

THE GAZETTE-TIMES

THE HEPPNER GAZETTE, Established March 25, 1892. THE HEPPNER TIMES, Established November 19, 1917. Consolidated February 12, 1921.

Published every Thursday morning by Walter and Spencer Crawford and owned by the Publishers at Heppner, Oregon, at second-class matter.

ADVERTISING RATES GIVEN ON APPLICATION

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: One Year $2.00 Six Months 1.50 Three Months 1.00 Single Copies .25

MORROW COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER

Foreign Advertising Representatives THE AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

Richard Lloyd Jones Says:

SEE FAULTS ONLY IN FRONT OF A MIRROR.

MOST of us have eyes that see faults in others but become blind when we take the mirror. The greatest fault we possess is to be conscious of none.

He who is conscious of his faults is gladly forgiven for most of them. For man like the tree, he who is without fault is lonely.

Man sometimes loved more for their faults than their virtues. Fault is excess. It is as much a fault to over-give as to over-get. Yet it is the generous hand, not the grasping hand that is loved.

There are passing failures in this old world that in the light of time lift up as permanent triumphs. That which seems to be a fault today may blossom into an abiding virtue tomorrow.

Faults are facts. This is the hardest truth for most men to grasp. There is none of us without our limitations somewhere.

Get out the best that there is in everybody and accept the limitations that we cannot change or control. That is the right game in life.

An old proverb tells us, "He is lifeless who is faultless."

We easily forgive those faults which are known only to ourselves, and while we are indifferent to our good qualities, we keep on deceiving ourselves in regard to our faults, until we at last come to look upon them as virtues. That is weakness and weakness is a fault to be feared.

The greatest virtue is not the freedom from faults but the strength, the will, the courage, the character to overcome them.

Among the commonest classification of human faults are cruelty, constant nagging, fault-finding and selfishness. These make disagreeable men and disagreeable men make a disagreeable world.

Life is what you make it and you make it as you think it.

The first symptom of fault infection is to be unaware of its presence. Cheerfulness, ambition, sincerity, and brotherly feeling are the best medicines—and sweet cures.

One fault never justifies another. Some faults indulged in are merely the keys that open the gates to permit greater faults to enter. A selfish fault has no excuse and deserves no pardon. Do not excuse your faults while good men attempt to get rid of them.

The foolish man's fault is the wise man's lesson. The weak man who tries to justify his faults by pointing to the goodness of a neighbor is like the slave that reminded the master that it had a hole in its head.

Nothing is worth being named a fault except that which injures yourself or harms your helpfulness to others. He who was pious—disgrace yourself carefully—seek out your fault and get rid of it.

The story tells of a transformation wrought through the organization of a "reciprocity club" where the doctrine of patronizing home industry was preached, where the problems of business were discussed, where constructive effort was developed, where a spirit of helpfulness was promoted, and, most of all, where social contact was established and a mutual friendliness between neighbors created.

The town might be any of a hundred towns in the northwest or elsewhere, for the situation described is not novel. Neither is the cure prescribed, new, for it has been applied many times. But the author, Clarence Dubuque, a young Portland man, tells his little story in a way that cannot help but make an impression upon the man of business.

The old theory that business is a cold blooded matter and that the rule of every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost governs success is giving way in a new business philosophy, one that recognizes the value and the resultfulness of sentiment and that puts a premium upon the reciprocity of helpfulness.—East Oregonian.

RECIPROCITY. THERE has reached our desk a little booklet entitled, "As Man to Man," neatly bound, containing no advertisements and requiring but ten minutes for the reading. It is one man's story of his heart-breaking efforts to win success in an industrial enterprise and of the failure of his efforts until he discovered that what he had done was the same thing that had failed his business—a lack of friendliness between business men and their failure to support each other.

The story tells of a transformation wrought through the organization of a "reciprocity club" where the doctrine of patronizing home industry was preached, where the problems of business were discussed, where constructive effort was developed, where a spirit of helpfulness was promoted, and, most of all, where social contact was established and a mutual friendliness between neighbors created.

