

"From the Ground Up"
Is Tom Moore Picture

Report Hughes Comedy Depicts Rise of Ditch-Digger to Building Successful in Delightful Screen Romance.

Tom Moore, with his incredible, jolly smile, is coming to the Star Theatre next Sunday, in a delightful Rupert Hughes comedy, "From the Ground Up," that was produced by Goldwyn. In this photoplay, Mr. Moore begins life as such a ditch-digger in an excavation for a business building. As a man with no care and a happy nature that keeps him either singing or playing his harmonica, the lowly hero arouses the envy of the rich and care-worn builder. His daughter, too, on a visit to the site of the new building, is attracted to the happy spirit in the ditch. He gives her his harmonica as a sure cure for all the ills of the world. She drives a bill into his hand and drives off. Thereafter his pride gives him an ambition—to return, that money.

When the building becomes too great an undertaking for the builder, and his fortune is lost, the ditch-digger has already risen to a position of semi-responsibility. Two or three times he encounters the beautiful daughter, (played by Heleine Chadwick) but is never able to return payment for his recipe for happiness. Now the fortunes of the ditch-digger and the formerly wealthy builder are reversed; but it is the former who seeks out the latter.

There are many humorous and pathetic episodes in this Rupert Hughes comedy which lead to a satisfactory conclusion. The photoplay was directed by E. Mason Hopper and acted by an excellent cast. In support of the star, besides Miss Chadwick, are De Witt C. Jennings, Hardee Kirkland, Harrell Foss and Grace Pike.

Many of the scenes were actually taken in an excavation; and the dare-devil balancing scene on the girders of a sky-scraper supplies a genuine thrill. "From the Ground Up" is an all-round, entertaining comedy, admirably produced.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chinn are the proud parents of another son, Edward, Jr., born to them at their home in Heppner on Saturday, November 4th. Mother and babe are doing well, and Ed has a little time to spare away from home attending to business at the restaurant.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam McDaniel came in from Hardman yesterday to take the train this morning for Edgemoor, Idaho, where they expect to spend the winter with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hastings but recently located at Edgemoor, where he has secured employment and is doing well.

Billy O'Rourke, formerly a resident of this city, but later making his home at Pendleton, was in the city on Saturday, accompanied by his newly acquired wife.

Roy Neill, Butter creek rancher, was here Wednesday, bringing in the election returns from Pine City.

BLAHN-EGGERS

On Sunday, October 29, the First Evangelical Lutheran Emmanuel church was the scene of a very pretty wedding ceremony when Miss Martha Blahn and Mr. Ott Eggers were united in marriage before a congregation of the members of Emmanuel and friends of the bride and the groom that filled the church.

The attendants were Miss Martha Blahn, sister of the bride, Miss Martha Eggers, sister of the bridegroom, Mr. Wm. Blahn, brother of the bride, and the Messrs. Gustav and Wm. Eggers, brothers of the bridegroom. The bride's gown was of white brocade satin and she wore a bridal veil caught up with orange blossoms and carried a bridal bouquet of roses. Miss Martha Blahn wore lanna colored satin and Miss Martha Eggers, pale blue satin. Both bridesmaids carried bouquets of large chrysanthemums. The altar was banked with dahlias and chrysanthemums.

Miss Lydia Pedersen presided at the organ. After the bridal party had marched in to the strains of the wedding march the assembled congregation sang the hymn: Jesus Be Our Guide. Then after a short heartfelt address to the bridal couple the simple, the impressive Lutheran marriage ceremony was read by Rev. Amos E. Minneman.

After the ceremony the guests assembled to enjoy a wedding dinner in the church parlors at which covers were laid for 150. Following Mr. and Mrs. Eggers left by auto for Spokane. On their return they will be home to their friends at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blahn, 603 Pleasant Street, until the completion of their new home near Prospect Heights.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blahn and was formerly of Heppner, Ore., but for several years has been a resident of Walla Walla. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Deidrich Eggers, lifelong residents of Walla Walla and vicinity, and is at present head miller in Cove Bros. mill, where he has been employed for years. Both young folks are among the most active young workers in Lutheran circles. —Walla Walla Union.

Postal Employees May Enjoy Local and State Holidays.

Washington, Nov. 1.—A sweeping order giving postmasters in every town and city in the country authority to release postal workers from their duties in case of total or partial suspension of business in their particular communities on account of local or state holidays has been issued by Postmaster General Work. The order is unprecedented in the history of the Post Office department. At present only national holidays are observed throughout the postal system of the United States. In case of state or local holidays, which sometimes run as high as fifteen and twenty a year, postal employees have been compelled to remain at their places of work although little or no service is required of them. The new order eliminates the unnecessary detention of workers when stores and business houses are closed for these occasions and business is suspended in their communities. Thousands of postal employees are expected to be released from their duties upon various days during the year as a result of the order.

IVY DUKE'S CHARM APPEALS TO WOMEN

Most Famous of Screen Beauties in Greatest Role of Her Career. Gorgeous Sets, Gowns.

The enchanting beauty of Ivy Duke amid a gorgeous array of scenes and the smart finish of her many gowns make the sensational drama "The Bigamist" coming to the Star Theatre Monday and Tuesday a photoplay of tremendous appeal.

Miss Duke, who has been hailed as the most beautiful of all cinema stars of the world over, is not only possessed of personal charm but she is an actress of extraordinary skill. "The Bigamist" is full of strong moments and Miss Duke dominates the action in all of them.

In the scene in which she receives a letter exposing her husband as a bigamist she is a marvel of histrionic skill. The various shadings of this unusual character are brilliantly handled by this beauty of beauties. Founded on the memorable novel "The Bigamist," from the pen of F. E. Mills Young, the production is a powerful treatment of a tremendous theme. It was directed by Guy Newall, who plays opposite Miss Duke.

FARM POINTERS THAT POINT.

J. Skovbo, beekeeper of Hermiston, Oregon, has recently shipped six tons of honey direct to his brother in Copenhagen, Denmark. Skovbo produced a total of thirty tons of honey this year, duplicating his production of honey for each of the last three years. A good colony of bees at the beginning of the main honey flow should consist of one selected queen and 75,000 to 100,000 workers. There should be as few drones as possible. —O. A. C. Ext. service.

No more will the Freshmen gain the right to display their pennants by defending it in the assembly hall for twenty four hours, no more class fights in the school building, no more breaking in at night to steal the pennants from the assembly says the new constitution. A new tradition concerning this has been established. A pole will be put up on the school ground and on it the Freshmen will put their pennant. Between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. truce is declared and nobody can take the pennant but at any other time the Sophomores or Juniors can get it. The Seniors act as guards or policemen. If by the first of December the Freshmen have been unable to keep their pennant up for twenty four consecutive hours they will be represented in the assembly hall by a small green pennant not to exceed twenty-four inches in length. At the beginning of their year as Sophomores they must beg and receive permission from the Student Body and the principal before they will be permitted to replace the green pennant with the one of their own colors. The pole will soon be put up by Mr. Hedricks order and we will see the large and muscular Freshies protecting their pennant by main force.

The library is almost completely catalogued and ready for service now. Better care will be taken of the books under the efficient new system.
