last year these same men reported that 55 per cent of wheat in Morrow county is Turkey.

The following varieties are being stressed in the counties listed as follows:

Morrow: Turkey Red, Hybrid 128, Federation; Umatilla: Certified Hybrid 128, Jenkins Club, Federation, Triplett; Wasco: Turkey Red, Federation, Hybrid 128; Union: Hybrid 128, Federation; Wallowa, Hybrid 128, Federation, Hard Federation; Malheur: Hybrid 128, Federation; Crook: Federation, Turkey Red; Deschutes: Federation; Lake: Federation; Turkey Red.
