

JUNIORS-SENIORS GIVE CLASS PLAY

"And Home Came Ted" Makes Hit With Local Audience

COMEDY IS CLEVER

Well-Chosen Cast of Young Actors Does Good Work; Special Numbers Intervene Acts

The Junior-Senior play, "And Home Came Ted," of Heppner high school was presented before a packed house at the Star theater Tuesday evening. Opening with a humorous situation, the play was a continuous source of amusement throughout the entire three acts, the exceptionally good handling of their respective parts by the players detracting not a bit from the original conception.

Philip Mahoney as Skeet Kelly, the hotel clerk, sent things off with a burst of laughter with his diplomatic handling of Ira Stone, the villain, which part was taken very well by Keith Logan. From thence forth Skeet and Aunt Jabbles, the colored cook, both Owen, kept the audience in a jolly frame of mind for the reception of the quite involved plot.

The plot hinged around the control of a furniture company in the Catskill mountains, and all the scenes were laid at the Rip Van Winkle Inn. The elder Mr. Gilmore, former manager of the company, had died, leaving the controlling interest in the company to his son Ted. The time of the first act was set the day before the stockholders' meeting to elect the new manager. Ted, supposed to arrive on the evening train, must sign the ledger, brought to the inn by Jim Ryker, a lawyer, before he could vote at the meeting. He failed to arrive, causing Mollie Macklin, the housekeeper and close friend of the Gilmore family, and Skeet, who had designs toward her, a great deal of mental disfigurement; as well as Miss Langworthy, spinster and the former lover of Ted, who had awaited his return seven years.

Ira Stone, the villain, who would get control of the company if Ted failed to show up, arrived at the inn with the opening of the first act. He had once been engaged to Mollie but had thrown her over on finding that he could not get control of the company through her. Stepping at the inn at the same time was Mr. Man, the mystery, who had just finished supervising the construction of a tunnel through the mountain, and who had saved the life of Skeet, who was employed in the tunnel before becoming clerk at the inn. Mr. Man fell in love with Diana Greenwood, the heiress, who had also fallen in love with him from Skeet's story of his bravery. He was also immediately recognized by Ryker as an old school friend. Because of his resemblance to Ted, Skeet and Mollie endeavored to have him sign the ledger and vote at the meeting.

Things did not run according to schedule, however, for with the arrival of another Ted and his bride, who were laid to rest in the place of trouble with their automobile, and also the widow of Ryker from Honolulu, from whom he wished to hide, the scheme was upset. Ryker disappeared by jumping through the window, making it seem impossible to get the ledger signed, the incognito Ted was put in bad with Diana, and all seemed to go wrong.

Ryker returned, however, disguised as a hanged, which furnished considerable amusement, and on revealing his identity at the end cleared up the middle. Mr. Man was the real Ted, who had taken charge of the tunnel to be close to the factory, and the other Ted, who had not been given a chance to explain, had no connection with the affair at all. Ted had signed the ledger while in the room with Ryker the night before and could vote at the meeting thus assuring his becoming manager, and regained his standing with Diana. The play ended with a love scene between Mollie and Skeet.

Carl Cason, as Mr. Man, did the part with a finish exceptionally creditable for an amateur. Elaine Sigbee did the part of Diana Greenwood very well indeed, and Reliance Moore was hard to improve upon as a spinner nearing forty, in desperate straits regarding matrimony. Mollie Macklin was a charming part taken by Florence Cason. Ted, the groom

Mr. Gates Figures On Cheaper Juice

While in this city the first of the week looking after his interests in the Heppner Light and Water company, H. W. Gates, president, gave forth the announcement that he was at the present time negotiating with the Pacific Light and Power company who are making extensive additions to their power plants in this part of the state, to furnish the Heppner company with juice. Mr. Gates states that the line would come in to Ione, and from there Lexington and Heppner would be supplied, and if he can get his plans over with the big company it will mean a very material reduction in rates for this section, for all of which a long suffering public will be very grateful, indeed.

