

Dozen Shows at Pacific International

An exposition is a collection of shows, more or less related by nature.

The Pacific International Live Stock Exposition, held at Portland, Oregon, Nov. 3-10, has drawn under its awning a dozen of them, and there is interest for everybody in some of them.

It has a beef cattle show of great size. Its dairy cattle show is second to none anywhere in numbers and quality.

The sheep and goat show is regarded by experts as on a par with any like show in America.

The hog show has always been excellent, and this year will be bigger than ever.

The draft horse show is representative, with five breeds of heavy horses and jacks.

The Western winter poultry and rabbit show attracts thousands of interested spectators.

The Western dairy products show is the least spectacular and one of the most important.

The boys' and girls' clubs make a show that is the outcome of work destined to make this country a better place to live in.

The Land Products show, with its fruits and vegetables, grains and grasses, county and other exhibits, is one of the splendid features of the Exposition.

The latest show to come to the Pacific International is the fine Northwest Grain and Hay show, hitherto held in Pendleton.

The Industrial Exhibits department affords a show that for beauty and value would be hard to surpass.

The Night Horse show is one of the four great horse shows in the United States.

It is brilliant, exciting and delightful. Horses are coming from the Eastern states this year to show their paces in the arena and struggle for the big prizes offered.

One kind of a show isn't at the Pacific International, and never will be—the gambling concessions and other questionable amusements that rob children and sometimes grown people and leave nothing but a bad taste.

The Exposition does not need that kind of show.

Eastern Oregon Men Play U. of O. Football

University of Oregon, Eugene, Oct. 16.—Jens Terjesen, Dwight French and Edwin Kirtley of Pendleton; Theodore Mays of Joseph and Ogden Mills of Prineville, are Eastern Oregon men on the University of Oregon first team squad which meets the Whitman aggregation in Pendleton October 19.

Terjesen, varsity halfback, has shown remarkable ability under Coach "Shy" Huntington's tutelage. Consistent hard work has made him a wonder at interconference.

French, candidate for fullback, has been "on the shelf" with a bad leg but returned last Wednesday for practice. His injuries have retarded his training but he will undoubtedly play at some backfield position in the Oregon-Whitman game.

Kirtley who has been laid up with a bad shoulder has again turned out for practice. He is a candidate for a backfield position and Huntington declares that he is improving rapidly and will be a valuable man before the season is over.

Mays is a candidate for end, and if he does not make the varsity, he will be a valuable substitute.

Mills, according to Huntington, is one of the fastest men on the team. He plays guard and is going strong for a new man. Mills played backfield on last year's freshman team.

Farm Pointers From O. A.C. Experiment Station

80 Pounds Best Lamb Weight.

The ideal fat lamb weighs about eighty pounds. Lambs that are much heavier will not bring as good a price on the market as the smaller lambs and when they get up to ninety or a hundred pounds the cut in price is usually very heavy regardless of the condition and quality.

Feeding one pound of grain a day and all the alfalfa hay they will eat, lambs should gain a quarter of a pound a day. The lambs should be fat and weigh eighty to eighty-five pounds when sold.

Plowing Hits Crown Borer.

By plowing up old strawberry fields of three years of age or more, crown borer and root weevil infestation can be remedied, according to A. L. Lovett, entomologist of the Oregon experiment station.

The ground should be worked well and if practical planted to fall grain. New strawberry fields should occupy other soil not recently in strawberries. They will produce profitably for three years when they should be plowed up again and followed by a three year rotation of crops.

At least one of these should be a cultivated crop. Plowing up seems to be the only remedy for crown borer and root weevil infestation.

Oregon-O. A. C. Game Will Be Next Month

University of Oregon, Eugene, Oct. 16.—With the appointment of Hadden Rockbey as chairman of the Homecoming committee, plans are under way for the celebration of the annual alumni reunion on the University of Oregon campus, Nov. 23 and 24. A high point of this year's Homecoming will be the annual Oregon-O. A. C. football game to be played on Hayward Field on the afternoon of Nov. 24.

The annual student parade, rally and campus bonfire will feature the program Nov. 23. The following morning will be devoted to alumni gatherings and the annual business meeting of grads and former students. In the evening the Homecoming dance will be held.

Chairman Rockbey was appointed by Claude Robinson, president of the Associated Students. Rockbey served on the student council last year and has played on the varsity basketball team two years.

The appointment of members of the committee to serve with the chairman will be announced this week.

In addition to alumni and former students who will come to the campus, there will be hundreds of football fans who are interested in seeing the Oregon-O. A. C. game. The largest crowd in the history of the annual celebration is expected this year.
