

Predatory Animal Hunters Are Getting Good Results

The predatory animal hunters over the state of Oregon are getting results. During the month of June 4 bob cats and 200 coyotes were killed. Every man in the state of Oregon averaged 14 predatory animals during the month, some of them averaging almost one per day.

Harold Abrah, one of the men who is hunting and trapping coyotes in Morrow county is among the better hunters for the last month, taking 16 coyotes. Morrow county is cooperating in this work with the funds provided from the recent fund which was voted two years ago. This fund must necessarily be again raised again at the fall election or the splendid work being done in poisoning rabbits and squirrels, and controlling the predatory animals will come to an abrupt end.

C. C. CALKINS, County Agent.

HONEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1922

Six thousand nine hundred divorces granted in one court in Chicago in one year and the city newspapers record as the important result that the Judge has collapsed from the strain. The collapse of a thousand judges isn't comparable to the collapse of six thousand nine hundred homes and the lowering of the moral fibre of thirteen thousand eight hundred men and women, not to say a word about the children. Talk about happiness being the keystone of human development may be all right, but we don't get gold we can use till the ore is crushed and washed and the metal shot through the refining furnace. If fifty per cent. of these trial love birds were made to see that a marriage license is not a scrap of paper we might produce a healthier and more self-reliant race.

H. M. Olden Dangerously Ill

H. M. Olden, who was stricken with a violent attack of erysipelas in the face and head some ten days ago, and whose life was despaired of for several days, is slowly improving and the crisis is believed by Dr. Walker, his attending physician, to have been passed. It is yet too early to pronounce him entirely out of danger, and it will likely be several days before complete recovery is assured.—Ione Independent.

Course of Study Outlined By State Superintendent

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, July 26.—In an address to the Principals' club, an organization made up of more than 60 high school principals and superintendents in the state, J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of public instruction, outlined the new course of study for the Oregon grade and high schools, which will be in effect for two years from next September.

Superintendent Churchill appealed to the schoolmen present to carry out faithfully the provisions of the state law providing for twenty minutes of physical education daily for every student in the public schools. This exercise, the superintendent pointed out, must be taken in the regular school period and not at recesses, and special games and sports, in which only part of the children can participate, ought not to be substituted. The new physical education course was prepared under the direction of John F. Bovard, dean of the school of physical education in the University of Oregon.

Among the changes in the study course will be the introduction of six weeks of Oregon history study at the opening of the year, in the eighth grade. Agriculture also will be taught in the eighth grade again next year. To make room for these subjects, the course has been lightened in some other respects.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION MAKES HEPPNER VISIT

seasly obeyed and rigorously enforced. Mr. Barratt did not attempt to have much to say in a public way, and touched a little upon his associations with the commission since he has been serving as representative from the Eastern Oregon district. He will state, by the way, that Mr. Barratt was highly complimented by both Mr. Booth and Mr. Yeon for his splendid services as their associate on the commission since his appointment. He holds head place, also as the story tells on the board.

A number of local speakers were also introduced, pending the time when Governor Olcott could finish his duties at the table. S. E. Notson, R. J. Carsner, S. A. Pattison, V. Crawford were among those called on.

Governor Olcott, who has been with the commission since they started on their circle about the state, received a warm welcome. He stated that he was set that his trip over the state at this time had no political significance whatever. He had promised himself that sometime, while in his official capacity as chief executive of the state, he would make a trip over the highway system that he might be better informed with regard thereto, and this was the first opportunity that he had had. Going with the commission to Crescent City, Calif., where a meeting was held some two weeks ago with officials of that state concerning interstate road matters, the governor stated that he had traveled a distance of some 2500 miles; he thought, before starting on the trip, that he knew a little something of Oregon, but he learned, in common with the majority of our citizens that he actually knew little of this great state. While here, Governor Olcott made no reference whatever to political matters, as he was out on a campaign of education and not to talk politics. He stated that while on the trip, it had been published in the press that Commissioner Barratt would shortly hand in his resignation. He had no official knowledge of this, however, and wished to say that he was not on a campaign of education and not to talk politics. a general good, social time enjoyed. The trip of the commission over the state has been for the purpose of getting together data for the biennial report of the commission to the legislature. Mr. Booth stated that this would be very exhaustive, and would be a document containing full information of the work of the commission.

