RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE

Whereas, it has pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from our midst our late sister Mrs. Lillian Censer, and

Whereas the intimate relations long held by our deceased with the members of this Chapter, she having been a Charter Member and Past Worthy Matron, render it proper that we should place on record our appreciation of her services as an Eastern Star and her merits as a sister; therefore be it

Resolved: That these resolutions be entered upon the minutes of this Chapter and that a copy be sent to her nearest relatives, also that they be published in the Gazette-Times.

Second Pioneer Pageant Staged at Walla Walla

Walla Walla, Wash., May 14.—(Special).—Construction of massive scenery on a stage 350 by 1000 feet in dimensions—said to be the largest ever used in American pageantry—began this week in preparation for the second Pioneer Pageant, "How the West Was Won," to be presented May 23 and 29. Paul Copeland of Longview, Wash., architect and designer, will spend the month here erecting the scenery and superintending its erection and redecorating.

The constructed scenery, representing the Blue Mountains of Oregon, will tower 50 feet in the air, will be of sufficient strength to permit pack trains and mounted Indians to ascend to the very top.

The Pageant will cover a period of 30 years, from the arrival of the Lewis and Clark exploration party in 1805 to the building of the first Western railroad in 1815, and the foreground scenery will be characteristic of the various periods. To accomplish this, the scenery will be painted on both sides, and will be hinged to permit almost instantaneous changes.

Thirty-two hundred persons will appear in the pageant.

POTATO BUG CONTROL

The Colorado potato beetle, or common potato bug, is starting its work on potato plants in this season of the year. The easiest time to control it is to get it early. The insect passes the winter in the soil as the adult striped beetle. They appear in the spring just as the potatoes are coming up and feed on the tender leaves of the plants, and after a few days begin depositing eggs. The eggs are laid in masses under the surface of the leaves and the larvae are sluggish, deep reddish in color and feed upon the leaves of the plant. These bugs are easy to control and immediate steps should be taken by all farmers to eradicate them. Spray made by mixing four pounds of powdered calcium or lead arsenate to one hundred gallons of water, will kill them. Paris green mixed at the rate of three pounds to one hundred gallons of water will also control them, but is liable to damage, or burn the plant. Another method is to mix one part of powdered calcium or lead arsenate by weight, to nine parts of air-laked lime and apply as a dust. This can be done by putting the mixture in a sack and shaking it over the plant.

HEARMAN HILL IN TOURNAMENT

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, May 14.—Herman H. Hill of Lexington, freshman in commerce and a member of the artillery unit of the R. O. T. C., will take part in the artillery exhibition at the eleventh annual military tournament to be held in the O. A. C. stadium, May 24. The artillery exhibition will consist of numerous drills showing the proficiency of the men in handling the big guns and the actual firing of guns.

WORROW COUNTY PUPILS WIN IN ESSAY CONTEST

In the recent dental essay contest on the subject, "Our Teeth—A Story of Lightening," Worrow county winners were Nellie Dillen, 5th grade, of Dist. No. 25 at Boardman, and Claudia McMillan, 5th grade, of Dist. No. 12, Lexington. This subject was written on by pupils in the schools over the state, and a prize of ten dollars in cash goes to the winners.

Judge Campbell states that the indications are good for rain within a few days, and we hope he is right. Even a good thunder shower would relieve the suspense and shorten up the many long faces much in evidence these days. Hope you are a good weather prophet, Judge.

Birds and Wild Animals Do Not Carry Disease

An official bulletin of the Oregon State Game Commission gives out the following:

An investigation by Walter F. Taylor, biologist of the Department of Agriculture, and Harold C. Bryant, game expert of the California Fish and Game Commission, with respect to the possibility of birds and wild animals being carriers of the hoof-and-mouth disease germ discloses the fact that it has so far been impossible to check any specific instance where wild birds or wild animals have been carriers of the disease.

It is pointed out that blackbirds because of their habit of feeding in the vicinity of domestic stock, and turkey buzzards which might feed on the carcasses of stock which have died from the disease are the most likely to be carriers of the germ although it has been impossible to determine this to be a fact.

It is considered impossible for migratory birds and particularly waterfowl to carry the germ although certain species of waterfowl such as wild geese, brant and cranes feed extensively in the infected areas of southern California. These birds spend a large portion of their time in the water and this in addition to the fact that fresh air and sunshine are vital enemies of the disease germ makes it practically impossible for these birds to become spreaders of the disease.

The most important recommendation of Professors Taylor and Bryant is the danger of a wider dissemination of the hoof-and-mouth disease would come about if measures were taken looking towards the extermination of their being carriers of the germ. It is pointed out that it is impossible to kill all the birds and that those which were not killed would be so badly frightened that they would spread the disease even more rapidly than if they had been left alone, in which instance they would have remained in the local community. This theory should be particularly true as affecting blackbirds and other local bird residents of the infected areas.

So far no case of the hoof-and-mouth disease has been found north of Stockton and the disease has been limited entirely to southern California sections. With the present disinfecting stations along the state lines and the measures being taken by the state of California to restrict the disease to the present infected areas the possibility of a further spread of the disease seems remote.

DAVIS ON IMMIGRATION

JAMES J. DAVIS, Secretary of Labor, in the Saturday Evening Post: "Daily the political, economic and social problems which confront us are increasing in number, and seriousness. Daily new dangers to American institutions arise about us, new complications develop in our national life. The difficulties of today are greater than those of yesterday, and those of tomorrow will be greater than those of today. To cope with these manifold problems we must have a race of real Americans, strong in body, sound in mind and healthy of soul. On one point I am very clear: We need an immigration law that will operate solely for the benefit of America—America today and America in the future. We are under no obligation, moral or legal, to allow any nation in all the world to say whom we shall accept as citizens of the United States, or even as residents of the United States. Immigration, in the final working out of the problem, is an American issue. It is the right—yes, it is the duty of the United States to protect every American citizen, of today and of tomorrow, from contact with the mental, moral and physical delinquents of the world."

NOTICE TO AUTOISTS.

As the sprinkling season has arrived and it is necessary that Main street be kept clear of cars parked at the curb, notice is hereby served upon all autoists that the ordinance prohibiting the parking of machines between the hours of 12 o'clock midnight and 6 o'clock a. m. is now declared to be in full force and effect, and will be strictly enforced.

By order of the Mayor of the City of Heppner, this 1st day of May, 1924. E. G. NOBLE, Mayor.