The town might be any of a hundred towns in the northwest or elsewhere, for the situation described is not novel. Neither is the cure prescribed, new, for it has been applied many times. But the author, Clarence Dubuque, a young Portland man, tells his little story in a way that cannot help but make an impression upon the man of business.

The old theory that business is a cold blooded matter and that the rule of every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost governs success is giving way in a new business philosophy, one that recognizes the value and the resultfulness of sentiment and that puts a premium upon the reciprocity of helpfulness.—East Oregonian.

RECIPROCITY. THERE has reached our desk a little booklet entitled, "As Man to Man," neatly bound, containing no advertisements and requiring but ten minutes for the reading. It is one man's story of his heart-breaking efforts to win success in an industrial enterprise and of the failure of his efforts until he discovered that what he had done was the same thing that had failed his business—a lack of friendliness between business men and their failure to support each other.

The story tells of a transformation wrought through the organization of a "reciprocity club" where the doctrine of patronizing home industry was preached, where the problems of business were discussed, where constructive effort was developed, where a spirit of helpfulness was promoted, and, most of all, where social contact was established and a mutual friendliness between neighbors created.

The town might be any of a hundred towns in the northwest or elsewhere, for the situation described is not novel. Neither is the cure prescribed, new, for it has been applied many times. But the author, Clarence Dubuque, a young Portland man, tells his little story in a way that cannot help but make an impression upon the man of business.

The old theory that business is a cold blooded matter and that the rule of every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost governs success is giving way in a new business philosophy, one that recognizes the value and the resultfulness of sentiment and that puts a premium upon the reciprocity of helpfulness.—East Oregonian.

RECIPROCITY. THERE has reached our desk a little booklet entitled, "As Man to Man," neatly bound, containing no advertisements and requiring but ten minutes for the reading. It is one man's story of his heart-breaking efforts to win success in an industrial enterprise and of the failure of his efforts until he discovered that what he had done was the same thing that had failed his business—a lack of friendliness between business men and their failure to support each other.

The story tells of a transformation wrought through the organization of a "reciprocity club" where the doctrine of patronizing home industry was preached, where the problems of business were discussed, where constructive effort was developed, where a spirit of helpfulness was promoted, and, most of all, where social contact was established and a mutual friendliness between neighbors created.

The town might be any of a hundred towns in the northwest or elsewhere, for the situation described is not novel. Neither is the cure prescribed, new, for it has been applied many times. But the author, Clarence Dubuque, a young Portland man, tells his little story in a way that cannot help but make an impression upon the man of business.

The old theory that business is a cold blooded matter and that the rule of every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost governs success is giving way in a new business philosophy, one that recognizes the value and the resultfulness of sentiment and that puts a premium upon the reciprocity of helpfulness.—East Oregonian.

RECIPROCITY. THERE has reached our desk a little booklet entitled, "As Man to Man," neatly bound, containing no advertisements and requiring but ten minutes for the reading. It is one man's story of his heart-breaking efforts to win success in an industrial enterprise and of the failure of his efforts until he discovered that what he had done was the same thing that had failed his business—a lack of friendliness between business men and their failure to support each other.

The story tells of a transformation wrought through the organization of a "reciprocity club" where the doctrine of patronizing home industry was preached, where the problems of business were discussed, where constructive effort was developed, where a spirit of helpfulness was promoted, and, most of all, where social contact was established and a mutual friendliness between neighbors created.

The town might be any of a hundred towns in the northwest or elsewhere, for the situation described is not novel. Neither is the cure prescribed, new, for it has been applied many times. But the author, Clarence Dubuque, a young Portland man, tells his little story in a way that cannot help but make an impression upon the man of business.

The old theory that business is a cold blooded matter and that the rule of every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost governs success is giving way in a new business philosophy, one that recognizes the value and the resultfulness of sentiment and that puts a premium upon the reciprocity of helpfulness.—East Oregonian.

