

Local Happenings

The equilibrium of this first class family journal has been somewhat disturbed this week, while having a new foundation placed under our feet. The floor of the building became afflicted with dry rot, settled down under the weight of machinery and printing material, all of which had to be pulled "out of the hole" and moved to other quarters while the carpenters rebuilt the floor. If there is anything lacking in the quality and quantity of material in the makeup of the G-T, please overlook it for this time, as we have had to labor under extreme difficulties, as well as the loss of about four days of time.

The sale conducted for Chas. Furlong by Ed Keller last week, was largely attended by people from both Morrow and Gilliam counties. The sale was held at the Cradick farm on Hale Ridge, and we are informed that everything brought high prices. There were in especial demand, and what were offered brought satisfactory returns in cash, and Mr. Keller states that the larger part of the sales were cash in hand.

B. F. Sorenson and wife went to Hot Lake on Tuesday, where Mr. Sorenson will enter the sanatorium of Dr. Phyl for treatment. He has been suffering much of late with ailments which fail to yield to treatment, and he will try the efficacy of the treatments at Hot Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Sorenson were accompanied by Mrs. Hilma Anderson, who will also take treatments there.

A. J. Fritz, representing Union Savings & Loan Association of Portland, arrived in the city on Sunday evening and will spend a few days here in the interests of the association. He states that applications for loans are coming in quite lively from over the state, and there is much demand for the funds of the association for home building use.

Mr. and Mrs. Loy M. Turner arrived Saturday from Baker by auto, and after a visit of a few days at the home of Mr. Turner's parents in this city, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Turner, they will continue on their journey to California, expecting to spend the winter in the south on a visit with the relatives of Mrs. Turner, at Polson.

Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Dempsey of Lexington visited in Heppner on Saturday. Mr. Dempsey, who runs the big "cat" for the county, is busy with the crew at present getting the rock crusher moved out on the Jones place on Heppner flat, where operations will begin ere long on a portion of the Hardman-Heppner market road.

H. H. Pomeroy, chief deputy fire marshal in the department of the State of Oregon, was in Heppner Monday on matters connected with the duties of his office. P. A. Anderson and Pete Shively, old-time friends of Mr. Pomeroy, enjoyed a good visit with him while he was in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Slocum and Rev. Gillanders, pastor of the Congregational church, all of Lexington, were in the city on Monday evening, the gentlemen attending the meeting of the Brotherhood, and Mrs. Slocum the Neighbors of Woodcraft.

Dr. D. R. Haylor, eye specialist, was here for a couple of days the first of the week, during which time he was very busy fitting Heppner folks with glasses. Dr. Haylor enjoys a good trade in this line among the Morrow county folks.

Oscar Edwards returned on Saturday from Portland and Hillsboro. He took in the Live Stock Exposition at Portland, and then enjoyed a visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Edwards, who reside near Hillsboro.

Jan. Kyle, prominent citizen of Stanfield, was a visitor in this city on Sunday and Monday. Mr. Kyle is active in irrigation affairs in Eastern Oregon, and is president of the Oregon Irrigation congress.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hoebner of North Sand Hollow, where they farm and raise white leghorn chickens, were in Heppner for a short time on Tuesday.

C. C. Calkins returned Sunday from Portland, where he had a couple of days of real pleasure during the past week in taking in the big stock show.

Mrs. Edna Slocum returned to her home at Portland on Tuesday, after spending several days in Heppner.