Failing in this proposal, Mr. Gates further states that it will be necessary for him to remove his power plant to the mountains, as heretofore figured on, where fuel and power will be cheaper, and in this event, we shall be benefited by a reduction of rates.

The franchise of the Heppner Light and Water company with the city of Heppner is expiring, and Mr. Gates was before the city council on Monday evening with his proposals for a removal of the contract with the city.

CONVENTION IN HEPPNER.

One of the greatest aggregations of talent that perhaps has ever assembled in this city at one time will be here as a part of the program of the Eastern Oregon convention of the Church of Christ that will meet here from June 13 to 17 inclusive. In addition to the excellent talent that Oregon can contribute will be such personages as Dr. Royal J. Dye, of Molave, Africa, one of the greatest living medical missionaries; Miss Goldie Wells, also of Molave, W. F. Turner of national reputation, Marston Stevenson, one of America's most famous Bible school workers; Mrs. Alfia B. Anderson of St. Louis of national repute, and then a host of Oregon talent such as Walter L. Myers of Eugene, C. E. Swander of Portland, and a number of others, sufficient to bring Heppner one of the greatest programs in her history.

LEXINGTON NEWS.

We are glad to have back with us again Mrs. S. L. Stephens who has been in poor health for the past eight years but is now rapidly recovering her health again after undergoing a very serious operation at the Heppner Surgical hospital two weeks ago. Mrs. Stephens says she had a badly diseased gall bladder containing a number of large gall stones removed, also her appendix and adhesions about her stomach.

Baccalaureate Services

At the Christian church on Sunday evening, W. O. Livingstone, the pastor, delivered a strong sermon to the graduates of Heppner high school and was greeted by an audience that filled the new church to capacity. Rev. Haslam of the Federated church assisted, reading the scripture lesson, and pronouncing the benediction. Mrs. Chester Darbee sang a beautiful solo with violin obligato by Stanley Peterson and Mrs. Hopper, accompanist, the choir of the church furnishing the other music.

PICKENS GOES TO BAKER.

Roy Pickens, who has been manager for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company at Heppner for nearly two years past, has been transferred to Baker, and expects to leave for his new field just as soon as he can get ready. He will have no successor in the office here and his duties will be looked after in the future by the manager of the Arlington station. Mr. Pickens and family have made many friends in Heppner during their sojourn here, who regret very much their departure.

Memorial Day

UNDER the light of a great new truth, America was born. It was a thought in government so new and overwhelming that it thrilled men's souls. For it they would face any fate.

It was the idea that all men are born free and equal. The most receptive brains of that time crouched it in a wonderful phrasing of our Declaration of Independence. In that setting, we have cherished it to the present day and will cherish it for all time to come. It has been the big theme about which have clustered big deeds and big sentiments for a century or more.

Both for America and for the world, let us keep firm the high resolve and meet the enemy of Our Flag, whether that enemy be here or overseas. Only by so doing can we hope to honor our soldiers and sailors for their high, unselfish and heroic services,—only by so doing can we prevent those who made the supreme sacrifice of offering their lives on the altar of Liberty from having died in vain.

Wool Sales Here Saturday Bring Big Prices

Several sales of wool, aggregating a total of $49,000, were made at Heppner on Saturday last, and the average price received was 44 cents, or a total of about $185,500.

George Coiby and Edward Cox, representing the American Woolen company were the purchasers and they took over the following: Gentry & Cohn, 5900 fleeces at 45 cents; John Kilkenny, 12,000 fleeces at 42½ cents for sand wool and 44½ cents for his up-land wool, or an average for the entire clip of 44½ cents; P. Davidson, 1425 fleeces at 44½ cents; Kenny & Healy, 2600 fleeces at 44½ cents; Phil Hill, 1500 fleeces at 44½ cents; Dan Dobey, 1500 fleeces at 44½ cents.