RECIPROCITY. THERE has reached our desk a little booklet entitled, "As Man to Man," neatly bound, containing no advertisements and requiring but ten minutes for the reading. It is one man's story of his heart-breaking efforts to win success in an industrial enterprise and of the failure of his efforts until he discovered that what he had done was the same thing that had failed his business—a lack of friendliness between business men and their failure to support each other.

The story tells of a transformation wrought through the organization of a "reciprocity club" where the doctrine of patronizing home industry was preached, where the problems of business were discussed, where constructive effort was developed, where a spirit of helpfulness was promoted, and, most of all, where social contact was established and a mutual friendliness between neighbors created.

The town might be any of a hundred towns in the northwest or elsewhere, for the situation described is not novel. Neither is the cure prescribed, new, for it has been applied many times. But the author, Clarence Dubuque, a young Portland man, tells his little story in a way that cannot help but make an impression upon the man of business.

Punchettes

Rev. M. A. Matthews

WORK TO BE DONE

SIN on every side is growing bolder, and the very delusion contained in the statement, "The world is growing better," is of satanic origin, and is for the purpose of putting to sleep the forces of righteousness.

Human nature is incapable of moral improvement by any human process known to mankind. The only thing within the power of God that can change human nature is regeneration. Regeneration cannot effect its character. Regeneration must precede reformation. Those who have been regenerated are of course growing better; they are improving; they are progressing; they are growing more Godlike.

The good are getting better, but the bad are getting worse. The unregenerated, the unconverted, the unrepentant are more skilled, subtle, and powerful in the practices of the world.

The corrupt are becoming more scientific in their corruption, and more determined to practice corruption.

The fact of salvation. There would be no salvation if we were not lost. You can't save something that hasn't been lost.

The stubborn fact of depraved, lost human nature. This great entity known as sinful man cannot be improved by external processes; he cannot be redeemed by education or evolution. He can be saved only by the regenerating act of the Holy Ghost.

It is the duty of the church and of every minister of the gospel to preach the awfulness of sin, the absolute certainty and power of salvation, the judgment that awaits the unrepentant, and to denounce with all the power possible the heinous delusion that the world is growing better.

The greatest virtue is not the freedom from faults but the strength, the will, the courage, the character to overcome them.

Among the commonest classification of human faults are cruelty, constant nagging, fault-finding and selfishness. These make disagreeable men and disagreeable men make a disagreeable world.

Life is what you make it and you make it as you think it.

The first symptom of fault infection is to be unaware of its presence. Cheerfulness, ambition, sincerity, and brotherly feeling are the best medicines—and sweet cures.

One fault never justifies another. Some faults indulged in are merely the keys that open the gates to permit greater faults to enter. A selfish fault has no excuse and deserves no pardon. Do not excuse your faults while good men attempt to get rid of them.

The foolish man's fault is the wise man's lesson. The weak man who tries to justify his faults by pointing to the goodness of a neighbor is like the slave that reminded the master that it had a hole in its head.

Nothing is worth being named a fault except that which injures yourself or harms your helpfulness to others. He who was pious—disgrace yourself carefully—seek out your fault and get rid of it.

The story tells of a transformation wrought through the organization of a "reciprocity club" where the doctrine of patronizing home industry was preached, where the problems of business were discussed, where constructive effort was developed, where a spirit of helpfulness was promoted, and, most of all, where social contact was established and a mutual friendliness between neighbors created.

The town might be any of a hundred towns in the northwest or elsewhere, for the situation described is not novel. Neither is the cure prescribed, new, for it has been applied many times. But the author, Clarence Dubuque, a young Portland man, tells his little story in a way that cannot help but make an impression upon the man of business.

The old theory that business is a cold blooded matter and that the rule of every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost governs success is giving way in a new business philosophy, one that recognizes the value and the resultfulness of sentiment and that puts a premium upon the reciprocity of helpfulness.—East Oregonian.

