MORROW COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER Foreign Advertising Representative THE AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

Richard Lloyd Jones Says: LEADERSHIP.

SENIOR classes in all the colleges and high schools are now on what might be called the home stretch of their academic careers. After their concluding these examinations and celebrations they face the world; they confront a world that needs men and women trained in mind and body; but they confront a world which needs leaders.

Every business enterprise, every political party in town, county, state or nation, every political and economic leader, every branch of scientific endeavor and every religious movement looks to a leader.

Many a student before he reaches his senior year has learned how to concentrate and apply his own mind; he has learned how to acquire; he has learned how to do all this and be a pathetic failure in the world. High class-room standing never made a man great. That which does make a man great is the power to give others power.

Just to think out an idea will never advance the idea. Not until you have thought out and then thought out the idea have you made a contribution to the world. Columbus could not prove in Spain that the world was round. To do this he had to take disbelievers with him and with them fight the vast seas.

Hard thought out the idea of world creation and evolution as he observed the sluggish forms of lower life on the treacherous banks of the Amazon. But he spent a decade to convince himself that he had found a truth; then he fought through a fall and busy life to convince the world that the truth he found was of use to the world.

Resolve to do something, then find something to do. If it be something new make it of use to many. By doing you take your place among the leaders of men. If it be something old and tried that you do, do it better than it was ever done before, and by so doing show others how best to do it. Then again you lead. Both your name and your labors will endure beyond those of temporal heroes, who triumph only in the selfish successes of the hour.

Translate your information into inspiration and aspiration. So equipped go to it. Do and then you win.

--- CALVIN COOLIDGE—PRESIDENT.

CALVIN COOLIDGE has the complete confidence and unqualified support of the American people in taking up the heavy duties and burdens of the office of President of the United States. This confidence is based upon President Coolidge's private character and public record.

President Harding had no one who gave him more unselfish loyalty or faithful service. During his Vice Presidency, Mr. Coolidge regarded Mr. Harding as his chief and leader in the fullest and finest sense of those terms. His sincerity was constantly evidenced in the active, tireless work he performed in support of the administration.

Mr. Coolidge was the first Vice President who occupied a seat in the cabinet. President Harding's decision to make Vice President Coolidge one of his official family, in fact as well as theory, was evidence of the high regard the President entertained for Mr. Coolidge's judgment. In view of the tragic occurrences, this act of President Harding's seems providential. President Coolidge now assumes the responsibilities of the chief executive with an intimate knowledge of the problems of the nation and policies of the administration.

President Coolidge's ability in this emergency to inspire confidence and give reassurance is due not only to his temperance and attainment, but also to his long and successful experience in public positions of great responsibility and authority. He is admirably equipped for the great task confronting him. He comes from sturdy American stock which loved their home, their country and their God. His ancestry, like himself, were of the soil; plain people of democratic instincts and ideals. He possesses the fine qualities of thrift, industry, rugged integrity, a keen sense of justice and fairness, a tremendous capacity for work, the ability to make decisions after due counsel and deliberation, and the firmness necessary to make them effective.

Poem by Uncle John

Only a little courtesy—that didn't cost a cent—a thing I've carried with me nearly everywhere I've went. . . I know I didn't use it when I could, as well as not—it's a powerful lame confession, but—blame it—I forgot!

Only a little courtesy—but there ain't no nobler debt,—which we better pay it promptly, or we're firtin' with regret. . . for, to slight a fellow-mortals is to ding a pizen dart, either thoughtless or a purpose—it is sure to strike the heart!

Only a little courtesy—an' yet, how much it means, in its intimate relation to the way affection leans. . . It's a mighty happy challenge at the sentry-post of love, if we'd tattle in the spirit of the angels in above!

VOCATIONAL TRAINING.

VOCATIONAL training is imperative! If the economic life of this country is to be changed for the better the boys and girls must be technically trained. Every boy should be required to master a trade in the old days we had the system of apprenticeship. Some of the greatest technicians the country has ever had were trained as apprentices. That day has passed. Cruel and tyrannical. The public schools of the country are rendering an inestimable service to the country when they insist on vocational training. Boys and girls should be equipped with trades in order that they may enter life prepared not only to support themselves, but also to become valuable contributing citizens.

There are 42,000,000 people in the United States who are reported by the Census as gainfully employed. Suppose they had a technical training? Certainly that technical training would add at least 10 cents a day to their wages, which would be $4,200,000 daily to the pay-roll of America, or $1,260,000,000 annually to the pay-roll of these people.

Force vocational training upon the boys and girls who drop out of school. Equip them for life. Give them a trade. America needs them.

Lutverne Van Marter and Lloyd Hutchinson left for the mountains Monday to spend a few days in quest of the elusive buck.
