Local Happenings

Walter Crawford of the Heppner Gazette-Times, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. J. V. Crawford, and his daughter, Mary Crawford, and Miss Leora Devin, arrived in Joseph Thursday for a visit with the O. G. Crawfords and to rest their eyes on this famous scenery. Mr. Crawford and the young ladies, in company with Max Wilson, Jean Branson and The Herald man visited Ice Lake Saturday in quest of some of those big eastern brook trout we have been hearing about. It had been planned to fish through the ice but when we got there the ice had all but disappeared and it was not possible to get out to where the big ones pasture. Game Warden Geo. Rogers informs us that a boat is to be put into commission on Ice in a short time and if we can master up courage to climb the hill again, we may land some of those big ones yet.—Joseph Herald.

A small blaze at the home of Spencer Crawford on Monday night caused the turning in of the fire alarm at about 12:30. The fire was at the barn and was evidently caused by some coals that had been dumped into the alley from a stove earlier in the evening. Mike Curran, who was returning home from his place of business discovered the fire just getting under way up the side of the barn, gave the alarm and then assisted in putting out the fire, which was entirely extinguished by the time the fire truck arrived. No damage was done but it might have been a pretty lively fire had it got beyond control of a few buckets of water.

Al Henriksen got home Tuesday from a trip to Pendleton and Walla Walla and other points in eastern Washington. Being interested in alfalfa raising, Mr. Henriksen took note of the alfalfa crops along the way and found nothing that was ahead of the Willow creek valley. People imagine that conditions are just a little worse here than at other points round about, but a trip to the outside will convince one this is not so. Other localities besides ours are up against it and short crops is the general rule.

William J. Furnish died at Portland on Tuesday, June 3rd, cause of death being high blood pressure and heart failure. Mr. Furnish was a well known Umatilla county pioneer, having been sheriff for two terms, and at one time running for governor on the republican ticket. He was also greatly interested in irrigation and was the head of the organization that built the Standfield irrigation project.

Attorney and Mrs. S. E. Van Vactor came up from The Dalles the end of the week, Mr. Van Vactor being called to Heppner to attend to business in the circuit court. On the way to Heppner they had a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Reitmans. Sam, Jr., will spend the summer at the Reitmans farm. Mr. and Mrs. Van Vactor returned home on Tuesday.

Sam Hughes, merchant of Heppner, and a party of friends were irrigon visitors on Decoration Day. They motored on through Hermiston and Butter creek and back to Heppner, having come up the Willow creek road. Mr. Hughes reports wheat still pretty good up around Heppner where farmers have actually farmed their lands.—Boardman Mirror.

Mrs. J. H. Cox, who has been in the Portland Sanitarium for the past three months, receiving treatment, was sufficiently improved in health to return home on Friday last. Mrs. Cox came by train as far as Astington and was met there by her son, W. P. Cox, and her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Ball, who brought her to Heppner by automobile.

Robert and Hugh Dunlap of Prescott, Wash., uncle of ye editor, arrived at Heppner Monday evening from Wallowa county, being on their way to the Willamette valley, where they hope to arrive in time for the pioneer picnic at Brownville. They remained over at Heppner for a day to visit with relatives residing here.

Attorney F. A. McMenamin was up from Portland the first of the week to attend to business in the circuit court, and to look after other matters in which he is interested here. Besides being an attorney, Mr. McMenamin is engaged in the sheep industry and has a big ranch over in the Six Prong section in Washington.

Jos. Hayes, who was in town Tuesday from the Hayes ranch on Big Butter creek, reports that the storm of the past week was rather disastrous to his sheep and he suffered a loss of about 130 head because of the cold rain and snow.

Mrs. Mary D. McHaley, who has been spending the winter and spring at Salem, arrived at Heppner the first of the week and will spend a short time here attending to business affairs and enjoying a visit with relatives and friends.

John Hayes, interested with his son, Jos. Hayes, in the sheep business in this county, arrived from Portland the last of the week and is spending a short time here looking after business.

J. D. French was in from Gurdane on Tuesday and reports plenty of wet weather up in the foot hills the past week. He was making no complaint, however, as the moisture was badly needed.

Judge Gilbert W. Phelps and J. S. Beckwith, court reporter, came over from Pendleton on Sunday to be in attendance at the regular June term of circuit court for Morrow county.

W. W. Stabler and daughter, Miss Blanche Stabler of Portland, were in Heppner on Saturday. Mr. Stabler came to Morrow county to look after a shipment of lambs purchased here.

on left shoulder. Owner can have stock by paying costs. Ralph Jackson, Lexington, Ore.

Walter Luckman, Butter creek stockman, was in Heppner for a short time on Monday. Plenty of rain hit that part of the county in the big storm on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jared Aiken arrived home on Sunday from their honeymoon trip to Victoria, B. C., and other points of interest along the coast.

County Clerk Anderson issued a license to wed on Saturday to Mr. Lacy Esteb and Miss Echo Douglas, both young people of the lone section.

Reid Buseick returned home from Portland the first of the week, driving a new Willys-Knight club sedan, purchased while in the city the past week.

Walt Smith and Ike Howard, business men of lone, were spending a day or so in Heppner the first of the week.

Bob Fitzmaurice of Condon was registered at Hotel Heppner on Sunday.

Attorney F. H. Robinson was in town from lone on Monday, having matters to attend to before the circuit court.

Sherman Wheat Growers Would Quit Association

The Sherman county members of the Oregon Co-operative Wheat Growers' association have voted instructions to their delegates to the annual meeting of the association at Portland to use their influence with the directors toward suspending all activities of the association, until such time as 75 per cent of wheat acreage in Oregon, Washington and Idaho shall be included in a co-operative marketing plan.

These instructions are contingent upon the failure of the McNary-Haugen bill to become a law. If the bill passes no action is to be taken, if it fails to pass, the Sherman county wheat growers want to suspend the work of the association. A. H. Lea, general manager of the Oregon association, told the Sherman county farmers, according to the Moro Observer, that if the McNary-Haugen bill passes and becomes a law, all wheat raisers will be included and there will be a 100 per cent sign-up in co-operative marketing.

To this statement, some Gilliam county growers object, declaring that the passage of the McNary-Haugen bill will make co-operative associations wholly unnecessary. Over 60 growers here have signed a petition requesting and demanding that question of disbanding the Co-operative association be submitted to a vote of the members.

Similar petitions have been in circulation in practically all the wheat growing counties where the association has a membership.

The Sherman county delegates to the annual meeting are V. H. Smith of Wasco, W. S. Powell of Moro, and Fred Krasou of Grass Valley.

The delegates from this district are W. J. Edwards and J. W. Dyer, both of Mayville. At the Moro meeting of the Sherman county members of the association about 100 were present. Here only a few were present, most of the members voting by mail—and some of them not at all.—Condon Globe-Times.
