GOOD WORK, BUDDIES.

AT LAST an old dream is realized. Heppner citizens long ago felt the need of a natatorium for the city, and several times a move was actually made to accomplish its construction...

New the kiddies—and the older people, too—have a good, clean, protected and supervised concrete pool in which they may take a plunge each and every day of the year if they wish.

NO MORE SECRET CONVENTIONS.

POLITICAL reform has taken its greatest forward step through the operation of the radio. No longer can delegates to a convention return to their homes with strange and weird stories, to deceive the home folks regarding their actions and their votes.

ONE of the great issues of the coming campaign will be the railroads, and the country might as well prepare itself for the digestion of first grade propaganda.

WHITE INDIANS IN LOST TRIBE OF PANAMA BUT WHAT MAKES THEM WHITE. QUESTION

AMERICAN EXPLORER BRINGS NEW PEOPLE FROM SAN BLAS COUNTRY WHICH STARTS SCIENTIFIC DISCUSSION

Written especially for The Gazette-Times By Robert Fuller, Thru Associated Service New York, July 16.—Yes. We have white Indians. The question now, however, is: "What makes them white?" Many of the leading scientists in the United States are discussing the subject, peking, prodding, twisting the ears and looking down the throats of three homesick little tots in New York, brought here by Richard O. Marsh, American explorer, who last summer discovered a tribe of 400 in the San Blas country of Panama.

It was not until the very end of the trip, he said, that any white Indians were seen, because the rumor had preceded the party that its object was to take such Indians into captivity and bring them away. Finally, after making friends with an Indian chief of a coastal tribe, and curing him and many others of various ills, he got the opportunity to win the friendship of all the tribes of the region by stamping out two epidemics of smallpox. Then he was allowed to see the white Indians whose presence had always been denied. He persuaded the native chief, if a kinship could be established between the white Indians and the white people of the north. He saw about 400 of these Indians of all ages and photographed about a hundred of them.

Best children in the world. And quite the most bewitched. "The little girl had worn clothes, but neither of the boys had ever worn a strip until I got them," said Mr. Marsh. "I tied a red bandana handkerchief on each. When I got to Columbia I put them in shirts and pants but I had a lot of trouble at first to keep them from undressing right in the hotel, they were so hot and uncomfortable."

Rabbit Poisoning Experiment Proving Success

Experimental rabbit poisoning with strychnine alkaloid being carried on in the lower Willow creek and Boardman sections this week by F. E. Garlow is proving this poison to be very effective. Mr. Garlow is killing as many as 250 to the chance of poison and in some instances as high as 500. Roy Fugate, of the Biological Survey, was also employed in this work this week holding demonstration meetings on the lower Willow creek and Boardman and Irrigon.