RECIPROCITY. THERE has reached our desk a little booklet entitled, "As Man to Man," neatly bound, containing no advertisements and requiring but ten minutes for the reading. It is one man's story of his heart-breaking efforts to win success in an industrial enterprise and of the failure of his efforts until he discovered that what he had done was the same thing that had failed his business—a lack of friendliness between business men and their failure to support each other.

The story tells of a transformation wrought through the organization of a "reciprocity club" where the doctrine of patronizing home industry was preached, where the problems of business were discussed, where constructive effort was developed, where a spirit of helpfulness was promoted, and, most of all, where social contact was established and a mutual friendliness between neighbors created.

The town might be any of a hundred towns in the northwest or elsewhere, for the situation described is not novel. Neither is the cure prescribed, new, for it has been applied many times. But the author, Clarence Dubuque, a young Portland man, tells his little story in a way that cannot help but make an impression upon the man of business.

The old theory that business is a cold blooded matter and that the rule of every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost governs success is giving way in a new business philosophy, one that recognizes the value and the resultfulness of sentiment and that puts a premium upon the reciprocity of helpfulness.—East Oregonian.

RECIPROCITY. THERE has reached our desk a little booklet entitled, "As Man to Man," neatly bound, containing no advertisements and requiring but ten minutes for the reading. It is one man's story of his heart-breaking efforts to win success in an industrial enterprise and of the failure of his efforts until he discovered that what he had done was the same thing that had failed his business—a lack of friendliness between business men and their failure to support each other.

The story tells of a transformation wrought through the organization of a "reciprocity club" where the doctrine of patronizing home industry was preached, where the problems of business were discussed, where constructive effort was developed, where a spirit of helpfulness was promoted, and, most of all, where social contact was established and a mutual friendliness between neighbors created.

The town might be any of a hundred towns in the northwest or elsewhere, for the situation described is not novel. Neither is the cure prescribed, new, for it has been applied many times. But the author, Clarence Dubuque, a young Portland man, tells his little story in a way that cannot help but make an impression upon the man of business.

The old theory that business is a cold blooded matter and that the rule of every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost governs success is giving way in a new business philosophy, one that recognizes the value and the resultfulness of sentiment and that puts a premium upon the reciprocity of helpfulness.—East Oregonian.

RECIPROCITY. THERE has reached our desk a little booklet entitled, "As Man to Man," neatly bound, containing no advertisements and requiring but ten minutes for the reading. It is one man's story of his heart-breaking efforts to win success in an industrial enterprise and of the failure of his efforts until he discovered that what he had done was the same thing that had failed his business—a lack of friendliness between business men and their failure to support each other.

The story tells of a transformation wrought through the organization of a "reciprocity club" where the doctrine of patronizing home industry was preached, where the problems of business were discussed, where constructive effort was developed, where a spirit of helpfulness was promoted, and, most of all, where social contact was established and a mutual friendliness between neighbors created.

The town might be any of a hundred towns in the northwest or elsewhere, for the situation described is not novel. Neither is the cure prescribed, new, for it has been applied many times. But the author, Clarence Dubuque, a young Portland man, tells his little story in a way that cannot help but make an impression upon the man of business.

The old theory that business is a cold blooded matter and that the rule of every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost governs success is giving way in a new business philosophy, one that recognizes the value and the resultfulness of sentiment and that puts a premium upon the reciprocity of helpfulness.—East Oregonian.

RECIPROCITY. THERE has reached our desk a little booklet entitled, "As Man to Man," neatly bound, containing no advertisements and requiring but ten minutes for the reading. It is one man's story of his heart-breaking efforts to win success in an industrial enterprise and of the failure of his efforts until he discovered that what he had done was the same thing that had failed his business—a lack of friendliness between business men and their failure to support each other.

The story tells of a transformation wrought through the organization of a "reciprocity club" where the doctrine of patronizing home industry was preached, where the problems of business were discussed, where constructive effort was developed, where a spirit of helpfulness was promoted, and, most of all, where social contact was established and a mutual friendliness between neighbors created.

