when Christmas is a life and not a day; when it is an abiding spirit and not a one day in the year manifestation; when it is conduct and not a seeming; when it is a habit and not an exertion; when it is something within us and not without.

Christmas is coming when at all times we love to give more than we love to get; when we love to serve at least as much as we love to be served.

Christmas is coming when not only some homes but all homes are happy; when the spirit of good cheer binds all homes in its wonderful, warm and inclusive radiance and good homes are no longer bound within themselves.

Christmas is coming when all children can play; when all homes are sunny and warm; when all tables are spread with bounty; when all stockings are full.

Christmas is coming when our associated charities will no longer have to dispense dolls to the little daughters of drunken fathers; when men are not allowed to grow rich by robbing children and mothers; by demoralizing weak fathers and husbands;

Christmas is coming when men are brave enough and true enough to help their brothers stand up soldier-like and fight the sordid powers that seek their selfish pots of gold by bringing men to shame and women and children to suffering and want.

Christmas is coming when we allow no one to capitalize human weaknesses to beggar the individual and debauch public moral

Christmas is coming when every laborer can look forward to an old age without fear; when widowed mothers do not have to live in dread lest some "benevolent" asylum will rob her of her children.

Christmas is coming when judges look for justice and not for loopholes and petty technical errors in the law.

Christmas is coming when men seek not to take unfair advantage one of another but dwell in harmony, learning to love one another as He urges us to do; when men no longer suffer commercialized gambling places; when men no longer, with sunken eye and fevered brain, clutch at each other's throats for gold; when stony faces no longer sneer at breaking hearts; when men are no longer set adrift on the waters of misery by fickle fortune; when their wailing voices are no longer lost in the rumbling roar of greed.

Christmas is coming when frail human moths are no longer ured to flutter about false lights and drop at last, burned and bruised, on the cold gray stones of dissipation.

Christmas is coming when women no longer let themselves drift easily down the riven of foolish fashion which has its end in the sea of unrest and where the false god of envy waits.

Christmas is coming when we grow tolerant; when our wasting jealousies are woven into love and helpfulness.

Christmas is coming when democracy is within rather than without our churches; when we follow the Master and not some sectarian interpreter of the Master; when all our churches grow strong through simple sincerity and as He would have us, become one in His name.

When every man is at his best every day in the year and not just one day in the year, when we LIVE as Christ taught us to live, then will Christmas come.
