Sportsmen's Show To Be at Portland

Attraction Will Follow Automobile Exposition: To Feature Sports of All-Oregon.

Every community in the state is invited to participate in a comprehensive exposition showing the outdoor life and sports of Oregon, which is to be held in the Portland City Auditorium on February 18th to February 21st, immediately following the Automobile show, and which is being organized by the Multnomah Anglers' and Hunters' Club with the Portland Chamber of Commerce as sponsor. The show will be known as the "Oregon Outdoor Life Exposition" and it is hoped that hereafter it will be an annual event. The object is not only to show the outdoor recreational advantages of Oregon to the outside world but also to educate the people of Oregon as to the scenic attractions and opportunities for sport of every kind that are to be found within their own state. It is hoped to create in the minds of all Oregonians a state pride and to give them a better appreciation of the attractiveness of the land they live in. No exhibits will be accepted from without the state.

The entire auditorium has been rented and both spaces will be set apart for the various exhibitors, which will include the United States biological survey, Oregon state game commission, rod and gun clubs throughout the state, game and fish conservation organizations and sports goods dealers.

There will be a wonderful display of live and stuffed animals and birds by the biological survey, which will devote special attention to demonstrating the work of its predatory animal exterminators.

The state game commission will have an exhibition live specimens of pheasants, quail, grouse, prairie chickens, deer and maybe bear and elk, as well as a complete showing of live game fish in artificial pools.

One of the great objects of the show it to attract tourists to the state, so everything a visiting sportsman is interested in will receive particular attention in the display. An advisory committee consisting of prominent sportsmen in all sections of the state has been appointed and these committees will have charge of exhibits sent in from outside points. For instance, Grants Pass sportsmen will advertise the Oregon Game and Fish Commission, a great national tourist attraction, and Klamath and Medford committees will probably build a miniature log cabin with a replica in miniature of Crater Lake for a setting, hunting guns, fishing tackle and paraphernalia of golf, football, tennis, baseball and every other sport will be shown. One of the interesting exhibits promised is one that will show Cloud Cap Inn on the side of Mount Hood, with the famed mountain looming in the background. Demonstrations of how skills and snow shoes are used will be made by veteran mountain climbers and guides.

During the exposition there will be continuous entertainment of some kind, including a jivey dance, motion pictures of wild life, band music and the like. On the Auditorium stage there will be an improvised casting pool on which anglers of national reputation will perform. A small imitation of a golf green will also occupy a portion of the stage and leading golfers of the state will show how they drive and putt. Other interesting features almost too numerous to mention are promised.

Following is the advisory committee of the exposition: H. W. Collins, Pendleton; H. J. Fredrick, Hood River; W. E. Meacham, Baker; A. V. Andrews, LaGrande; C. M. Thomas, Medford; E. E. Chadwick, Eugene; L. L. Thomas, Marshfield; J. D. Guthrie, forestry service, Portland; Fred Boat, Portland; L. W. Tullinger, Seaside; J. H. Fuller, Ashland; M. F. Corrigan, McMinnville; Frank Stelmacher, Albany; Floyd Cocker, Roseburg; O. S. Blanchard, Grants Pass; William McNeally, Klamath Falls; Clyde McKay, Bend; D. B. Reavis, Enterprise; A. E. Burghdoff, Portland.

Raw Fur Prices Now Highest of Season

Prices of all raw furs are now the highest of the season and the demand is exceptionally strong, according to a report received from A. B. Shubert, Inc., of Chicago, Ill., the largest house in the world dealing exclusively in American raw furs, whose ad appears elsewhere in this paper. The trapper who gets busy at once and collects the furs will realize big money for his catch. The season is at its height now—furs are at their best and will grade up—and prices are at the peak. "Not in many years have we had a stronger demand," says Shubert. The fur catch to date is far below normal and this condition is responsible for prices being pushed up so high. There is a shortage of all furs. This shortage was caused by restricted trapping in most states. We advise our readers to profit by the big jump in prices. Set all the traps you can—get all the furs you can trap or buy—it will pay every man and boy BIG to get after furs right now. Shubert is also offering $50.00 in cash every day during the fur season for the three best handled shipments of furs received. The first prize is $25; second $15 and third $10. The purpose of the contest is to stimulate interest in the proper handling of raw furs. Everyone has a chance to win a prize. This is one of the oldest and most reliable houses in the fur business and will treat you right. Look their ad over and see the high prices they are quoting. If you do not find prices quoted there for the kind of furs you have, come in and see their complete price list which we have on file in our office. Readers of this paper will doubtless do well to ship all their furs to Shubert. This is one of the oldest and most reliable houses in the fur business and will treat you right.

Fuller Advertising Will Appear Soon

Newspapers reaching a population of 3,500,000 people in nine western states will be used by W. P. Fuller & Co., pioneer paint manufacturers in the company's 1924 advertising campaign, according to an announcement just made by K. L. Hamman, President of Johnston-Ayres Company Advertising Agency. An appropriation providing for an intensive demand-creating and agent-helping advertising campaign has been approved by officials of W. P. Fuller & Co. The first newspaper advertisements will be published in the Heppner Gazette-Times early in the year and will continue throughout 1924. "In a year like 1924," said Mr. Hamman, "the agent and dealer selling a quality line of paint such as manufactured by W. P. Fuller & Co., have found that an intensive advertising campaign, in which paint and varnish specialties for use in the home are featured, materially stimulate sales."