The town might be any of a hundred towns in the northwest or elsewhere, for the situation described is not novel. Neither is the cure prescribed, new, for it has been applied many times. But the author, Clarence Dubuque, a young Portland man, tells his little story in a way that cannot help but make an impression upon the man of business.

The old theory that business is a cold blooded matter and that the rule of every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost governs success is giving way in a new business philosophy, one that recognizes the value and the resultfulness of sentiment and that puts a premium upon the reciprocity of helpfulness.—East Oregonian.

RECIPROCITY. THERE has reached our desk a little booklet entitled, "As Man to Man," neatly bound, containing no advertisements and requiring but ten minutes for the reading. It is one man's story of his heart-breaking efforts to win success in an industrial enterprise and of the failure of his efforts until he discovered that what he had done was the same thing that had failed his business—a lack of friendliness between business men and their failure to support each other.

The story tells of a transformation wrought through the organization of a "reciprocity club" where the doctrine of patronizing home industry was preached, where the problems of business were discussed, where constructive effort was developed, where a spirit of helpfulness was promoted, and, most of all, where social contact was established and a mutual friendliness between neighbors created.

The town might be any of a hundred towns in the northwest or elsewhere, for the situation described is not novel. Neither is the cure prescribed, new, for it has been applied many times. But the author, Clarence Dubuque, a young Portland man, tells his little story in a way that cannot help but make an impression upon the man of business.

The old theory that business is a cold blooded matter and that the rule of every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost governs success is giving way in a new business philosophy, one that recognizes the value and the resultfulness of sentiment and that puts a premium upon the reciprocity of helpfulness.—East Oregonian.

RECIPROCITY. THERE has reached our desk a little booklet entitled, "As Man to Man," neatly bound, containing no advertisements and requiring but ten minutes for the reading. It is one man's story of his heart-breaking efforts to win success in an industrial enterprise and of the failure of his efforts until he discovered that what he had done was the same thing that had failed his business—a lack of friendliness between business men and their failure to support each other.

The story tells of a transformation wrought through the organization of a "reciprocity club" where the doctrine of patronizing home industry was preached, where the problems of business were discussed, where constructive effort was developed, where a spirit of helpfulness was promoted, and, most of all, where social contact was established and a mutual friendliness between neighbors created.

The town might be any of a hundred towns in the northwest or elsewhere, for the situation described is not novel. Neither is the cure prescribed, new, for it has been applied many times. But the author, Clarence Dubuque, a young Portland man, tells his little story in a way that cannot help but make an impression upon the man of business.

Wednesday Forenoon U. S. History, Writing (Penmanship), Map Drawing.

Wednesday Afternoon Physiology, Reading, Manual Training, Composition, Domestic Science, Methods in Reading, Course of Study for Drawing, Methods in Arithmetic.

Thursday Forenoon Arithmetic, History of Education, Psychology, Methods in Geography, Mechanical Drawing, Domestic Art, Course of Study for Domestic Art.

Thursday Afternoon Grammar, Geography, Stenography, American Literature, Physics, Typewriting, Methods in Language, Thesis for Primary Certificate.

Friday Forenoon Theory and Practice, Orthography, (Spelling), Physical Geography, English Literature, Chemistry.

Friday Afternoon School Law, Geology, Algebra, Civil Government.

Saturday Forenoon Geometry, Botany.

Saturday Afternoon General History, Bookkeeping. J. A. CHURCHILL, Supt. Public Instruction.

NOTICE OF ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING. Notice is hereby given to the legal voters of School District No. One, of Morrow County, State of Oregon, that the Annual School Meeting of said District will be held at Council Chambers, Heppner, to begin at the hour of 2:30 o'clock p. m. on the third day of June, being the 18th day of June, A. D. 1923.

This meeting is called for the purpose of electing one Director to serve for three years and Clerk to serve for one year, and the transaction of business usual at such meeting.