This leaves but little wool to be disposed of from this locality. The above were individual sales and not a pool, and the prices received are considered to be very good.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

W. M. Morris and his brother O. A. Morris, were visitors in this city yesterday, stopping over here on their return home from a visit to their former home in Iowa. The former is the father of Roger W. Morris, the new county agent of Morrow county, and his home is at Vancouver, Wash., and the latter resides at Medford. They had expected to stop over in Wyoming to see the young Mr. Morris, but learning that he had removed to Heppner, called here instead.

Joe Keller, formerly state parole officer under Governor Withycome, but now investigator with Theft Bureau of the Pacific Coast Auto Underwriters conference was in this city on Tuesday. His home is at Portland, but his work calls him to various parts of the state, his company being interested in the recovery of stolen automobiles, as well as methods of making this business harder for those who engage in such thievery.

Roger W. Morris, wife and two sons arrived at Heppner during the week from Wyoming, and will take up their abode here, Mr. Morris taking charge of the county agent's office. Mrs. Morris and the children have gone on to Vancouver, Wash., for a short visit with the home folks. The newly appointed agent is a former schoolmate of County Clerk Anderson, they having been boys together at their old home in Vancouver.

C. Melville, who farms in the north end of the county, was in Heppner for a short time on Wednesday. He states that harvesting will begin out that way right after the 4th of July. He and a couple of his neighbors returned the past week from an auto trip of 1300 miles, going as far south as Ashland and then over to Seattle and home via Ellensburg. They enjoyed a big clam feed while at the coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Clabaugh departed this morning for their new home near Newberg, where they have taken a lease on a piece of farm property for five years. They were tendered a reception at the home of Mrs. Hall on last evening by the Endeavorers of the Christian church, of which society Mrs. Clabaugh was president.

Mr. Mitchell, field representative for the Ellison-White Chautauque will be in Heppner on Sunday and desires to meet all the quaterners and all others interested in the success of the chautauque at Heppner. A meeting is called for 3 p. m. at the Christian church to talk over matters pertaining to the coming event in June.

Poppies for Memorial Day—Anyone desiring poppies to wear on Memorial Day, will be able to get them either at this office or the First National bank, the Legion boys expecting to have a supply on hand in ample time for the celebration at Heppner. The poppy is the official flower of the Legion.

Mrs. S. H. Parker, mother of F. S. Parker, arrived on Saturday from her home at Auxvasse, Mo., and will spend the summer at the home of her son at Heppner. She was met at Arlington by Mr. Parker, who accompanied her to this city on the stage Saturday afternoon.

F. L. Ballard, assistant county agent leader, was a visitor in this city on Monday, looking over the new county agent's office. He is a busy man these days as his work takes him all over the state, a job that was heretofore performed by two men.

Arthur Campbell departed on Sunday for a visit with his sister, Mrs. B. C. He near Tule River. He will be in the British Columbia country, returning home in time to work through harvest.

The examination and marking of the eighth grade examination papers has been completed this week at the office of Superintendent Shurtz, Mrs. C. W. McNamee of this city and Mrs. Howard M. James of Arlington doing the work.

James Carty and son, extensive wool growers residing at Tub Springs, were in the city on Monday, looking up the wool men. They have just disposed of their wool yet, the price offered not being just to their liking.

Archdeacon M. McLean Goidie will hold services at the Episcopal church in this city on Sunday next. Communion services at 8 a. m.; morning prayer and service at 11; evening song and service at 7:30.

Mrs. Arthur Wheelhouse and twin daughters, and her friend, Mrs. Fred Douglass of Arlington, are guests this week at the home of Mrs. C. W. Shurtz of this city. Mrs. Wheelhouse is a sister of Mrs. Shurtz.

Mrs. Alice Adkins is visiting at the home of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ora Adkins in Milton. She expects to remain there until after the commencement exercises of Columbia college.

Hugh L. Stanfield, brother of Senator Stanfield and interested extensively in the stock business at Welser, Idaho, was in Heppner yesterday looking after interests of his company here.