The trip wound up at Heppner, all members of the party, with the exception of Mr. Barratt, leaving on Sunday morning at 5:30 for Portland, after having traveled some 2500 miles and visiting 28 counties. This was the first time the commission has traveled over the roads of the state in a body, and they made a thorough survey of road conditions over the entire system. The regular July meeting was held in Portland this week, beginning on Tuesday.

FARM POINTERS

Get Rid of Lice on Hogs.
Lice on hogs can be easily destroyed by the use of smudge oil or the discarded oil drawn from the crank case of the automobile or tractor. It can be applied with a brush in the case of a few hogs or it can be used in connection with rubbing posts. It is therefore necessary to give a second treatment at the end of 12 to 14 days when the eggs are hatched. Experiments have shown that lice reduce the effectiveness of the feed as much as one third.—O. A. C. Experiment station.

Supplementary Feed Valuable.
Now in the days of dry pasture is the time to start feeding supplementary feed such as a little grain or silage. If the farmer finds himself unprepared this year he should plan to put in vetch and oats in the fall and have a supply next year. This crop will be harvested in June and July and provide ample supply of silage for the summer months.—O. A. C. Experiment station.

Crop Standardization Important.
"Standardization of crops as to variety and quality is vital to the welfare of Oregon," declares G. R. Hyslop, farm crop specialist of the Oregon Experiment station. "Sixty-three different varieties of wheat are grown when 14 and possibly 11 would take care of all needs and give a better yield and quality. The discarding of many of the inferior varieties and standardization of those found best suited to Oregon conditions will bring an increased yield at practically no increase in cost."

Twenty-five thousand acres of grain were inspected and passed as meeting certification requirements last year, reports Professor Hyslop.

Johann Troedson of Ione has been in Heppner all this week under care of a physician, suffering a severe attack of tonsillitis. He had been quite sick with the ailment several days before coming to town, and it took several days to put him in shape so that he was able to eat anything. He was able to return home this morning.

Union Pacific Issues New Resort Folder

"Outings in the Pacific Northwest" is the title of a 46-page folder just issued by the Union Pacific system. The publication is handsomely illustrated with views of attractive places in which to spend a vacation, and the text is descriptive of the pictured out-doors. Beaches, the Columbia River highway, the Sky Line trail, the Lancaster camps in the Columbia river gorge, Crater lake, the Oregon caves, Puget Sound, Ranier National park, the San Juan archipelago, the Georgian circuit, the Olympic peninsula, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Spokane and the Inland Empire are described briefly but interestingly. Following the text is a list of the resort hotels in the Northwest, a table showing summer excursion fares to seashore and mountain resorts and a map of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and a part of British Columbia. While a Union Pacific publication, the folder treats of localities served by other railroad lines and steamers. It is proposed to give the information the visitors will desire, and in doing this the text was prepared without being confined to the territory served by the system lines. Copies of the folder can be obtained from agents of the Union Pacific or from the general passenger department offices in the Wells Fargo building, Portland.

J. S. Carter expects to go to Pendleton this week-end for the purpose of a medical examination at the hands of Dr. F. E. Boyden. A few months ago Mr. Carter underwent an operation at the Pendleton hospital for mastoid trouble. From this he has quite fully recovered, but it was expected that another operation might prove necessary on the inner ear at a later date, and Mr. Carter is going to Pendleton at this time to ascertain if this will be required for his full restoration to health.

"Red Crown" enables your car to develop the maximum of power and per-gallon mileage that its makers designed it to give.