Dated this 2nd day of May, 1923. W. A. MAHONEY, Chairman Board of Directors. VAWTER CRAWFORD, District Clerk.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION. Department of the Interior. U. S. LAND OFFICE at La Grande, Oregon, May 26, 1923.

NOTICE is hereby given that George R. Pearson, of Lena, Oregon, who on March 12, 1920, made Additional Homestead Entry, No. 018123, for Lot 1, Section 31, Township 1 South, Range 29 East, W. M. SE4, SE4 Section 25, Township 1 South, Range 29 East, W. M. SE4, SE4 Section 33, SW4SW4, Section 34, Township 3 South, Range 29 East, Willamette Meridian, has filed notice of intention to make three-year proof, to establish claim to the land above described, before United States Commissioner, at Heppner, Oregon, on the 17th day of July, 1923.

Claimant names as witnesses: F. J. Hiatt, John Keegan, Jas. Higgins, F. M. Duncan, all of Lena, Oregon. CARL G. HELM, Register.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned executrix of the estate of James L. Seaton, deceased, has filed her final account as such executrix and that the County Court of the State of Oregon for Morrow County has appointed Monday, the 2nd day of July, 1923, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day as the time, and the County Court room in the Court House at Heppner, Oregon, as the place, for hearing and settlement of said final account. Objections to said final account must be filed on or before the 17th day of July, 1923.

Claimant names as witnesses: F. J. Hiatt, John Keegan, Jas. Higgins, F. M. Duncan, all of Lena, Oregon. CARL G. HELM, Register.

NOTICE OF SHERIFF'S SALE UNDER FORECLOSURE. By virtue of an execution and order of sale issued by the Clerk of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, dated May 24, 1923, in a certain suit in the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Morrow County, wherein Agnes Hynd, plaintiff, recovered judgment against E. K. Wyland, Ora M. Wyland, his wife, and E. K. Wyland, administrator of the estate of J. H. Wyland, deceased, for $1,000.00 with interest thereon at the rate of eight per cent per annum from the 1st day of July, 1921, for costs and disbursements of said suit taxed and allowed at $25.50 and a further order that the real property mortgaged to secure payment of said judgment be sold as by law provided: Notice is hereby given that I will on Saturday, the 23rd day of June, 1923, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the front door of the Court House in Heppner, Oregon, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash in hand, the following described real property situated in Morrow County, Oregon, to-wit:

The Northeast quarter of Section 7 in Township 5 south, Range 25 E. W. M., same being the real property mortgaged by defendants to secure payment of said judgment and ordered sold by the court for that purpose. Dated this 24th day of May, 1923. GEORGE McDUFFEE, Sheriff.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE STATE OF OREGON FOR MORROW COUNTY. William Hill, Plaintiff, vs. Anna Hill, Defendant.

SUMMONS. You are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint of the plaintiff herein, filed against you in the above entitled court and cause, within six weeks from the date of first publication of this summons; and if you fail to so appear and answer said complaint for want thereof, the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in his complaint, which is as follows, to-wit: That the bonds of matrimony now and heretofore existing between the plaintiff and the defendant be dissolved and forever held for naught, and the plaintiff have an absolute divorce from the defendant.

This summons is served upon you by publication thereof once a week for six consecutive weeks in The Gazette-Times, a weekly newspaper, printed and published at Heppner, Oregon, by order of Hon. William T. Campbell, County Judge of Morrow County, State of Oregon, made and entered on the 18th day of May, 1923. The date of first publication of this summons is May 24, 1923.

WOODSON & SWECK, Attorneys for Plaintiff. Address, Heppner, Oregon.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION. Department of the Interior. U. S. LAND OFFICE at La Grande, Oregon, May 19, 1923.

NOTICE is hereby given that William Pleiss, of Heppner, Oregon, who on January 13, 1920, made Additional Homestead Entry, No. 017647, for S4NW4, SW4, W4SE4, Section 32, Township 3 south, Range 28 east, Willamette Meridian, has filed notice of intention to make three-year proof, to establish claim to the land above described, before United States Commissioner, at Heppner, Oregon, on the 12th day of July, 1923.