New Restaurant Will Open This Week-End

The Elkhorn restaurant will be closed today and tomorrow while Edward Chinn, proprietor is getting moved and settled in his new headquarters in the I. O. O. F. building. The work of getting the new place in shape has been going on for several weeks, and now the room on the north side of Odd Fellows building is placed in shape and has been converted into one of the finest restaurant rooms the city has ever had.

The new equipment has all arrived and is being placed, and business is being suspended for a couple of days while the ranges and other equipment from the Roberts building, where the Elkhorn has been located or the past three years, is being moved to the new quarters and installed.

In addition to the restaurant proper, Eddie has added a lunch counter, which will doubtless prove to be an attractive feature. Much new equipment has been installed and the service will be greatly improved, making the new Elkhorn the leading eating place of the city. Mr. Chinn expects to be open for business as usual Saturday morning.

Prof. Howard M. James and family have been spending the week in Heppner, enjoying a visit with friends. The school at Arlington closed the end of last week and the James family drove up to Heppner Sunday afternoon, being here to take in much of the activities of the closing week of the Heppner school. Mr. James expects to have charge of the high school at Hills Rock the coming year, to which position he has been elected.

Liquor Case Is Held Over for Grand Jury

The case against Matt T. Hughes, charged with having in possession some apparatus for the manufacture of illicit liquor, was brought before Judge Cornett in justice court yesterday, and he was held to appear before the grand jury and his bond placed at $250.

Officers found parts of a still secreted in the barn of Mr. Hughes some ten days ago and the case was brought under the new law which requires that stills, worms, or other apparatus for the manufacture of malt or spirituous liquors be registered with the proper officials of the state, and this particular worm had not been registered, so the judge thought the evidence sufficient on which to hold Mr. Hughes for investigation by the grand jury. He was represented by Woodson and Sweek.

Juniors Give Formal Banquet to Seniors

The Junior-Senior banquet was an event of the week-end, and was given on Friday evening at Hotel Heppner, where the idea of an oasis in the desert was carried out in the decorations. Tables were spread under a tent, and place cards were shaped to represent palm leaves; in fact it was an oriental banquet, and the young ladies serving tables were dressed to properly carry out the idea, resembling very much the ladies from the great desert of Egypt and had their faces veiled.

Covers were laid for forty-six and besides the members of the two classes, several of the faculty were present to enjoy the festivities.

Miss Bernice Woodson acted as hostess, and the following toasts were given: "Sand Storms," Hazel Anderson; "Oasis," Carl Cason; "The Guides," Retha Owen; "Destination," Professor Hedrick.

Entertainment was furnished by Stanley Peterson who gave a violin solo, a dance by Betty Irwin and a solo by Dorothy Hill, and the occasion is one long to be remembered by the participants.

SCHOOL ANNUAL OUT.

The Heblich, annual of Heppner high school, is off the press and delivery is being made this week. The class of '23 and their assistants from the lower classes, have turned out a publication that they need not feel ashamed of, and the 1923 annual is fully up to the standard of merit which has been set by its predecessors.

The mechanical work was done in this office and we leave that part to speak for itself.

Pine City School Graduates Class of Four

At the Pine City school last evening, a class of four was graduated, the exercises bringing together a crowd that packed the school building to overflowing.

W. O. Livingstone of this city delivered the commencement address and the diplomas were presented to the class by Mrs. Shurtz, county superintendent, and there was a fine program of music, consisting of songs and choruses.

The Pine City high school has been in charge of Prof. D. M. Deeg during the past year, and Mrs. Deeg and Miss Luena Treat were the efficient grade teachers. A class of six graduates from the eighth grade received their diplomas also.

STARTS BATTERY BUSINESS.

Wm. Osborne, who recently took over the battery business of the Cohn Auto company in this city, has the same established at the Venturi garage in Lexington. Mr. Osborne has service car and expects to be able to serve both Heppner and Ione in the battery line. He was in Heppner Tuesday and states that his business is starting off well at Lexington, and he is now prepared to serve the public in furnishing new batteries or the repairing of old ones.
