Game on Tuesday Was Hotly Con tested; Heppner Has Challenged Lexington Post-Season Game.

Football fans of both Lexington and Heppner were out in large num-bers at Gentry field on Armistice Day to witness the tussle between the teams of Lexington Hi and Heppner Hi, and they were treated to one of the best exhibitions of football witnessed here in many a long day. The teams had each been training hard for this game, and were determined to put their best efforts into the play-

Fire Destroys House With All Contents

Fire at the McCullough place on Willow creek last Friday morning completely destroyed the residence and all the contents, just a few articles only being saved from the flames.

The place was occupied my Mr. and Mrs. Nels Justus who returned to the place that morning from Heppner. Upon building a fire in the sitting room stove to warm up the house and went out in the field to look after a cow and calf. They had not been gone long when they discovered the house to be in flames. They rushed back and attempted to get in and save some of the furnishings and other valuables they had, but found their way blocked from nearly every side by the rapid spread of the premises at the time, so Mr. Justus had to go to a neighbors to get help. The telephone called help from town, and many neighbors rushed to their assistance as rapidly as possible, but The Christian Endeavor society of

The telephone called help from town, and many neighbors rushed to their assistance as rapidly as possible, but too late to help save the house or any part of the contents.

All of the household effects were destroyed and a small trunk and a rug off the floor was about all that they were able to get out of the house. With the house, some fifteen cords of wood were also burned. The barns, hay shed full of hay and a number of other buildings were in close proximity to the residence, but by hard work the fire was kept from these. It is reported that Mr. and