Claimant names as witnesses: Sherman Shaw, Joe Robbins, Mrs. Ida

WARNINGS. THE world is full of pitfalls that a feller should avoid, and the sucker that detects 'em has to keep his wits employed.—Then it's right to lend a warnin' to our unsuspectin' young, which art to come impressive from a feller that's been stung.

If you run across a sniper with a bunch of oily stock—refer him to yer enemy, that's jest around the block,—for he has no objection to the way a fortune's made, and you wouldn't want to do a thing that's in restraint of trade!

In gineas, I would advocate remainin' home of nights, for there's many a fool distraction, when you're out a-seenin' sights,—I wouldn't want to stray away—a mile or so from camp,—it's mighty nigh a Waterloo, to run across a vamp!

Dexter, H. M. Youem, all of Heppner, Oregon. CARL G. HELM, Register.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been duly appointed by the County Court of the State of Oregon for Morrow County, administrator of the estate of R. E. Jones, deceased, and all persons having claims against the estate of said deceased are hereby required to present the same with proper vouchers, to the said administrator at the law office of Jos. J. Nys, at Heppner, Oregon, within six months from the date hereof.

Dated this 10th day of May, 1923. C. N. JONES, Administrator.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION. Department of the Interior. U. S. Land Office at La Grande, Oregon, May 12, 1923.

NOTICE is hereby given that James Higgins, of Lena, Oregon, who on March 8, 1920, made Additional Homestead Entry No. 017234, for W4NW4, W4SW4, Section 8, and on May 24, 1921, made Additional Homestead Entry, No. 016974, for SENW4, NE4SW4, Section 32, Township 1 South, Range 29 East, Willamette Meridian, has filed notice of intention to make three-year proof to establish claim to the land above described, before United States Commissioner, at Heppner, Oregon, on the 5th day of July, 1923.

Claimant names as witnesses: John Keegan, Phil Hirt, George Pearson, John Healey, all of Lena, Oregon. CARL G. HELM, Register.

Mary A. Hein, Plaintiff, vs. C. E. Hein and Henry Dayton, Defendants.

SUMMONS. You are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint of the plaintiff herein filed, against you in the above entitled court and cause, within six weeks from the date of first publication of this summons, and if you fail to so appear and answer said complaint for want thereof, the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in her complaint, which is as follows: That the bonds of matrimony now and heretofore existing between the plaintiff and the defendant, C. E. Hein, be forever dissolved and held for naught, and the plaintiff have an absolute divorce from said defendant.

That the plaintiff be given the custody and control of the minor child, Melvin Hein, aged seven years. That the deed given by the defendant, C. E. Hein to the defendant, Henry Dayton, be held void and of no effect.

Dated this 3rd day of May, 1923. CLAUDE C. CHICK, Executor.

SUMMONS. In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon.

Gilliam & Bisbee's Column. A full car load of Poultry supplies just arrived.

Anything and everything for the chicken in stock.

A flash light on a dark night is a necessity. None better than the Winchester. We have all styles and sizes.

Who said the roosters were crowing and the hens cackling over the Poultry Supplies to be had at Gilliam & Bisbee.

Water turns the wheel. Money turns the business. We have the business it don't turn. Creditors please take notice.

Gilliam & Bisbee

FOR BETTER WALLS & CEILINGS

The old house looks young again. Our new Plasterboard made it. Good for old walls and ceilings.

"Materially yours" TUM-A-LUM

HEPPNER LEXINGTON IONE

made in the West-- HARDEMAN Better Hats for Men

DAVID A. WILSON EVERYTHING IN MEN'S FURNISHINGS Heppner Oregon

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION. Department of the Interior. U. S. LAND OFFICE at La Grande, Oregon, May 19, 1923.

NOTICE is hereby given that William Pleiss, of Heppner, Oregon, who on January 13, 1920, made Additional Homestead Entry, No. 017647, for S4NW4, SW4, W4SE4, Section 32,